Final 'South
Pacific' Performance
Tomorrow

Students Give Hearty Support To The Production Of 'South Pacific'

A scene from Colby's hit production of "South Pacific."

"South Pacific" on the Colby campus has the distinction of being a "first" and perhaps a "last" at the same time. It is the first in the sense that the college has never before witnessed the presentation of a musical written by a non-Colby student. It is the last in the sense that as of March 19, "South Pacific" will be released in New York City as a movie and from then on, all rights to its use will be refused. Colby's performance tomorrow evening will no doubt be the last given before this time by an amateur cast.

Perhaps a successful "South Pacific," will set a precedent for future musicals of this sort. Some students have proven that they are willing to devote all of their free time to such an effort. Equally important is the fact that the remaining student body will back such performances, if the ticket sales are any indication of this.

Behind the scenes of "South Pacific," students worked endlessly in the hopes that the production might be as near perfect as possible. On February 25, the gym was the scene for what might be termed a "set bust." From noon until midnight, Jerry Guiles and Al Fraser, along with their committee members, completed three quarters of the sets necessary for the show. The realistic plot and the imaginative sets are as effective as a contrast to one another.

In order that dress and costumes might be as near authentic as possible.

Eng. Philosopher, Werner Stark To Lecture March 20

Werner Stark, English philosopher, will be the Averill lecturer at Colby on March 20. His subject, "Social Messianism," will deal with the attempt at fusion of humanitarianism and science.

Mr. Stark was born in Marienbad, Czechoslovakia, and became a naturalized British subject in 1947. He has attended the Universities of Hamburg, Prague, London, and Geneva. His degrees include a Dr. rer. pol. from Hamburg, summa cum laude, in 1934; Dr. Juris. from Prague, with distinction in jurisprudence and politics, in 1936; and an M.A. from Edinburgh in 1947. Academic appointments which Mr. Stark has held are lecturer at the Prague School of Political Science, the University of Cambridge, the University of Edinburgh, the University of Basel, and reader at the University of Manchester.

Mr. Stark has published approximately 50 works, including "The Sociology of Catholicism," "Blackfriars," "Capitalism," "Calvinism, and the Rise of Modern Science," and "The Ideal Foundations of Economic Thought."

Progress Is Made Metcalf and Allen In Construction of To Head Women's Classroom Bldg. 1958 Stu. League

The erection of Colby's new classroom building has officially been started. Last October work was begun under the contractor, H. P. Cummings Company from Winthrop, Maine. The approximate cost of this undertaking is $789,000. By spring of 1959 the building is scheduled to be completed.

This new addition to Mayflower Hill is designated as the future social science and humanities building. According to the architectural plans of the Larson & Larson Company from Winston-Salem, North Carolina, it is to be a four storied structure, opposite the Keyes Building, which will contain an auditorium, lecture halls, seminar rooms, and faculty offices where student

Kick-off Dinners Will Start Campaign Fund

The Colby College Fulfillment Program is planning approximately 30 dinners to be held simultaneously on April 16, 1958. This is in the form of a kick-off for the Fulfillment Committee in order to raise money. The general chairman of the program is Leonard W. Mayo, '22, and Mr. Millett and Mr. Turner of the Colby Administration are helping to set up the program. The invitations are extended to all alumni and parents from the president, the trustees of Colby, and the local area committees.

As of now the committee plans to tape with stereophonic sound a thirty minute recording to be produced at each dinner. The record will consist of Mr. Millett introducing a brief speech by Mr. Mayo. Dr. Bixler will then give the key-note speech with accompanying slides of Colby. The record will end with the Colby College Glee Club singing Colbiana.

At each of these dinners, in addition to the recording, there will be a faculty representative to preside over the dinner. The faculty committee, which decided which member will attend which dinner, is headed by Walter Brookbridge. Charleston Brown of WFVU, Waterville, and one or two program directors of the

The dinner at Waterville will be held at the field house and President Bixler will preside in person. There is a committee head assigned to each area, which are sub-committees under Mr. Mayo. The locations of these dinners are as follows:

Connecticut, Fairfield County, Hartford, and New London; District of Columbia, Washington; Maine, Portland, Lewiston, Brunswick, Farmington, Bangor, Dover-Foxcroft, Millinocket, northern Aroostook, southern Aroostook, Augusta, and Waterville; Massachusetts, Boston, Springfield, Worcester, New Bedford, and Lawrence; New Hampshire, Concord; New Jersey, Newark; Pennsylvania, Philadelphia; Rhode Island, Providence; New

Campus Chest Begins Drive This Wednesday Sets $2,000 Goal

Campus Chest will begin on Wednesday, March 12th and last through Saturday the 15th. This year the goal has been set at $2,000. A number of extra events have been added in order to help realize this goal.

The profits this year will go to four groups. The World University Service, which is an international student relief organization, is the first one. It is interdenominational, inter-racial and strictly non-political. Money will also be given to the Newman Fund and the Negro Scholarship Fund. Money that will directly aid this campus will go toward Student Government Scholarships.

B.U. Theologian to Be Guest Speaker At Sunday Service

Dr. Allen Knight Chalmers, professor of preaching and applied Christianity at the Boston University School of Theology, will be the guest speaker at Lorimer Chapel this Sunday morning. He has recently written a book, "That Revolutionary—Christ," which is on display in the Spa.

In this book Dr. Chalmers discusses the practical application of religion to problems of life today. He attacks what he calls "the hopeless lethargy of the conventional good life." He feels that religion is something which can cause ordinary people to become extra ordinary and which makes inescapable demands on man and woman and on society. The world cannot be saved by contented people and there should exist a divine discontent with things as they are, he claims.

Dr. Chalmers graduated from Johns Hopkins University, and after teaching for a time attended Yale Divinity School. He served in the First Church in West Springfield, Mass., and the First Presbyterian Church in Buffalo, N. Y. For 18 years he was minister of the Broadway Tabernacle Congregational Church in New York City. Since 1948 he has held his present position at Boston University.

At B.U. he conducts a seminar in Changing Social Attitude, a case study and project method group using the Boston area as a laboratory. Some of the problems studied are institutional prison reform, prisoner rehabilitation, moral and religious tension, and civil liberties.

Stu G Platforms to Be Presented At College Assembly

Four o'clock, Monday, March 10th is the date set aside for the all-college assembly. At this time the various parties vying for positions as Student Government officers for 1958-1959 will present their platforms. Archie Twitchell, the current president of Student Government will preside over the assembly which will be held in the Women's Union.

At the present time the four parties who have submitted their petitions are the Unique Party; president, Ed Goldberg; vice president, Donald Megathlin; secretary, Judy Colbath; treasurer, Paul Lavender; the reactivation Party; president, Tony Ruvo; vice president, Bob Kopelman; secretary, John Smith; treasurer, Bob Keltio; The Active Party; president, Gary Hagorman; vice president, Ed Tomey; secretary, Barbara Hunter;

York, New York City, Long Island, Westchester, Albany, and Schoenectady; and Vermont, Montpelier.

Campus Chest will begin with tag sales to be conducted in the Spa on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday until noon. Any amount may be given for a donation.

On Friday night the fair will be held in Women's Union from 7:30 until 11:00. An admission of 15 cents will be charged. Clubs, fraternities and sororities will each be in charge of their own booths. Profits from these booths will be donated to Campus Chest. All types of entertainment will be included, from skits to refreshments.

Saturday evening, March 15th will be the date for a new event in Campus Chest. At alternating times, combinations of organizations on campus will give skits in the fraternity houses. Each group is responsible for entertainment and decorations. Skits will start at 7:30 and each house is scheduled to have a half hour skit. The times are staggered up until 12:00, so that one may see one or all of them. A donation of 50 cents will purchase a ticket to obtain admission to any or all of the skits. These tickets will be on sale outside the Spa starting Wednesday, March 12th. Each fraternity house will be open all evening even though skits will be going on in other houses during that time.

Chas. Frankel To Lecture on Tues. March 11, 1958

"The Liberal Attitude on Current Issues" will be the topic of Charles Frankel for the Gabrielson lecture on Tuesday, March 11, at 4 p.m. in the Averill Auditorium in Keyes. Mr. Frankel is a professor of philosophy at Columbia University and the departmental representative to Columbia College.

Mr. Frankel received both his A.B. and his Ph.D. from Columbia. He has been on the faculty of politics at the New School for Social Research and on the faculty at the New York School for social work.

His profession has taken him to many parts of Europe. In 1953-54 he was a Fulbright Professor at the University of Paris, and was a Donnelan Lecturer at Dublin University. He also received a Guggenheim Fellowship for 1953-54. In addition, he has been a guest lecturer at other schools and has been on several committees for social work.

Mr. Frankel has written three books: "The Faith of Reason," "The Bear and the Beaver," and "The Case for Modern Man." In the latter book he discussed such topics as "Liberalism and the Imagination of Disaster," "The Anxiety to Believe," "The Progress of the Human Mind," and "Mr. Tynbee's Transfiguration of History."

Editorial The Vacuous Generation?

In the past few years there has been a rash of discontented and rather aloof criticism and analysis of the present state of American thought and values. Ranging in learnedness from Vance Packard's "The Hidden Persuaders" to Max Lerner's new, very thorough, "America as a Civilization," the consensus seems to be a suggestion of a trend to what David Riesman terms the "outer-directed" man, as opposed to internally idealed, "inner-direction." But the outer-directed man has not merely substituted group for personal ideals, but has lost these personal ideals, and is searching for the principles of the group. This man is left foundering in the midst of a valueless, practically a moral, culture. Surface conformity is the norm, but the underlying roots needed for a stable culture are missing.

Recently, "Life" magazine published some excerpts from a new book, "The Unsilent Generation," which is supposed to be an answer to the charge that our generation is inarticulate. There are parts of seven essays in the article, written by Princeton seniors, which presumably mirror the attitude of the entire generation, including us, safe and secure on Mayflower Hill. "We are the generation of the third eye," writes one of the anonymous young men, "the age of self-consciousness, the age of self-criticism." This is not exactly a positive attitude, nor one which portends an optimistic, creative, and valuable future to which our generation will accede.

One of the authors claims that he is better than the "mediocre masses," whom he despises "because of their apathy and mediocrity." Shortly thereafter, however, he says that he really wants a "stable order of things in which I can work without exposing myself to ruin." (In place of "ruin," perhaps "criticism" would be a more real fate). And so on with the other essays.

This particular portion of our generation has painted a picture which if true is most disturbing. This sort of hack philosophy has become the popular icon of our generation. We have now the responsibility of evaluating our own position in the face of this sort of verbalizing, which is unconscious criticism, hoping to prove that the shallow "Life" article does not have the authority to act as spokesman for our entire generation, but only for a small, bewildered, and shapeless group. Some of us may agree with the "Life" characterization, and that of "The Unsilent Generation," but in the last analysis, we must speak for ourselves.

A Change!

The Student Government Assembly, which was originally scheduled for 11:00 a.m. on Monday, March 10, has been moved up to 4:00 p.m. of the same day. This change was made as a result of a misunderstanding as to the date of the assembly.

It is to be emphasized that this event is of great significance in that it is one opportunity by which the voters may hear the various party platforms as stated by the presidential candidates themselves. The change in scheduling is unfortunate, but should not detract for the importance of the assembly to every Colby citizen.

Gracious Living Is Featured at R.U.

By LESLIE COLITT

Without the aid of a single candle, or even a darkened room, there's no denying that an atmosphere of gracious living (or, gracious, this is living?) pervades the dining hall of Robert's Union every evening.

Actually, it all begins at 5:15 when the first famished souls begin to queue up outside the closed dining room door. By 5:25, the tension starts to rise, as it is at this time that the infamous "third line" (somewhat akin to the "fifth column") inevitably forms. Sharp glances are thrown from the legitimate line, but they fall on conscience hardened individuals. At 5:29, the line de jure tightens its ranks, preparing itself for an imminent physical and mental trial. Mental, because its members must constantly develop new plans of action that will thwart these nihilists.

The picture is further complicated, for in the midst of all this stands the liaison, Miss Idella Blanchard, who awaits the coveted OK signal from Miss L. Muriel Tripp, Assistant Dietitian. Occasionally, a few uninitiated queuers mutter something about its being a quarter to six by their watches, but they are ignored by their more experienced companions who now stand with muscles tensed, and eyes fixed on Miss Blanchard. They know that there exists only one correct clock, and that hangs on chow hall wall, and only one arbiter of the correct time, Miss Tripp.

At last it is 5:30, and Miss Tripp conveys this information to Miss Blanchard by means of a signal. Exactly what this signal consists of it would be hard to say. Some swear there is mental telepathy involved, others say that the team of Tripp and Blanchard have mastered an elaborate series of secret signals (similar to those used in baseball). Whatever it is, the three lines now converge on each other (and unfortunately Miss Blanchard too) and the weak and untutored fall by the side.

Now, there is yet another challenge to be met. There exist two serving counters. One is definitely open, the other — not so definitely. The entrepreneurs, those who later in life will risk new undertakings, new expeditions into the unknown — they instinctively head for this counter with the large question mark hanging over it. Should it be open, the reward is great, for they will have been served a full twenty seconds earlier than their stolid, unventuresome brethren in the first line. Defeat, represented by a blocked aisle and therefore a closed counter, is no light matter. These

CAMPUS COMMENT

By DIANE SCRAFTON

One of the most controversial topics now being discussed on campus is that of the honor system. As the men are not living under such a system, the talk concerns the women's side of campus and its social honor system for the most part. The idea of an academic honor system affecting both sides of campus has been proposed, however, and is at present being evaluated at Student Government meetings.

The social honor system for Colby women has been in operation for a little over a year. As with any new plan, the administering body, which in this case is Women's Student League, is confronted with many problems. Among these are: the application of rules to the honor system, the orientation of the honor system to the student body, and the understanding and support of all those involved under such a system.

The area most frequently governed by the honor system is the academic. In this realm, students are granted such privileges as unproctored examinations, freedom to leave and return to the exam room sometimes including permission to take the exam alone — and library privileges, mostly concerned with open stack and reserve book systems. Infractions in the academic area are mostly in the form of cheating and plagiarizing. Student Government is at present debating whether or not Colby is ready to accept and live under this system and if initiated into Colby tradition, whether it would be carried out to the fullest.

HONOR SYSTEM CONFERENCE

Because these problems not only apply to Colby, and because of great student interest, Simmons College held an Honor Board Conference on February 22 concerning "The Role of Honor Systems in Modern Education." Kay White, '60 and Diane Scrafton, '61 for Women's Student League and Joe Cunningham, '61 for Student Government represented Colby at Simmons. The conference began with an address concerning "The Role of Honor in Modern Education," and proceeded with discussion groups lasting four hours. The results and conclusions drawn in each group were presented at a plenary session at the termination of the conference. The conference presented many new ideas and plans for the honor system because of the wide representation of other schools such as Bates, Bouve, Jackson, Tufts, Wellesley, Bradford Junior, Amherst, Mt. Holyoke, Harvard, Pembroke, Brown, and Green Mountain Junior. Some of the problems covered in the discussion groups concerned the philosophy of honor systems, the education of the student body (emphasizing the orientation of new students), faculty orientation and relations, academic and social spheres of honor systems, dual reporting and the handling of violations, and the compositions, jurisdiction, and function of judicial boards.

The honor system concerns the individuality of all the students under it. It is responsibility and "honor spirit" — that in itself unique in every school. The way Colby College will be functioning for the next ten years or more is now being discussed. The ideas of the students cannot be presented unless the students are at the meetings to express them. Everyone is urged to attend Student Government meetings Monday nights at 7 and Women Student League meetings at 2:45 on Tuesday afternoons.

Committee Announces Applications Are Available For Senior Program

The Senior Scholars Committee announces that applications for the Senior Scholars Program, academic year 1958-59, are now available to the members of the present junior class.

A Senior Scholar pursues throughout his senior year a program or course of study for which he receives academic credit equal to two or three year courses, at the discretion of the committee. The proposed program is selected by the student with the approval of the chairman of the department in which the student is majoring, and of the faculty member(s) under whose supervision the program is to be carried out. A description of the intended course of study is to be submitted as part of the student's application.

In addition to the approved program, a Senior Scholar enrolls in such other courses as will permit him to satisfy the graduation requirements of the college, with the provision that certain requirements for completion of the major may be waived by the department chairman or the major advisor. When notified of his selection as a Senior Scholar, a student is provided with a complete list of the "understandings" which shall govern his work and which must be complied with as a prerequisite to the granting of academic credit for the work performed.

The sole qualification for application is to be enrolled as a member of the senior class according to the college rules on "class standing." No minimum academic standing is set for applicants, but students selected must have demonstrated academic ability and must have shown promise of ability to pursue a program of independent work and investigation of the sort described in the application. Qualifications will be judged on the basis of approval of the program, separate recommendations by the chairman or advisor and other members of the faculty, an interview by the Committee, and a review of the student's record.

Application forms may be obtained from Professor Cary, 102 Johnson Hall, and must be returned to him by March 10. All applications must be approved by the applicant's department chairman or advisor. Further details are on the application form.

Notification of the names of the students selected will be announced at the Recognition Assembly in May. Additional information concerning the program may be obtained from the Senior Scholars Committee: R. Cary, chairman; E. Holland, secretary; D. Crooker, R. Rouman, and D. Bridgman.

Lou Chase was elected Honorary Cadet Colonel at the annual ROTC Ball, held March 1, 1958.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT REPORTS

A short meeting of Student Government was held this week. The Social Committee has been discussing a plan to put the major social events under one centralized committee. This has just been discussed, however.

The student body is going to be approached with the Foreign Student plan in the near future via a mimeographed sheet.

Sally Fritz spoke in behalf of the Drokur. This campus magazine has been in existence for six years and this is the first year it has been recognized as a campus organization. At the moment they have a financing problem — an outstanding bill of $112 which they would like the Stu. G. to pay for them, preferably with an outright gift with the assumption that the Drokur organization would pay their own way from there on. The cost of production has been cut as much as possible; the past debt was accumulated as a result of the difference between the publishing price ($.65) and the selling price ($.50). The real problem, however, is the interest on campus. The students and the faculty that work with the magazine feel that there is a place for such a magazine on the Colby campus. It gives people who are interested in writing a chance to do so. It was suggested that representatives from Stu. G. should meet with the editors of the Drokur and representatives from the financial committee to discuss the problem.

Women's Student League and Judicial Board Installations will be held in Dunn Lounge on Sunday, March 9, at 2:00 p.m. All women are urged to be present.

Colby Hoopsters Down Bates To Gain Eighth State Series Title

1957-58 State Series Champions.

The varsity basketball team grabbed the mythical Maine State Series crown again last Friday before an enthusiastic crowd by tromping runner-up Bates. This marks the eighth consecutive year that Colby has been champ and the ninth out of the last ten. During the 19 years of State Series competitions, the Mules have run away with the bunting 14 times. The Colby basketball story has been strikingly similar in recent years, one of the state dominance and out-of-state loses.

The season opened up with a loss to Bates, an incident which immediately labeled Bates as the team to beat. The next game was with and Seton Hall all proved themselves to be the high powered club that they were rated and handed the Mules four big defeats in a row. All four teams play the cream of the East and Mid-West throughout the season. The University of Massachusetts was the next opponent and they took advantage of the injuries and absences on the Mules and downed them. Coming back into the state, Colby snapped their five game losing streak by defeating Bates. The next weekend, Amherst and Williams fell prey to the fast rolling Mules by close scores. However, Dartmouth, Loyola, University of Akron, Maine and Bowdoin, too, were dropped in their tracks despite rugged games. Trinity became the sixth straight victim on the next weekend.

Then, in three very close games against top-flight opposition, Colby dropped decisions to Springfield, Brandeis, and Quantico. Bowdoin then downed the Mules and again made the series a wire affair. Northeastern fell prey next, but B.U. turned the tables on the Mules. Maine defeated Colby to tie up the race and on the last day of the season, Colby pulled the race out of the fire.

The outlook for next year seems

Hockey Season Is Good Despite 9 - 10 - 1 Record

The Colby varsity hockey team enjoyed a highly successful season despite the fact that they had a losing season with a 9-10-1 record. It was very peculiar statistically because, in having a losing season, they outscored the opposition by more than 50 percent. This phenomenon can be explained by the fact that, of their ten losses, Colby dropped six by one goal, three by two goals, and the remaining one by three goals. In compiling their 94 goal total to 60 for the opposition the Mules won only one game by one goal and one by two.

The team played well against the good teams but very poorly against inferior ones. The three best games of the year were with Dartmouth, Army, and Middlebury; all highly rated teams in the East.

The teams started the season with a 4-4 tie at home with Hamilton. The game was a fair one, which the Mules could have won had it been later in the season. The next game at Alford Arena was against a Dartmouth powerhouse. The Indians won by a 1-0 score, but the Mules had secured a very real moral victory by doing so well against a top team. At the Harvard Arena, Colby blasted Norwich, 5-1. The Christmas Invitation Tournament at Waterville was a successful one, with the Mules tying for honors. The pucksters notched victories over Hamilton, 3-2, and Bowdoin, 7-3, while dropping a tight 4-5 game to Williams. In revenge, the Mules trounced the same Epimen two weeks later, 4-1. The following night, Colby overwhelmed Norwich 5-3. The team next journeyed to Cambridge and demolished a weak MIT club, 10-0, to post their second three game winning streak in the nine game-old season. This gave the Mules six wins and only two losses. Unfortunately, it was at this time that the team began to find it hard to get "up" for games. Without a challenging schedule, much of the fight in a team leaves it. This is just what happened to the White Mules and from here on in, they posted a deplorable 3-8 record against mostly second rate clubs.

Colby lost three straight against a trio of fairly poor teams. Amherst won the first 4-2, Bowdoin won the second 5-4 for our first defeat at the hands of a Maine team in three years, and the University of New Hampshire took the final game, 5-4. The Mules upturned a University of Massachusetts club, 6-3, to break the losing skein. The next four games were with a few high powered teams. Army barely edged the Mules in an exciting contest, 4-3; Middlebury, too, overturned the visiting stickers in a down to the wire affair, 6-4. Norwich, a team that had earlier been a conquest, evened the score with the worst drubbing the Mules suffered throughout the year, a 4-1 score. Before a copious Winter Carnival crowd, the Colby team met defeat, 3-4, in a tight duel. UNH again upset the Mules in the next game, 4-2. Finally, against two easily outclassed opponents, the Mules showed their scoring punch in 15-1 and 8-0 victories over MIT and Bowdoin.

Captain Jack Kelley has long realized the danger of scheduling such poor teams and, at last, has been able to line up top opposition. Next year's slate reflects this accomplishment. Harvard, RPI, B.U., B.C., Providence, and Brown will all find the Mules on their schedule in '58-'59. Of the top seven teams in the East, we will miss playing only St. Lawrence and Clarkson. Some say that Colby is taking on too much at once, but there are not many teams of exactly the Mules' caliber and it is for better playing over one's head than below. Even more important, however, is the help that this year's freshman team is very likely to give the club next year. The Frosh are the best ever and should make the difference. One must not forget that the "Big Five" games next year will only be one fourth of the schedule. The rest of the teams will either be in our class or outclassed by us.

Due to the lack of space in this issue, we were unable to include a rundown of the freshman basketball and hockey seasons. These articles will appear next week at which time the Baby Mule sextet will have completed its season. Notre Dame Academy and Needham High have been added to the schedule.

W. A. A.

Starting on April 1st, after our return from spring vacation, there will be a series of W.A.A. sponsored tournaments which will continue until the opening of the spring season on April 21st. Participation in these tournaments will take the place of gym class and at the same time will count as W.A.A. credit. Tournaments will be held in badminton, bowling, pingpong, deck tennis, shuffle board and paddle tennis. Such a variety holds something for everyone. So watch for those signup lists! For fun and credit toward W.A.A. awards participate in the tournaments!

Department Teas

The department teas to help freshmen in choosing their major fields, have been scheduled at intervals for the next two months. These teas will be held in the Smith Lounge of the Women's Union from 4:15-5:30 p.m. All freshmen are invited to the teas of any department in which they may be interested in majoring. At each tea a member of the department will speak informally on the major in that particular department. Seniors in each major field will also be present to help the freshmen with any problems confronting them in making their choice.

The schedule is as follows: March 12, Biology, Chemistry, Geology, Mathematics, and Physics; March 13, History, Government, and Economics; April 2, English and Classics; April 3, Modern Languages; April 16, Business Administration; and April 17, Psychology and Education.

Six New Members Chosen to Council In Recent Election

At the last meeting of the Outing Club five freshmen were elected to the Katahdin Council. These new members are Ted Teideman, Scott Brackett, Sue Miller, Peter Loring and Grayce Hall. Linda Levinson was elected to fill the opening in the sophomore class.

The Katahdin Council is the governing body of the club, consisting of a maximum of eight members from each class. This group is responsible for organizing and carrying out the various activities of the organization. Membership in it is considered an honor and is based on

Music Recital to Be Held Sunday; All Are Invited

There will be a musical evening at Dr. and Mrs. Bixler's home on Sunday evening, March 9. A recital will be presented by musical students at Colby. The girls participating are Gwen Parker, '58; Beryl Scott, '58; Vicki Sanders, '61; Marcia Phillips, '58; Jo Deans, '60; Debby Robson, '58; and June Chacaran, '60. The program will feature a string quartet; a flute, violin and piano and vocal solos; and a flute and violin duet.

Following the program students will have an opportunity to discuss the evening's program informally. All students are invited to take this chance to spend an evening at the president's home. These musical programs are presented on the second Sunday of each month, beginning at 8 p.m.

participation and interest in these activities and regular attendance at the meetings. Each one is required to serve on a minimum of three committees during a semester, and must act as chairman of at least one of the Outing Club's social functions.

Band Will Perform Concert at Tufts

On March 14, Colby's band is traveling to Tufts University to perform in a concert there. Some of the numbers that will be included in the program are: "Finlandia" by Sibelius; "Egmont Overture" by Beethoven; "English Folk Song Suite" by Williams; "Prelude and Fugue in G Minor" by Bach; and "Perpetual Motion" by Strauss.

Other plans this year include participation in the Maine Intercollegiate Concert Band Festival to be held at Colby sometime in April. A Committee headed by Dr. Comparatti and consisting of Gary Poor, Pete Henderson, Don Kennedy, and Richard Kenison, are organizing the program for the festival.

Due to a misunderstanding about the date of the assembly and the many pending exams the faculty decided that 4:00 o'clock would be more suitable than the usual hour of 11 a.m. This means that no classes will be omitted.

CAMPUS CHEST
The Campus Chest Committee, headed by Judy Allen and Reed

Thompson, felt that the more people participating in it, the greater a success it would be. All organizations were asked to participate. By adding the Saturday night event it was hoped that interest would be increased, and thus, bring the realization of the $2000 goal closer.

Secretary of the committee is Mary Jane Davis. Matty Gache is Treasurer, and Carol Holt is in charge of publicity.

An event which the seniors will, no doubt, recall is the Faculty Show. It was last given their freshmen year. Although it will be held on April 23rd, it is still a part of Campus Chest, and proceeds from it will go to that fund. Mr. Witham is in charge of this program.
