Positive Action Party WHY VOTE? Re-orientation Party

The members of the Positive Action Party feel that Student Government this year has made definite steps toward increased student responsibility. Students were given the opportunity to aid in the solution of the drinking problem. The administration has shown its willingness to delegate greater power to the students — to allow them to work out solutions in conjunction with them. This is but one area in which students may exercise increased responsibility.

We offer no sweeping reform — each of our ideas is attainable. Our platform places considerable emphasis on academic improvement within the college community. The platform follows:

(1) We strongly favor the introduction of an academic honor system — a complete program based on student responsibility.

(2) Class officers — We feel that at present they have little opportunity to justify their existence, and that there are but two alternatives.

(a) A definite system of class organization should be introduced. The class should be a unit having clearly defined functions.

(b) The only other alternative is to dissolve class officers, and to elect committees when the need

Why vote? Student government has been likened by observers of college life to the satellite governments of eastern Europe: impressive in facade but entirely hollow beneath the surface; manipulated by college officials as the satellite governments are by the Soviet Union. Why this state of affairs in our democratic society? One reason is that college officials are little impressed by student parties elected by a minority of the student body. These student governments are relegated to performing meaningless tasks, while the important decisions that affect us as students are decided wholly by the faculty. With a large student vote, some distinguished eyes might be opened to the real importance of student government.

J. S. Bixler To Be Keynoter at April 7 College Assembly

President Bixler will discuss the future of Colby College at the all-college assembly which will be held at 11 a.m. in the Women's Union on April 8.

"Our main concern," Dr. Bixler feels, "is to concentrate on the methods which will make Colby the finest co-educational college in New England. What the administration must do to realize this aim lies under two main headings, a stress on intellectual development and plans for physical expansion."

Under the latter heading is included an increase in enrollment, necessitating the construction of a new women's dormitory and two dormitories on the male side of the campus. With the Music and Arts building still under construction, it is felt that these dormitories cannot appear in the near future. Colby's future must therefore include a building up of loyal support by alumni, parents and friends.

An intellectual development is necessarily more complex and it is

EDITORIAL A Clarification

To avoid any misunderstanding in voting for Student Government officers, perhaps a clarification would be helpful. Although these people are running together as a party, votes may be cast for individuals. They have chosen to run together because they represent similar ideas. Candidates from different parties, however, may and can be your choice, which, of course, is the important thing. This has been said so many times, but can not be stressed enough. Think carefully, choose your candidates, and vote!

Letter from Bixler

The following is the letter which President Bixler sent to the president of Student Government.

Thank you for the statement from Student Government and thank you especially for the judicial temper it shows. After all the work that Student Government and others have put into this problem it does seem as though we should be able to reach a reasonable solution. Of course we can't hope to satisfy everyone, but, as I have said before, we can hope to know that there are good grounds for whatever decision is made. I will see that a copy of your statement goes to each member of the Board of Trustees. Following our meeting the other day with you and the members of the Judiciary Committee we had another meeting of our faculty committee, and I am bringing the matter before the whole faculty Monday evening. Troublesome and frustrating as this issue has been, I have been thankful all along that the students were able to show so much breadth and so much loyal understanding in their approach. Please express my appreciation to Student Government.

Senior Scholar Program Provides Good Stimulus

Each spring, members of the junior class who are interested in doing Senior Scholar work for their year apply for acceptance into the program.

The program was originally outlined by a committee of the Colby chapter of the American Association of University Professors and submitted to the faculty for approval. Such approval was granted in 1953 and the program became effective with the participation of the class of 1954.

The objective of the program strives to encourage student scholarship in the college as a whole, and in particular, to provide a stimulus to an outlet for creative scholarship on the part of the group chosen for this honor.

The Senior Scholars committee is composed of faculty members. It directs the operation of the program and to hold it to its objectives.

To qualify for the program no minimum academic standing is specifically designated, however, this is only to encourage students who show strength in their sophomore and junior years after a weak beginning, and for students whose average may have dropped for one semester from previous achievement. The committee looks for students

A Suggestion

Dear Editors,

I have often thought that the ECHO was not tapping what might be one of its most revealing and constructive resources - the faculty and administration. In the past the ECHO has had reporters interview various teachers, but I don't think it has printed anything written by the teachers. Perhaps they have insights which would help us all in seeing and overcoming the blocks to our progress as individuals and as a college community. It may be that they have not the time to spend writing yet many of us who have talked to them outside of class and heard them speak in chapel regret that they do not reach more people.

Just a suggestion based on the unoriginal idea that progress must come from within as well as from without - from a change of perspective and of attitudes toward our work as well as from legislation or drinking laws and donations of money. (NOT meaning to under-rate the progress in these last areas!)

All applications for financial aid for the year 1959-1960 should be returned to the respective Deans ON OR BEFORE APRIL 10. These applications are now available in the office of the Dean of Women and the Dean of Men.

Need For Science

Please be prepared for a heinous violation of the Colby Code. To put it mildly, I find the constant "conditioning" on the value of the Humanities rather cloying. So all right already, people in general pay too little attention to the Humanities in our mechanistic society, but let's keep the proper perspective ourselves. We seem to be going to the opposite extreme of condoning an education completely void of study in the physical sciences. Actually, in a liberal arts college such as Colby, those engaged in pursuing knowledge should very definitely include some sciences among their courses, especially if they are interested in the Humanities per se.

One of the aspects of humanistic study which is so fascinating is the noting of the differences between the people of our times and those of previous ages. These differences are usually based on the concepts people have, and had, of themselves and of their world. Today in the twentieth century we could be refusing ourselves a whole new plane of knowledge by shutting the physical sciences out of a humanistic education. After all, if the attitudes and philosophies of OUR society are to be based on the present concepts of the world, it is absolutely necessary that we delve a little into these concepts. Leave us not close ourselves in a little box.

As far as I'm concerned, I'm all for a convocation dealing with the necessity of an understanding of science for a knowledge of man. As a matter of fact I'm surprised that the professors teaching on the wrong side of the flag-pole haven't rebelled by now. Gung Ho! Chem., Bio., and Physics!

Sincerely,

Judy Hutchinson

Convocation Lacking In Several Notable Areas

by alan skwirsky

A general overall evaluation of the 1959 Academic Convocation would seem to merit the epithets of insipidness, repetition and almost total disappointment. The evident passiveness of the student body and the lack of any ingenuous intellectual excitement cannot be entirely blamed on either poor weather conditions of the scheduling of many hour exams during the three day period.

Professor Agard's introductory speech uncovered many fruitful areas which could have been explored further. His thesis that we will be saved when an "integration of the humanities, the social sciences and the natural sciences" is achieved was articulated clearly. He also expressed the need of the U.S. to become internationally minded and the danger inherent in too great concentrations of power. "These concentrations of power must be related to human needs." Professor Agard spoke of the inadequacies of education to meet these problems and the necessity for the humanities to both restore "individual self-respect and courage."

In the course of the next two days the convocation appeared to lose most of its vitality. Louis Wright from the Folger Shakespeare Library referred to history as "an anecdote to arrogance" and expressed the very real dangers of specialization in his lecture on "History as a Cultural Bridge." Together with his remarks concerning the evils of American conformity as epitomized in Madison Avenue, and the necessity of "a gaiety of spirit" to face the solemnity of our modern world, Mr. Wright proved unstimulating and rather uninteresting.

President Cole's speech, as the last event of convocation, was both clear and coherently delivered but certainly not rewarding enough as a final statement of three supposedly thought-provoking days.

Perhaps the fault lies in the choice of topic. The liberating role of the humanities has indeed been emphasized a great deal here at Colby. It seems as though the people who would most benefit from an explanation of this particular subject would be the individuals immersed in the study of the natural sciences. These people would be most apt not to attend lectures given by only representatives of the humanities. There is no doubt that parents should be most enlightened as to the real usefulness of the humanities and the social sciences. In any case, the topic seemed to discourage people from attending in the very beginning. Another fault was perhaps due to the

Thoughts on Convocation

By Debby Berry

The Academic Convocation is now over, and one has time to consider it from beginning to end, from the night President Bixler appeared in Foss-Woodman dining room to request that the "Bridge this week be cultural, not contract," till Professor Weber was classified as a "Hardly perennial." The campus, for once, had something to talk about, and did. A unity prevailed which I had never seen before, and, if for no other reason, this made Academic Convocation a good thing. The speakers were all excellently qualified and fine men; unfortunately, there was little contrast between them. All agreed on the main points, and little controversy appeared. All are personal friends of President Bixler; he is a member of the Amherst Board of Trustees; Amherst controls the Folger Shakespeare Library; and one no longer wonders why there was no conflict of interests.

Professor Agard, "Mr. Humanities", started the convocation off on Wednesday night with his talk entitled, "Humanities for Our Time." It was an excellent talk. Some criticized him for speaking "humor and platitudes"; others enjoyed and respected him for his ability to speak on such a broad topic with such vigor and interest. There is no question that the audience was with him; but some students were bored, as is illustrated by the following poem, written on the back of the small yellow folder entitled "An Invitation".

A rustle —

A sneeze —

A cough —

A wheeze —

Air gets stuffy — chairs grow hard.

Damn! I want a cigarette —

O, God —

How long can he blither —

What is he saying —

What ever it is,

Does it matter?

Lectures are great — when you're awake

Lectures are neat — if you don't go to sleep —

There goes my eyelid — over my pupil —

Whoops! Stifle that yawn.

Wow! Look at THAT couple!

Wish that woman had perfume OFF —

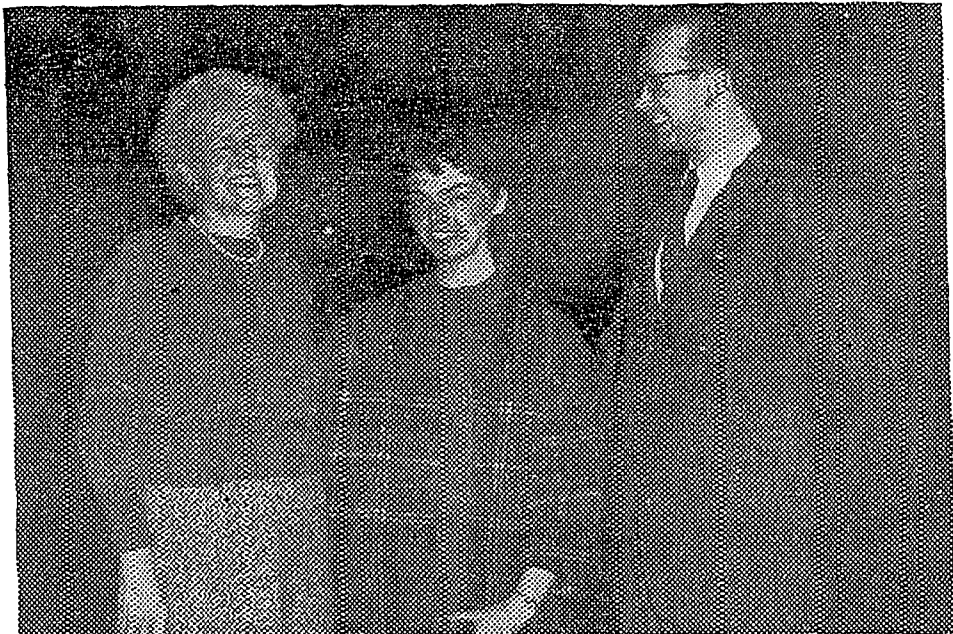

Perhaps that's what causing each of the coughs.

"Roaring 20's" Come To Colby!

The weekend after spring vacation will bring Colby's student production of "The Boy Friend". The opening night of April 2 will recreate the gay and happy atmosphere of the "roaring 20's" for the audience at the Opera House in Waterville. The musical is an English play which originally opened for a small theatrical club in England. Its immediate success brought it to the stage in London, where it enjoyed "one of the most amazing runs in the history of the British musical theater." Although not an American play, "its international locale and flavor — it takes place on the French Riviera and numbers British, Americans and French among its characters — contribute to a fully-rounded and hilarious picture of what went on, consciously and unconsciously, in those now faded years".

The American version of "The Boy Friend" was produced by Feuer and Martin of "Guys and Dolls" and "Can Can". The action is both light and humorous.

Mrs. Nickerson, Carol York, Dr. Todrank

"The Boy Friend" has become a favorite of campus audiences and was featured this year at Dartmouth's Winter Carnival. The basic plot of the comedy is the age-old one where boy meets girl. The French Riviera is the scene of Madame duBonnets' finishing school where several girls are enrolled to have a good time. They are working for their MRS Degree, or simply looking for a boy friend. They become acquainted with some young Frenchmen, and after playing the game of hard-to-get, the final scene at the Carnival Ball finds the boys proposing marriage. The girls refuse to give their answers until midnight.

"... Everyone looks the same!"

Carl Jefferson Weber, Prominent Man, Retires

President J. Seelye Bixler and Prof. Carl J. Weber

President J. Seelye Bixler has announced the retirement of Carl Jefferson Weber, one of Colby's most distinguished scholars, on March 11, 1959.

A devoted member of the faculty for 39 years, Dr. Webber served Colby as chairman of the English Department for 30 years, editor of the COLBY LIBRARY QUARTERLY since 1943, Roberts Professor of English since 1928 and Curator of Rare Books and Manuscripts since 1940.

In expressing the college's inestimable debt to this great scholar, President Bixler praised Professor Weber's unusually high standards of scholarship and his prodigious energy.

In Dr. Bixler's words, "These qualities, resulting in so many books and articles, have not only brought fame to both himself and to Colby, but have helped the college greatly in its effort to raise its own standards of achievement."

"He can take great pride, as does the college, in the standing of the COLBY LIBRARY QUARTERLY which he has edited with so much success, and the Edwin Arlington Robinson Treasure Room, with its many collections, presents tangible evidence of his skill and acumen as a collector."

"His retirement means the loss to Colby students of a dedicated teacher, but we are happy to think that he and Mrs. Weber will continue to be members of our community and that we can maintain the personal association which has meant so much."

Dr. Weber's most recent honor was bestowed upon him during Colby's Academic Convocation, Presi-

Dr. Irving Suss is directing the play, Bob Brown, assisted by Bud Fisher, is the musical director, and Diane Grant is the choreographer for the show. Brad Sherman is production manager. Stage manager and assistant stage manager are Andy Blodgett and Bruce Brown. Costumes are being made by Connie Collins and her committee, and set construction and design are being executed by Jerry Guiles. Dan vanHeekeren is in charge of special lighting effects and Pat Sturges is the house chairman. Harriet Lunt is the make-up director, Jim McIntosh publicity chairman, and Phil Tirabassi is acting as business manager.

— THE CAST —

Carol York, a junior, plays Polly Brown, the romantic lead. Polly is a rich young English girl at Mme. duBonnets' school who falls in love with Tony Brockhurst (Bob Huss) a wealthy young Englishman who is posing as a messenger boy. Her color pink and all her costumes are of that color, as each girl in the production wears one color throughout. Polly does a soft shoe dance in addition to singing "I Could Be Happy With You", "A Room in Bloomsburg", and "Poor Little Pierrette", which she sings with Mme. duBonnets (Mrs. Nickerson). Carol has been very active in Powder and Wig since her freshman year. Last year she starred in "Ring Around the Moon" and held the leading role in the "Glass Menagerie". She will also appear in the Commencement play, of "Midsummer Night's Dream".

Tony Brockhurst is being played by Bob Huss, a junior, who is starring in his first role on the Colby stage. He sings "I Could Be Happy With You", and "A Room in Bloomsburg" with Polly. Bob (Tony) enters the action of the play as a messenger boy and is later discovered to be the son of Lord and Lady Brockhurst (Bob Brolli and Ginny Wriggins).

Penny Dean, a sophomore, takes the role of the comic Dulcie, another of the girls at the finishing school. Dulcie has an affair with Lord Brockhurst and she tells him of her feelings in the song, "It's Never Too Late to Fall in Love." Dulcie, at the end of the story, is paired up with a French boy, Alphonse (Phil Janos). Penny has had many roles in P and W productions including "Ring Around the Moon", "Dark of the Moon", and "Everyman".

Maisie, the main supporting female character is played by Maren Stoll, a junior. "The Boy Friend" is Maren's first appearance in a Colby production, but she is well known for her singing with the Colbyettes. Maisie falls in love with "a terribly rich and good-looking American", Bobby VanHeusen (Keet Arnett) and they sing together in "Safety in Numbers" and "Won't You Charleston With Me", and dance a soft shoe and a vigorous Charleston.

Keet Arnet, as Bobby VanHeusen, plays the main supporting male character. This is also his first appearance in a major production. Keet is a senior and is the director of the Colby Eight this year. He plays the role of the young American visiting the Riviera and there meets Maisie at Mme. duBonnets' school. Besides acting, Keet has planned the choreography for one of the major dance routines.

Mrs. George T. Nickerson assumes the role of the head mistress at the finishing school, Mme. duBonnets. She will sing, "Fancy Forgetting", "You Don't Want to Play With Me, Blues" and "Poor Little Pierrette". At the end of the play, Mme. duBonnets falls in love with Polly's father with whom she had been in love many years earlier.

The two principle character roles are played by Bob Brolli and Ginny Wriggins as Lord and Lady Brockhurst. Lord Brockhurst is an elderly man but has a keen eye for young girls and thoroughly enjoys their company, much to the dismay of his wife, who is quite annoyed with her husband's habits and is constantly admonishing him. Mike Goodman and Par Orr provide the main entertainment at the Carnival Ball with a tango, which Lady Brockhurst labels as "revolting".

Members of the supporting cast fulfill an important role in the entire production through the song and dance routines. Becky Crane (Dottie), Pat Walker (Nancy), Brenda Phillips (Fay), and Marcia Peterson (Hortense) plays the roles of the other girls at Mme. duBonnets' finishing school who are in search of boy friends.

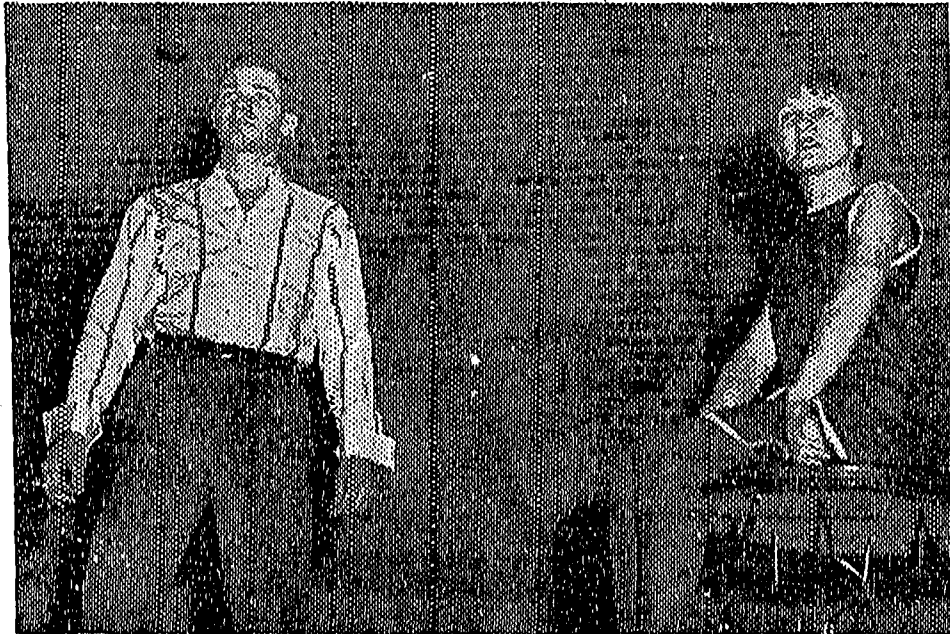

Becky Crane is a junior and "The Boy Friend" is the second musical she has been in, having a roll in "South Pacific" last year. Becky is also a member of the Colby Glee Club. Pat Walker is also a junior and will be remembered for her role as one of the Navy Waves in "South Pacific". Brenda Phillips is the only freshman girl in the musical. Brenda was Colby's Homing Queen this year and is a member of the Colbyettes. Marcia Peterson, a junior, plays Hortense. She was a member of the Glee Club her freshman and sophomore years and has been in the Colbyettes since her freshman year. Marcia appeared last year in "South Pacific".

The French boys, who are the objects of the girls' searches are Tom-ey (Philip), Gary Hagerman (Pierre), Dick Hilton (the waiter) and Jay Frazee (the gendarme).

Larry Cushman, a junior, is appearing for the first time in any Colby musical. Larry is a member of the Glee Club and the Chapel choir. "The Boy Friend" is also a first for Ed Tomey. Ed, a senior, is well known from his singing with the Colby Eight and various campus combos. Gary Hagerman, this year's president of Student Government, starred in "South Pacific" last year and acted in one of the leading roles this fall in Powder and Wig's production of "Stalag 17". Dick Hilton, the waiter, earlier appeared in "Under Milkwood". Dick is a junior and is known for his figure skating talents. The only freshman boy in the cast is Jay Frazee who will be seen as the gendarme.

All in all April 2, 3, and 4 promise to be entertaining, light-hearted and delightful evenings as Colby students present their annual musical production after many long weeks of rehearsals, construction and painting of sets, and the many

Curriculum Changes Effective Next Autumn

At the February faculty meeting three changes in curriculum, involving two new combined majors and the discontinuation of one combined major, were announced. These will become effective in the autumn.

The history-government-economics major will not be offered next year. This decision was made upon the recommendation of Professor Walter Breckenridge and was agreed to almost unanimously by members of the departments involved. It is felt that since a government major is offered this year for the first time, a student may now major in history, government, or economics and take courses in the other departments as electives. By this program he can gain the equivalent of a combined major in these fields. Traditionally, the history-government-economics major has been administered by the economics department. The number of students majoring in economics has increased to such an extent that the department feels that it can no longer administer both majors adequately.

New combined majors will be offered in classics-philosophy and mathematics-philosophy. Both will involve the equivalent of three year-courses in each field. It is felt that they will provide an opportunity for students with a double interest to work out a well-integrated program of studies. They will also be excellent backgrounds for graduate study in philosophy and related fields.

The classics-philosophy major is particularly recommended for those students who wish to attend theological school. Students electing this major will be advised by Dr. Allen, or by Chaplain Osborne if they plan to study theology.

The fact that mathematics and philosophy are closely related was strongly emphasized. Mathematics has been a constant influence on Western philosophical thought. According to most contemporary mathematicians and logicians, mathematics and logic cannot be entirely separated. The mathematics-philosophy major will provide an excellent program for prospective mathematics teachers as well as for those who want to continue the study of philosophy. Dr. J. A. Clark, chairman of the Philosophy Department, will be the advisor.

The annual spring football season will get under way April 6 and last until April 18. The coaches, Bob Clifford and John Simpson, have stressed that everyone interested in football at all should try out for the sport during this two week period. At the meeting of those interested, eleven were present who played neither varsity nor frosh football. The annual inter-squad season will provide the climax for the training season.

"Midsummer Night's Dream" Casted For Spring Performance

MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S DREAM, the last Powder and Wig production of this year, has been cast by director Dr. Suss. The performances will be presented on May 8 and 9, with another performance on June 6 as a part of the graduation program.

Playing major roles are the following students: Phil Worth as Theseus, Libby Latham as Hippolyta, Frank Wiswall as the comic tradesman Bottom, Jan Turner as Titania, Leon Nelson as Oberon. Also, Diane Sadler as Puck, Carol York as Helena, Dawn Christie as Hermia, Steve Levine as Lysander, and Robert Peirce as Demetrius.

Supporting roles will be played by Gordon Prud'hommeaux, Ed Cragin, Matty Gache, Al Hubbard, Enay Schick, Carol Anderson, Paul Heywood, and Hooper Cutler.

The sole faculty member in the play is Mr. Colin Mackay who will portray Egeus. Andy Blodgett has been chosen as stage manager.

Intricate sets, elaborate costumes, and very special effects will contribute to making the performance of this light fantasy by Shakespeare a true spectacular. The effects will remain in total consistency with the underlying mood of gaiety in the play.

The threads of the various love affairs of the fairy band and of the human participants are tied together in amusing ways by such characters as the impish, clever Puck. Another comic element is provided by the common tradesman's group headed by Bottom and including such illustrious characters as Snout and Starveling.

As of this date the committees have not fully been chosen. Special effects will be headed by Don Mordecai; lighting is under the direction of Dan van Heeckeren; construction is headed by Bob Huss; Ann Kimball is in charge of props; publicity and tickets will be headed by Penny Dean and Jan Haslins; and Harriet Lunt is in charge of make-up.

Rehearsals have already begun and are being held simultaneously with BOY FRIEND rehearsals.

Dr. Bixler is an authority on William James. His talk will be based on James' life in general, as well as on material that has been contributed to the Treasure Room in the Library. Dr. Bixler himself has contributed some personal letters and other articles to this collection.

The Carnival committee for the 1960 Winter Carnival was recently selected. Chairmen of the new committee are Matty Gache '60 and Ann Kimball '60, secretary is Carolyn Webster '60 and treasurer is Jim Haides '60. Different sub-committees will be headed as follows: publicity, Bob O'Leary '61 and Bob DiNapoli '61; tickets, Jane Holden '60; queen candidates, Bonnie MacGregor '61 and Claire Lyons '61; trophies and snow sculptures, Joan Crowell '60 and Bob Shattuck '61; decorations, Pris Doran '62 and Marcia Eck '62; ice show, Liz Chamberlain '60 and Walt Matern '61.

The committee's work will begin shortly after spring vacation. At this time plans will be made for bands, entertainment, schedules and the theme.

Murray Debate Is To Feature Panel Of Four Students

This year's Murray Debate will be held April 6 and will feature a four-member student panel. George Welch '60 and Frank Wiswall '62 will uphold the negative stand concerning the chosen topic and Dorothy Dorman and Frank Wallace will defend the affirmative viewpoint. The topic of the debate is to be: "Resolve: that Colby College should refuse to participate in the Defense Education Act of 1958, unless, or until the disclaimer affidavit clause has been repealed by Congress."

Before the debate student polls will be taken in order to see the campus' reaction, as a whole, to the resolve which is to be discussed. The panel members will also ask leading questions to stimulate interest.

The judges, who are not connected with the college, will not be announced prior to the debate. The winner will be announced at the spring Recognition Assembly. The prizes will be $60 to the winning team, $20 to the best speaker, and $20 to the losing team. The affirmative team for this year of Dorman and Wallace were winners of last year's debate.

Bull sessions with the candidates for Stu G have been tentatively set for Thursday and Friday in the Spa.

Alison Hill Elected New President of Next WAA Board

At the final meeting of the outgoing board of the WAA, Alison Hill '60 from Walpole, Massachusetts, was elected president of the 1959-1960 WAA Board. Other officers recently elected include: vice-president, Lee Holcombe '61; secretary-treasurer, Heather Campbell '61; and publicity chairman, Debby Price '62.

Sports managers for the coming year are as follows: archery, Gale Holtz; badminton, Ellie Ardif; basketball, Betsy Perry; bowling, Eunie Bucholz; field hockey, Nancy Ela; golf, Penny Dietz; lacrosse, Sandy Myers. Also, ping pong, Hatchy Howard; riflery, Alice Walker; skating, Margie Chamberlain; skiing, Sally Case; softball, Janice Thompson; swimming, Nancy Record; tennis, Jill Williams; and volleyball, Joanne Gesecus.

A banquet will be held for the new and retiring boards on April 6. The new members of the board will be installed at that time.

Nancy Cunneen Is Alumni To Sponsor Mavrinac Returns Named Colonel Of Concert in Boston To Replace Fullam Annual ROTC Ball On May 19, 1959

Nancy Cunneen

The highlight of the annual Military Ball, held on March 14, was the crowning of the Honorary Cadet Colonel of 1961, Miss Nancy Cunneen.

Nancy is a sophomore who comes from Danielson, Connecticut. She is a biology major and plans to enter the teaching field after graduating from Colby. She is very active in extra-curricular activities, as the secretary of her class, a varsity cheerleader, a Pan-Hellenic representative, a member of Sigma Kappa sorority, and a past member of the Women's Judiciary Board.

Following the announcement of this year's queen, Miss Cunneen was presented with a bouquet of American Beauty roses, and a trophy signifying that she is the Honorary Cadet Colonel for the year of 1961. She will have the opportunity to ride in the L-17, Colby's R.O.T.C. training airplane. Nancy was crowned by a visiting dignitary, after which the Colby Eight sang a song in her honor.

Members of the queen's court, Nancy Kudriavetz, Barbara Poole, Dawn Christie, and Patricia Jack, were awarded silver bracelets, signifying their position of honor.

After a successful experiment last year, the Boston Colby Alumni Association is again sponsoring "Colby Night at the Boston Pops." The concert will be held at Boston Symphony Hall on Massachusetts Avenue on the evening of May 19.

Profits from the tickets, which are being sold by parents and alumni of the Greater Boston area, as well as in the bookstore, will go toward the Colby Fulfillment program. Chairman of sales, this year as last, is Mrs. Jerome J. Lipson, the former Barbara Starr of the class of 1950.

The Boston Pops, ninety members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra who specialize in popular and light classical music, will again perform under the direction of Arthur Fiedler in an informal atmosphere. Parents, friends and alumni of Colby and three other colleges - Middlebury, Colchester, and Pembroke - will attend.

Last year's program was highlighted by Peter Re, conducting his own composition, "Variations on Airs by Supply Belcher."

Mr. Whalon of the Building and Grounds Department would like the students to pay extra attention to the lawns on the campus. Due to the melting snow, great damage could be done to the lawns.

Professor Albert Anthony Mavrinac has been officially a member of Colby's faculty this past year, although he has been on a leave of absence lecturing as a Fulbright Fellow on political science at the Universities of Rennes and Montpellier in France. In September of 1959 he will assume his position as chairman of the history and government department at Colby. He will replace the late Paul Fullam who held the position until his death in 1955.

Mr. Mavrinac is completing two books while on his leave of absence. They are: ESSAYS ON COMPARATIVE LOCAL GOVERNMENT and a study of FRENCH CATHOLIC POLITICAL THOUGHT and ORGANIZATION IN THE 1920's AND 1930's.

Prior to his appointment at Colby, Mr. Mavrinac was a lecturer on government and an Allston Burr Senior tutor at Harvard University. Before joining the Harvard faculty in 1953, he taught at the University of Pittsburgh, from which he graduated with high honors in 1943, and Wellesley College. He is a specialist on American national government and constitutional law, on Western European politics, and on modern political theory.

Mr. Mavrinac has published articles in "Confluence", in the "American Political Science Review", and in "America". He is also the

by Jackie Nunez

The following article is reprinted from the February 18 issue of the DELPHIAN, published by Adelphi College. The letter, by a student, gives some sound and delightful criticism, and I hope you find it as informative and enjoyable as I do.

Dear Editor:

Last week, while I was in my usual megalomaniac mood trying my best to alienate my fellow brethren, I decided on the following plan of attack:

In order to become supreme ruler of Adelphi College, I would attend every club on campus. Since hardly anybody shows up for the meetings anyhow, I would therefore be able to nominate and elect myself president to all organizations. Thus, I would be on the same level as the President. When I graduate and become an alumnus, I would then be in a position to vote him out of office. In this manner, I will be the supreme ruler of our glorious alma mater and fulfill my life-long ambition, namely: To make Adelphi College a huge snack-bar for Hofstra.

In this world's largest snack-bar, all the students interested in becoming wise by attending eternal bull sessions, would finally have the opportunity to do so. The History and Government office will provide ample space for surplus students. Napkins with the school colors shall be distributed by the Public Relations Office, autographed by Tex McCrary.

tions Office, autographed by Tex McCrary.

The snack-bar would also offer opportunity for such radicals as John Kasper and Gerald I. K. Smith to hold their own rabble-rousing bull sessions. As I have noticed a number of students are boiling over with AMERICANISM and wish to rid this fair land of such contemptible individuals, as those of African descent and those belonging to inferior groups such as Catholics, Jews, Tories, Whigs, Socialists, Indians, and Martians, thus leaving a land inhabited only by "pure blooded" FREEDOM-LOVERS. I am not implying that these persons are bigots. Not at all; I am stating it.

If we can scrape together ten intellectuals, with or without beards, the Adelphi chapter of the Ku Klux Klan will be organized. This would be a great boon to Adelphi since the K.K.K. chapter will be the first wholly (Holy) national organization on campus. (Kerosene and whips will be supplied; bring your own sheets.)

Shifting subjects, I would like to

Bill Millet, Colby Star, Gets Award

Ellsworth "Bill" Millett, alumni secretary at Colby College, has recently been notified that he will be honored as a recipient of the Pop Warner Award for distinguished achievement in the interest of youth.

Mr. Millett will receive this award from Bob Clifford, head football coach at Colby and a member of the Pop Warner Conference Commission, at the annual athletic banquet to be held this spring. At this time Mr. Millett will receive a certificate citing his accomplishments in "striving, by personal example to inspire our youth."

As a student at Colby, Mr. Millett was outstanding in football, hockey, and baseball. He was the recipient of eleven varsity letters, was twice unanimously selected as all-Maine fullback, and was a member of the all-state hockey team.

Mr. Millett has shown an active interest in the Waterville Boys' Club and has served as president of this organization and on its board of directors for over twenty years.

In all his relationships, teammate, coach, citizen, "Bill" Millett has emphasized the Pop Warner ideals of interest in scholarship, sports, fair-play, and fellowship.

UNIFICATION PARTY

Co-rushing chairman of Zeta Psi fraternity, Matty is a History Economics major. He is co-chairman of next year's Winter Carnival committee and a past treasurer of Campus Chest. A member of the Colby Community Club and the Outing Club, he participates in varsity football and intramural hockey. He has also taken part in frosh hockey, frosh baseball and frosh football.

The name of our party symbolizes the purposes of our platform. For years now Student Government has had capable and enthusiastic people leading it. In spite of this leadership and seemingly good and practicable platform, Student Government has not lived up to what students have expected from it. We feel that this has occurred because Student Government has lost contact with the students. Presently student interest in their government is at the lowest ebb it has ever been.

The Unification Party feels that through an effective and functional Student Government supported by an active and united student body, a better understanding of and solutions to the various problems on campus will be possible. To us the idea of an active, interested student body cannot be stressed too strongly, for it is here that the strength of any Student Government lies.

Our platform, therefore, will be primarily concerned with generating interest in Student Government and helping to provide you with the tools necessary to express and create the type of government you want.

We feel that at least the following problems are of major importance to the campus and must be

Nelson - Marchetti, Fox, Vollmer New Captains

The captains of the 1959-1960 winter sports teams were elected by the lettermen of their respective clubs before vacation. Leon Nelson and Ed Marchetti will lead the hoopsters' next campaign, Jim Fox will captain the hockey team, and John Vollmer will lead the ski team for the coming year.

Nelson and Marchetti, succeeding Lloyd Cohen as captain of the hoop squad, hold a notable distinction. They are the first co-captains in the thirteen-years coaching career of Lee Williams at Colby. Leon Nelson is a six-foot three inch junior from New Haven, Connecticut. He attended Hillhouse High School where he was a four-sport athlete. Besides playing football, he was state high jump champion, state doubles champion in tennis, and All-New England forward his sophomore and junior years in basketball. Nelson had a fine frosh hoop year at Colby and then moved into the starting varsity line-up as a sophomore. He was second on the team in rebounding and was consistent scorer. With his jump shot much improved this year, he scored often. He led team scoring against Maine, Bowdoin, St. Michael's and Boston University.

Ed Marchetti also had a stellar high school career, but he confined himself mostly to basketball. Marchetti made the All-New England squad when he led his Morse High School team to the New England championship finals. The six foot five inch center led his frosh team at Colby in both rebounding and scoring. Both sophomore and junior years he repeated the feat and was picked for the All-State first team both years. In 1959 he led all players in the state in scoring.

Jim Fox, six foot three inch defenseman, was voted to lead next year's pucksters. Fox has played two years of varsity football for Colby at both guard and tackle. His hockey career has been a history of rugged competition. Hailing from Newton, Massachusetts, Fox has been a stalwart on defense.

John Vollmer, from Stockholm, Sweden, and London, England, will lead the Colby skiers. Vollmer has competed in cross-country, jumping and slalom and is expected to place well in them next year. The team will be bolstered by sophomores and juniors, making the outlook a very bright one.

The outgoing captains are: Lloyd Cohen, basketball; Don Cote, hockey; and Bill Chapin, skiing.

All - Stars Defeat Dekes for Charity

The 1959 Campus Chest opened its activities with a hockey game between the Dekes, winners of the fraternity hockey league, and the fraternity all-stars on Thursday, March 19. The all-stars, composed of members from the other teams in the league, won the hard-fought game, 2-1.

The game was a well-played contest, first of its kind at Colby. It showed the coming of age of hockey, once again, by illustrating the fine hockey played below the varsity and frosh level, and by exhibiting the following that any hockey game has at Colby. The turn out was good and the game exciting, insuring the future success of similar programs.

than there were progressing through the receiving line in the faculty lounge. I shudder to think what the ratio might have been, had the receiving line been on the third floor and the punch bowl on the second.

Thursday, Dr. Wright spoke on "History as A Cultural Bridge", which unfortunately was more culture than history. "Eleanor of Aquitaine and the Four Kings" can hardly be classified as history for history's sake. Water anything down enough and the average American will be able to read and enjoy it, seemed to characterize Dr. Wright's talk. The time I spent listening to Dr. Wright might have been spent more profitably for one of my "gentlemen's agreement-violated" hour exams.

The panel discussion Thursday night was all discussion and no thought provoking controversy. It seemed for a while that it was turning into a session of "Can you top this?" with a distant thirty years of the seventeenth century as the guiding factor. The questions from the floor were surprisingly intelligent.

The final speech on Friday morning was a fitting close for the Convocation. President Cole made absolutely no concessions to his audience, and is to be admired for that. Examples were given to prove points, all of which were extremely concise and important.

There were those who felt this way about the Convocation:

We complain about our isolation;
Intellectual Apathy;
The Cultural Gulch;

And then, when it comes to Convocation

I can't go, I have to study.

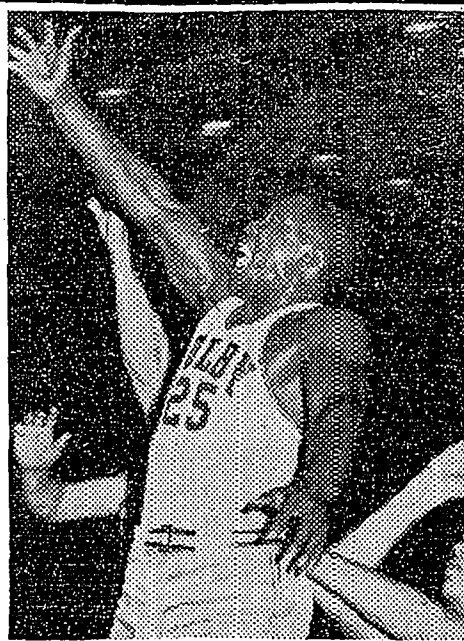

Academic Mulo!

Later, to the gods, an Invocation;
A prayer of thanks that we'll be Rising from the gulch.

I went . . . and liked it.

The challenge was there;

Which, I suppose, disqualifies me,

Leon Nelson and Ed Marchetti, head and shoulders above opposition in similar rebounding feat, were recently elected co-captains of hoop squad.

Outlook Bright For Coming Cinder Season

The 1959 Track season is expected to see one of the best Varsity and Freshman teams in Colby history. Under the enthusiastic coach-uypeceived able assistance in preparing for their coming season. Coach Simpson came to Colby this year from Somerset High School in Massachusetts where he was head coach of some excellent track teams. The team is being well conditioned and the pole vaulters and jumpers have been provided with an indoor pit of which they were deprived in past years.

This year's team will have excellent material from its nine returning lettermen and members of last year's undefeated Freshman team. The team will be one of the first to have material with which to enter every event due to the large turnout of candidates. The returning lettermen consist of sprinters Captain Paul Reichart, and Ron Littlefield, distance men Frank Morgan, Robert Littlefield, and Dan van Heeckeren, with Dick Walton in the shot and discus, and Leo Beaulieu in the broad jump. Also members of last years undefeated freshman team worthy of mention are Don Legro, Bill Hamilton, Charles Pettee, Bob Moritz, Tony Gilbert, Roger Williams, Jon Wolfe, Bruce Staples, Sandy Graham, and Simply because I care.

A sad, but seemingly prominent, portion of the faculty thought the convocation was a waste of time; hour exams were sprinkled throughout the convocation period and one professor was heard to remark that the student body as a whole would be better off if "it spent more time studying and less time running to convocation." An edition of the "Beat News" appeared, to "add to the general culture of this convocation."

Constructive criticism came mainly from the students; suggested ideas included narrower topics for the speakers, fewer speakers on campus for longer periods of time and more chances for students to meet informally with the speakers.

with a B or better average, but exceptions will be considered.

Final selection is based on: academic record, letters of recommendation from faculty members with whom courses have been taken, a personal interview, and to some degree, the type of project taken. Students with a good academic record who are capable of sustained effort, who can work independently, who have originality of thought, who can write well, and who are deeply interested in their proposed topic are ones the committee is looking for.

Before a student may make application for the program he must have found a faculty member who will serve as tutor and must have a brief outline of his project. Course credits are allowed to a maximum Bill Swormstedt. Ben Butler, last year's hurdler is managing the Varsity team because of an injured knee.

The Varsity expects success in winning the first of their meets with Norwich and Brandeis. They will also meet a very good team from Bates and expect to place in the State meet with Bates, Bowdoin, and U. of Maine. A meet will then follow with Dow Air Force Base.

Due to the enthusiasm displayed by the number of candidates contending for the two teams, Colby is not only to witness the most successful track season in college history, but also expects to form a winter track team next year. They will then take part in the K.A.A. and B.A.A. meets. Colby track has never before experienced the large turnout of potential as is displayed by this year's candidates.

of three or nine semester hours. Neither the topic nor the tutor need be in the field of a student's major, although both usually are. Names of scholars will be announced at the Recognition Assembly in May.

Bi-weekly meetings with tutors are required and at the end of the first semester the student submits a progress report and receives a tentative mark from his tutor. If a student wishes to drop out of the program he may do so at the end of first semester and his first semester mark becomes permanent and he takes the required number of courses for second semester.

Final reports are submitted at the end of second semester and the student is graded by his tutor for the year's work. The tutor then submits the report and a recommendation as to whether or not the student should be given honors in the program to the committee and the final decision is the prerogative of the committee. Honors in the Senior Scholars Program are set apart from honors in the general academic area and are announced separately on the commencement program.

Application forms are available from the members of the committees and must be submitted to one of them before 5:00 p.m. on Wednesday, April 1, 1959.

Committee members are Professors Crocker, Bridgman, McKay, Miller and Sutherland.

fact that there were few opportunities provided for any close contact between the speakers and the student body for any length of time. The third possibility for the possible failure of this year's convocation was the obvious absence of any real divergence of opinion, of any controversy. As one speaker at the panel discussion said, "we seem to agree too much." John Stuart Mill, in his universally known essay, ON LIBERTY, said, "No belief however deeply felt can be regarded as infallible. The growth of human knowledge and wisdom, upon which the progress of mankind depends, is the pooled result of innumerable individual observations and speculations, criticisms and counter criticisms." Education is just this, an eternal process of growth and development, and unless the individual is provided with fruitful subjects for speculation and conjecture, and unless antithetical issues are juxtaposed and discussed, then this essential stimulation will not be aroused. In this context, the 1959 Academic Convocation appeared to fail in offering those ingredients of "criticism and counter criticism."

show my appreciation for that MAINSTAY OF TRUE JUSTICE the Judicial Board. I would suggest that the punishment for those caught cheating be made more stringent. After the guilty ones make their public confessions, they should be immersed in large glass vats containing formaldehyde and placed in the cabinets of the first floor of Blodgett, thusly exposed to their peers (those who were not caught).

At the same time I would like to congratulate Adelphi's "solomons" for their recent adoption of a get-tough policy regarding those who are CAUGHT cheating. Needless to say, the situation these "enlightened despots" are in, is unenviable. Exposed to the gaze of all, their conduct, like Caesar's wife, must be above reproach. However, I do wish them the best of luck with their new policy; may it succeed as well as the first one . . .

To those of you who mouth the words of others without knowing what you are saying; Greetings. If that old saw "Ignorance is bliss" is true, then surely you are living in ecstasy. You regurgitate the words and ideas of those far more intelligent than you, and yet you try to warm yourself in their reflected light, like a reptile basking in the sun. For you, we will provide blinds so that you cannot see the truth; ear plugs, so that you cannot hear the truth; and gags, so that you will be forced to swallow your own bile. ear plugs, so that you cannot hear the truth; and gags, so that you will be forced to swallow your own bile.

Concluding, I would like to state that this letter was not written by one of the beat-niks, angry young men, etc. Simply, it has been penned by one who feels that if an idea or institution cannot endure being criticized - it doesn't deserve anyone's respect.

RE-ORIENTATION PARTY

he is currently scholarship chairman. In his first two years at Colby, Rick was on the football, hockey and tennis teams. After his sophomore year he spent two years in the U.S. Marine Corps, during which time he was stationed at the Kaneohe Marine Corps Air Station in Hawaii. This year Rick is captain of his fraternity hockey team and a member of the varsity tennis squad.

This party sincerely believes that it can and will, if elected, justify the faith that all people connected with Colby have in the aims and principles to which the college is dedicated. To achieve this we propose:

1. To devise a system of representation which would fulfill the obligations and responsibilities of a representative body.
2. To cooperate to the utmost with the administration for the particular purpose of establishing a more profitable liason between the faculty and the individual student.

3. To create an effective system of administration in the men's dormitories which would enable them to fulfill their proper function.
4. To establish a program of freshman orientation which would orient instead of confuse.

Each of these four points is of primary importance if the student body of Colby College is to lift itself out of the doldrums of complacency, lack of enthusiasm and satisfaction with mediocrity.

arises.

- (3) The scope of Student Government and its committees should be expanded.

(a) Particular concern should be given to the Student-Faculty and Curriculum committees. A general study of the Colby curriculum could well be instituted by Stu G, with additions and revisions brought to light.

(b) The Freshman Week Committee should work to present a more varied program. Social events should be balanced by noted lecturers. It is never too early to stimulate the freshmen intellectually.

CANDIDATES

Bill Droll, a junior History-Government major from Baldwin, New York, is our candidate for president. Bill is currently the Editor-in-Chief of the ECHO, and is a junior advisor. He is a member of Social Committee, Hangout and the Katakhdin Council. He has served as a member of the Homecoming and Winter Carnival committees and was a member of the ORACLE staff. Bill is a member of Student Government this year.

Our candidate for vice-president is Leon Nelson, a member of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity. Leon's hometown is New Haven, Connecticut; and he is majoring in History-Government. He has served on Men's Judiciary and Student Government for two years. As a freshman, he was a member of the Interim Committee. He has been on the basketball team for three years and is the co-captain elect of the 1959-60 team. He was also a member of the track team.

Sue Chamberlin is our candidate for secretary. She is an Economics major from Groton, Massachusetts. Her activities include membership on Student Government and Women's Judiciary Board. She is a Varsity cheerleader, a junior advisor, and has also served as a chapel usher.

Don Freedman, our candidate for treasurer, completes the slate. Don, majoring in philosophy, is from Huntington, New York. He is a member of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity where he has served as social chairman and corresponding secretary. He is business manager of the IKON, and the sport's editor and an executive board member of the ECHO. Don is the manager of the Colby Eight, and the treasurer of this year's Campus Chest. In World War II, Mr. Mavrinac served with the 100th Infantry Division in combat on the 7th Army front in France and Germany and received a battlefield commission in France in 1945.

From 1946-1948 he was Deputy Director of Manpower Division, Office of Military Government for Hesse, Germany where he was responsible for the supervision of reconstruction of German labor unions and for operation of German wage controls.

In 1950, prior to his study as a Fulbright Fellow at the University of Louvain in Belgium, he was awarded a M.A. degree and in 1955, Harvard awarded him a Ph.D. degree.

CARL JEFFERSON WEBER

Born in Baltimore, Maryland and graduated in 1914 from Johns Hopkins University where he was a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Dr. Weber continued his education as a Rhodes Scholar. He studied at Queens College, Oxford, England where he earned a B.A. Degree in 1915 and a M.A. in 1920. In 1938 he was awarded an honorary Litt. D. from Franklin and Marshall College in Lancaster, Pennsylvania.

As an author of numerous books and articles on literary figures, Weber has been chiefly interested in the works and life of Thomas Hardy, the famous English novelist and poet. Through Dr. Weber's efforts, the Colby library has built up what is considered to be the world's most comprehensive collection of literature by and about Thomas Hardy. Hardy has been the subject of over fifty articles and a dozen books written by Weber. The result of Weber's research under a Guggenheim Fellowship from 1944 to 1945 was the publication of a volume on Hardy.

In addition, Weber's chief books include: HARDY AT WESSEX (1940), 1001 FORE-EDGE PAINTINGS (1949), HARDY AND THE LADY FROM MADISON SQUARE (1952), and most recently, the centennial edition of FitzGerald's RUBAIYAT.

Besides teaching at Colby, Dr. Weber has visiting lecturships at the University of North Carolina, West Virginia, New York, Colorado, South Carolina, and Maine.

In 1927, when President Arthur J. Roberts' health failed, Dr. Weber was appointed to the faculty executive committee which administered the college for two years after Roberts' death until the arrival of President Franklin W. Johnson.

Dr. Weber directed the Colby College Summer Sessions from 1942 to 1944 and was a faculty representative on the Colby Board of Trustees from 1955 to 1958.

Colby's largest problem at the moment. In addition to more buildings, Colby intends to aim for more of a coherence in the college curriculum. This will involve adding a number of courses, and at the same time weeding out those which aren't proving effective. Present plans include a course for seniors dealing with the impact of science on modern beliefs. Work in Russian, Italian, Far Eastern History, and astronomy will become a part of the curriculum and this will entail an increase in the faculty.

At the convocation, Dr. Bixler will enlarge on these problems which are being faced by the college. He will also outline some of the steps which will be taken to alleviate these problems.

Thinklish translation: In modern circles, the plain round ash tray is considered square—no butts about it. Today's ash trays resemble anything from a Ming vase to a coach and four—the only word for them is deceptacle! To the discriminating smoker (anyone who enjoys the honest taste of a Lucky Strike), we offer this fashion note: 25-lb. ash trays are very big this year.
