By-law On Fraternity Hazing Passed by IFC

The Inter-Fraternity Council Monday evening passed a strong new by-law defining the IFC's position in respect to fraternity hazing practices. The resolution in no way interferes with the freedom of individual houses to conduct their own programs. Instead, it gives the Council broad powers to step in when necessary and punish or stop "detrimental" hazing.

The IFC partly based its stand on a resolution passed in December which stated that the IFC was "firmly opposed to any hazing which is physically, scholastically, and morally detrimental to the individual." In the new by-law the modified resolution reads that the IFC "will not allow any hazing which is physically, scholastically, and morally detrimental to a fraternity pledge or group of pledges." It also based its stand on a section of a statement by the National Inter-Fraternity Council which "believes in and stands for the strongest possible constructive development of the individual fraternity of men."

The new by-law is the IFU's first attempt to control the pledging activities of Colby's ten fraternities on proper hazing policies would have probably forestalled any attempts to regulate hazing. But now the houses have unanimously gone on record as opposing "physically, scholastically, and morally detrimental" hazing. Decisions on the gravity of individual cases depend entirely on the action of the members of IFC who happen to be in office when dubious hazing is in question. Thus each fraternity that is questioned must be able to prove to the satisfaction of the IFC that its pledge program is constructive and not detrimental to its pledges.

The Inter-Fraternity Council Review Board procedure will govern the handling of specific cases. Cases may be presented to the Council by almost any interested party or fraternity man. The Review Board investigates each case, gathers the facts, presents them to the entire IFC, and then makes a recommendation for disposal of the case. The IFC has a wide range of punishments at its disposal. They range from letters of warning and fines to social probation and closing a house.

Among the features of the by-law is the provision that the IFC does not need to rule a fraternity either guilty or not guilty of detrimental hazing. It can also rule the fraternity guilty of "possibly detrimental results" coming from hazing. In this case it can send a warning which in effect gives the fraternity in question one chance to

Women's Union Has New Room Available For College Women

Since the removal of classes and seminars to the new Lovejoy building, the Women's Union has become a social center for Colby women. One room, now available for relaxation, used to be the Ilsley Room, on the second floor. Until recently, it was used for the music classes. The redecorating and furnishing of this room has been the project of the Women's Union Committee, under the inspiration of Dean Seaman and Miss Brady, with the help of former chairman, Kay White. All the college people will be invited to attend a tea in the near future at which time the room will be informally opened.

Besides fixing this room, the Union has purchased a fine stereophonic record player for Dunn Lounge, which will be used for dances and informal parties. Students may use the record-player at any time. It plays all types of records at all speeds without adjustment.

Since the Union is a popular place for study at certain times during

William Barber Is Gabe Lecturer On Tuesday, April 12

Mr. William J. Barber, a member of the department of economics at Wesleyan University, will present a Gabrielson Lecture on Tuesday, April 12 at 4 p.m. in Given Auditorium. He will speak on "American Foreign Policy in Underdeveloped Areas."

Mr. Barber is well-qualified for this subject since his doctoral dissertation was on American foreign investment in Africa, with special reference to the economic development of the Federation of Rhodesia and Nyasaland. His current research is in the field of international trade and investment, combined with his continued study of economic development problems of underdeveloped areas.

Barber has been an assistant professor of economics at Wesleyan since 1957. He received his B.A. degree from Harvard, graduating magna cum laude, in 1949. He also received his B.A. from Oxford with first class honors in 1957. Oxford also awarded him his M.A. in 1955 and Ph.D. in 1957.

He first attended Oxford as a Rhodes Scholar and while he was there he received the George Webb Medley Scholarship, Oxford's prize in economics. He held a Nuffield College Studentship at Oxford while working toward his doctorate.

Before joining the faculty at Wesleyan, Barber was assistant professor of economics at Kansas State College, a lecturer in economics at Balliol College, and an economics analyst with the Central Intelligence Agency.

Annual New England Band Festival Will Be Held On April 9

This Saturday, April 9, at 8 p.m. in the Women's Union, Colby College will play host to seventy of New England's best student musicians at the annual New England Intercollegiate Band Festival. This is the first time that the Colby band, under the leadership of Dr. Comparetti and Carl Steiler, band president, has had the opportunity to bring this select group of musicians to the Colby campus. In previous years the festival has been held in more centrally located Massachusetts. Each student participating has been tried out before a special committee composed of college band directors who worked throughout the northern states. Admission into the band is governed by the student's playing ability, his intonation, his tone, and his sight reading ability.

The band itself will be representative of over fifteen colleges and universities, including; Trinity, Amherst, University of New Hampshire, University of Maine, Bowdoin, Hartt, University of Massachusetts, Bates, University of Rhode Island, Farmington State Teachers College, Boston College, Northeastern, Jackson, Tufts, and Colby. Colby band members selected to play in the concert are: Richard Kenison, baritone; Louisa Chase, clarinet; Douglas Dorr, clarinet; Sandra Moulton, clarinet; Pat Wilson, clarinet; Connie Lay, flute; Ann Lovell, flute; Nancy Judd, percussion; Chester Purdy, percussion; Jon Hall, trombone; and Ellen McCue, trombone.

Dr. Johnson Has Been Appointed Faculty Dean

Dr. E. Parker Johnson, Chairman of the Department of Psychology, has been named new Dean of Faculty to replace President-elect Robert E. L. Strider.

In making the announcement President Bixler said: "The appointment will be received, I am sure, with great satisfaction by all Dr. Johnson's Colby colleagues and his many friends outside the college."

Dr. E. Parker Johnson

He is a first-rate scholar and an effective classroom teacher . . . he has won the confidence of all who have watched him at work. He will make an outstanding contribution to the college as it enters what may well be the most creative period in its history.

"It is a tribute to our faculty that both the new president and the new dean have been chosen from its ranks."

Dr. Johnson is a native of West Springfield, Massachusetts. He received a B.S. degree from Springfield College in 1938 and at Brown University earned his masters and Ph.D. degrees in experimental psychology. A research psychologist, he has done numerous studies on the psychology and physiology of visual processes.

A veteran of World War II, Dr. Johnson served in the Royal Canadian Air Force as a medical associate, with the rank of Flight Lieutenant.

After eight years of teaching at Bowdoin College, Dr. Johnson came to Colby in 1955 to head the Psychology Department.

Governor John H. Reed of Maine recently appointed Dr. Johnson to the Maine Board of Examiners of Psychologists. He is also a member of the National Research Council Committee on Vision, the Panel on Vision of the Advisory Committee on Psychotherapy, Department of the Army, and past-president of the Maine Psychological Association. Dr. Johnson has contributed to technical journals and is co-author of the book A Student's Manual to Accompany Psychology.

The new dean of faculty will assume his duties this summer and plans to continue teaching one course a semester in psychology.

The ECHO has hit big time. Twenty copies of the April 1st issue are on reserve in the library for Philosophy 212, the sophomore ethics course. Besides April foolishness, the issue contained an article and an editorial concerning the southern sit-in movement and the national protest against discrimination. The Ethics class is reading material from a variety of sources in order to study the significance of this movement.

Amy Eisentrager '61, is the newly-elected secretary and Lael Swinney '62, is treasurer, both of Chi Omega. Other members of the board are Pris Gwyn, '62, Alpha Delta Pi; Charlotte Clifton, '61, and Brenda Bertorelli, 'Delta Delta Delta; and Nancy Cuneen, '61, Sigma Kappa.

A member of the junior class, Diane is majoring in English Literature. Diane has been on the staff of the ECHO since her freshman year and has served as a member of the Editorial Board and as Feature Editor. She is also a cheerleader and a Junior Advisor.

The Panhellenic Association will be considering deferred rushing this spring along with limitations on closed parties. On Sunday, April 10, at 2 p.m. there will be a workshop for all sorority women interested in discussing next year's rush program. If the response to such a workshop is good, Panhellenic will consider plans for a more inclusive meeting in the fall, with sorority representatives from other colleges.

Stu-G Meeting Hits At Intellectual Unawareness

Student Government devoted its weekly meeting Monday evening to a discussion of problems and plans for the coming administration. The meeting, which was held informally because only nine out of twenty members — less than a quorum — were present, ranged over the traditional topic of student apathy and the problems of a weak student government.

President Beverly Lapham, conducting his first meeting since his election, opened the discussion by presenting a tentative plan of attack. He stated, "I think that Student Government should take a position as trying to lift intellectual and scholastic awareness on campus." Stating a number of possible ways of approach to the academic area, he said, "We ought to strengthen the drive for the A. Most of our energy is aimed at the C."

He cited the Student Government movies. They should have "a definite purpose" and be "of high caliber, such as foreign films and classic films." He also suggested

Contemplations

This has been an encouraging week at Colby. The Inter-Fraternity Council took a significant step forward by unanimously voting to approve a by-law that firmly orients our fraternity system toward constructive hazing practices. The IFC, which has never before dealt with fraternity hazing in such a definite manner, has now reached enough agreement among its ten members to be able to define hazing responsibilities. The new rule, which is printed in full on page 5, gives the IFC power to punish any house which carries on "detrimental hazing." And not only is the IFC at work, but the Student Government seems to be coming to a well-thought-out plan of action for the coming year. Its discussion in the recent meeting is going to produce a more unified, less bureaucratic group. If it successfully raises "scholastic and intellectual awareness" on campus, it will have done a commendable job.

But this is not all that is hopeful. We are beginning to find that here and there our extra-curricular life is far from dead. Several groups are active. The Roger Williams Fellowship is setting a high pace with its lively program and enthusiastic membership, which, we believe, is higher than any of the other religious groups; the sophomore class, enjoying good leadership, is meeting regularly and now planning a picnic; Student League is promoting bull sessions in the women's dorms; this year's women junior advisors have donated some twenty books to dormitory libraries; and S C A has successfully planned and carried through a drive for clothes, money, and blankets for Algerian refugees. On the lighter side, the Tri-Delts have once more proved that the combination of a square dance and ladies' choice is a pile of fun and profit. And people, of all things, are even reading the Echo again.

There are factors working for Colby. But it takes a little common sense to avoid crushing the very things which will help us. We perhaps tend to under-value, for example, our climate of criticism at Colby. We on the Echo would not be able to survive emotionally and intellectually if we were not allowed considerable freedom in publishing criticism of the campus. The criticisms which have been written by seniors — two this week and ten before vacation — came freely and were not regarded as particularly sinful by anybody. Our administration on campus could not be much more than a benevolent bureaucracy without the kind of intelligent criticism that sees the lacks in the present curriculum and proposes such alternatives as the January Plan. The fact that criticism is tolerated is a measure of the strength and vitality of the college. Perhaps one of the faults of the present situation — and we are being mildly critical now — is that people tend to get too mad at a critical comment. One should, instead, demand every critic to have his facts and reasoning correct. But, regardless of principles, to be able to see people openly questioning, criticizing and griping is a blessing to be deeply thankful for.

At Colby we also have many successful people and groups. But we are notoriously lax in asking them how they got that way. Can anyone accurately tell us why Roger Williams Fellowship, the sophomore class, the SCA drive, and the perennially successful Powder and Wig get successful and stay there? Every campus leader — certainly most juniors in office — ought to find out. In general, rules for success are pretty clearcut. First, leaders usually know accurately what they want. Secondly, they know what is in their way. Thirdly, they know how to get what they want. (1-2-3: goal, problems, solution.) In addition there are minor factors like luck, hitting a mass movement

To conclude our thoughts, it looks like the campus is learning at the right time, and having something worthwhile to do. spiels to stay healthy. It isn't usually normal that anything is perfect. But most activities that have good goals — like eating when you're hungry — are the most normal things in the world. That's why they succeed.

Let There Be Light Eastern Campuses Reply To Segregation Conflict

To the Editor:

Since all — and they are few enough anyway — the lights between the girls' dorms and the library have been "removed" (smashed — destroyed — take your pick) not only does the passer-by drown, but now she must do so in the dark.

A number of thoughts are illuminated, if somewhat dimly, by the above situation. In the first place, the lights were put up at the request of the Women's Student League after a number of unpleasant incidents had occurred. This spring, Student League, upon requesting that the lamps, bulbs, or whatever was necessary for the efficient functioning of said lighting system be replaced was told by Mr. Whalen that they have already been repaired six times. It was also reported that the damage was done by Colby students (men, we presume). More pertinent, however, would seem to be the fact that, until this continual destruction ceases, no replacements will be made. Needless to say, the women's side of campus is somewhat upset about this, regardless of how mixed the feelings might be on the other side of campus.

Now that the snow is gone, perhaps the temptation will not be so great along destructive lines — and for those who wish the walk back to the dorms to be in darkness, go by the road or the water tower. There are some academically inclined souls who simply wish to get to and from the library as quickly and easily as possible. The lights have facilitated this, regardless, once again, of the motives of those who broke them.

The Women's Student League appeals to "the men at Colby — — — our lights aren't under a bushel, so why try continually to destroy them?"

SENIORS SPEAK Ed Burke

Is education a mark? I always believed education to be a process whereby a person was prepared to contribute to the betterment of society. I don't think we are doing a good job of this at Colby. The moment I arrived here my freshman year, I was told how hard college was going to be. I was told that if I didn't obtain good marks, I would be a failure. All I heard was marks, Marks, MARKS. I really believe that in placing such strong emphasis on grades we have hindered the educational process. In his quest for marks, a student develops a very poor attitude in respect to his education. Some of the results of considering a grade as an end in itself are in my opinion, as follows:

- (1) A very definite tension between students and professors;
- (2) a negative and defensive attitude on the part of the students;
- (3) A rebellious attitude toward studies and the benefits to be gained therefrom;
- (4) A fostering of certain outlets such as excessive drinking, fraternizing, socializing, or the like;
- (5) An overall anti-intellectual atmosphere.

As a result, studying becomes something to be avoided by the majority whenever possible, as tiresome and undesirable. It is not considered as enjoyable in itself, but as a tedious and necessary means of attaining the ultimate end... a grade. Education is more a matter of survival than of enjoyment and enlightenment. This attitude carries over into other areas such as lectures, concerts, convocations, etc., and defeats the purpose of a well-rounded education. Does this have to be the rule, rather than the exception?

The issue of southern integration and what we in the north can do about it has stirred a great deal of thought and action on many eastern campuses during the past few weeks.

Essentially what has been demonstrated against is segregation, but the symbolic point of attack has been the lunch-counter discrimination that exists in large parts of our "free and equal" country.

Beginning in the south, anti-segregationist elements have staged sit down protests at Woolworth store lunch counters, in an effort to make this large segregation-policied chain store a battlefield for this ethical question. If, through student efforts at sitdown protests, pickets, postcards, petitions, and telegrams, the Woolworth chain can be made to change its segregation policies, then a great deal will have been done to set an example and create a much needed starting point for the integration that is so alarmingly slow in coming.

The Emergency Public Integration Committee (EPIC) began at Harvard and MIT several weeks ago, and has staged effective but orderly picket protests against Boston Woolworth branches since then. Boston University has joined the drive, and Vassar, Lehigh, Rutgers, Brandeis, and Trinity to name only a few, have supported the cause with mass meetings, picketings, and warm telegrams to southern governors. SCA is accepting contributions to assist students of Vanderbilt who were expelled for demonstrating their belief in equality.

At present, there are a select few who believe that free, literate red blooded Americans exist as far north as Waterville, Maine. It is a fact that Woolworth stores are on this side of the big woods, and hence opportunity. If you as a northern student have ever felt disgust at the way the southern situation is handled, this is a time to exhibit the ethics you believe in. The intercollegiate fire burns higher every day now, and we have one of the most northern of Woolworth's branches less than two miles away. The ECHO, Stu-G and a group of your friends will be encouraged to see and hear ideas and action on Colby's (your) part.

Thirty-first Building Is Now Being Constructed

Construction of the new Administration building, long awaited and needed, is expected to be commenced as soon as clear weather arrives. The steel began to arrive last week and the final plans have been completed. The completion date is now set at early spring of next year. President Bixler said last week that the completion and opening of the new building, the 31st to be built on Mayflower Hill in the past 23 years, would have a "far reaching effect" on the life of the college.

Dr. Bixler also pointed out that "this is a facility we have long sought, both because of the impact it will have on our administration work and because it will transfer our offices from the library, releasing space for the purpose it was intended." The numerous possibilities opened up by removing the administration offices from the library was emphasized in the recent issue of the Colby Alumnus. This publication stated that concerning the front part of the third floor of Miller Library, plans have been presented for a study area that would replace a stock room, a small study room, and a closed-off classroom. Also planned is a study room on the basement floor of the library's north wing which will be open 24 hours a day.

The new administration building will have reception and conference rooms, and offices for the president, vice-president, three deans, registrar, alumni, director of admissions, public relations, placement, and development.

The contractor for the construction is H. P. Cummings of Ware, Mass. and Winthrop, Maine, the same firm that also built the Bixler Art and Music Center and the Lovejoy Building. The entire estimated budget for the building, including the completed base, furnishings, and architect's fees, is $593,792. The cost for the conversion of library areas into study space is planned to be $250,000.

If less emphasis could be placed on "winning the big one", that is, getting the grade, this would help matters greatly. There would be far less tension and hostility on the part of the student, and, consequently, more willingness and co-operation, which would lead to more being accomplished along intellectual lines. Students would be more eager to learn and to help others in their pursuits. By doing this we would be more closely approaching the ends toward which an education is directed — the betterment of society.

(Ed is on the varsity baseball team and is a dorm counselor.)

Jonathan Knowles

Since it has been my privilege to work closely with the fraternity system in general, and my fraternity specifically, I feel well qualified to give my comments on this subject.

My first impressions of the fraternity system here at Colby were that they were far from being conducted on the high level at which I had imagined a Greek letter society should be maintained. A few fraternities based their organizations on the mere grounds of being Phi Delta Theta.)

places to reside while going through college. Others believe that a fraternity was a place to emphasize the social aspects of college, tending toward social clubs. A minority of them were organized for the purpose of perpetuating the fraternal order in its true meaning. For the past two or three years the trend has been toward the latter type of organization with a heavier emphasis on being a "brother in the bond." The answer to this lies in the pressure exerted on local chapters from the respective national organizations. The nationals have recently been receiving a continual amount of friction from outside elements that are against the whole Greek letter system because of many reasons, such as racial segregation and ridiculous incidents due to the negligence of the part of immature chapters. Few people will quickly forget the fatal incidents which occurred because of physical hazing at M.I.T. and Los Angeles.

Regulations and moral suasion have contributed to prevent unnecessary risks and encourage closer union in the fraternal system.

Colby Baptist Fellowship To Feature Bishop's Co.

Coming To Colby

In its current series on "The Christian Faith in Modern Drama", Roger Williams Fellowship will hold its next meeting at the First Baptist Church on Monday, April 11, to see the Bishop's Company production of the verse-drama version of Alan Paton's "Cry the Beloved Country." Following the performance the group will hold an open round table meeting with the members of the cast discussing both the play and the orientation of the drama group in the contemporary theater.

The Bishop's Company was formed several years ago by a group of young actors interested in the production of the best religious drama of our times. Most of the company left the security of jobs and established careers to pioneer in the movement to provide a ministry of drama in the church. The company appeared at the Second Assembly of the World Council of Churches, at several leading universities, colleges and seminaries, as well as in churches across the country. The particular play they present has a special timeliness and message today. All students and faculty are invited to attend both the performance at 7:30 p.m. and the discussion to follow.

At its last meeting, Roger Williams Fellowship elected officers for 1960-61: chairman, Marjorie Kemp; secretary-treasurer, Charles Storms; men's division representative, Anthony Kramer; women's division representative, Martha Raymond; and representatives to IFA, Marcia Eck and Rosemary Blankenship.

Students Vote To Elect The Feature Book of the Year

Colby has a variety of problems. One of the more tangible is that which rears its intellectual head every spring... The Book of the Year. The Book of the Year committee of the faculty is scratching its collective head in wonderment as to how to re-vitalize and make worthy the institution, of The Book of the Year. Despite "The Theory of the Leisure Class" and "Magic, Science, and Religion" which have reigned, for the past two years, the corresponding head of this committee feels that the program has not worked well for two or three years. In about two weeks, the faculty committee is going to run a GENUINE election in LOVEJOY. Students are going to ELECT a BOOK, which will undoubtedly be enough different from the usual run of elections to arouse a little active apathy. The committee has tentatively chosen SEVEN books which are as follows:

- 1) F. Dostoyevsky, "The Brothers Karamazov" which novelizes an ethical problem;
- 2) J. R. Oppenheimer, "The Open Mind," a series of short speeches on science and public policy;
- 3) C. P. Snow, "The Two Cultures and the Scientific Revolution", a statement about cleavages between humanists and scientists;
- 4) Learned Hand, "The Spirit of Liberty", carries a wide variety of interpretations of liberty;
- 5) Machiavelli, "The Prince" and "The Discourses", limns political perplexities in a now-distant nationalistic period;
- 6) Robert Hutchins, "Freedom, Education, and the Fun", searches among subjects suggested by the title; and
- 7) Sigmund Freud, "Civilization and Its Discontents", with strikingly contemporary relevance, despite its vintage.

The Book of the Year Committee hopes to receive comments and entries for its final selection. Interested students should make enquiries to members of the committee; Mr. Bridgman, Mr. Brown, Mr. Iorio, Captain Limm, Mr. McKenna and Mrs. Zukowski.

Howard Blatt Has Been Elected New President of Hillel

Howard Blatt, class of '61, has been elected president of Hillel for the coming year. Other newly elected officers are: vice-president, Dave Kiskind; secretary, Marsha Palmer; treasurer, Neil Ossen; and IFA representative, David Gallin and Neil Ossen.

Hillel recently entertained a group which performed and explained extra sensory perception. Previous speakers have been Dr. Todrank on "What is a Jew?", and Mr. Iorio on how modern authors are rejecting religious orthodoxy. Also, the Hillel Director of New England spoke on the cultural aspects of Judaism. In the future, Hillel is making plans for members to spend Passover in the Jewish homes of the community.

Mule Kick Felt During Southern Baseball Tour

John Winkin's varsity baseball team completed a very successful southern trip over spring vacation. The Mules compiled a record of 5 victories, 4 defeats, and 1 tie over a period of six days.

Coach Winkin was pleased with the performance of his team as they showed strong hitting and solid pitching. Due to injuries to Ron Turecki, Pete Cavari, Don Burgess, and Ray Berberian, Winkin was able to look over some of his younger and less experienced ball players and he liked what he saw. Of the veterans, Dave Seddon performed tremendously both with a stick and with a glove. Winkin believes that his fine backstopping ability will be a great asset to the ball club and especially to the young pitchers. Ed Burke swung a mean bat throughout the whole trip and will be counted on to provide much of the Mule's power. The double play combo of George Rodin and Tony Zash looked sharp afield and also chipped in with some timely hitting. Cal Pingree and Don Burgess also looked good at the plate.

The pitching which was the biggest question mark before the trip was impressive most of the time. Ray Berberian looks like he'll be the number one man on the staff which will include Tony Ferruchi, sophomores Jim Bridgeman, Ralph Loffredo, Bill Marks, Pete French and Royce Wagner.

Colby's biggest problem now "it getting outside and playing" says coach Winkin. Since there is only so much the team can do in the fieldhouse, Winkin is making every effort to get outside. He has gone to the extent of having his team shovel off the snow from the field. Colby will soon be making its important New England trip, and if they don't get outside real soon they will be at a great disadvantage, since the teams they will be playing are already practicing in the fresh air. It looks like a player the Mules didn't count on will play an important role in Colby's baseball fortunes. His name: Mr. Weatherman.

Mule Coaches See Strong Teams For New Track Season

Nineteen men, including seven lettermen, have turned out for varsity track this spring. Frank Morgan will captain the sophomore and junior studded cindermen who have been working indoors for the past few weeks.

Coach Simpson, judging from performances so far, has been impressed with Frank Morgan and Charles Pettee, both lettermen, in the distances; Matt Perry and Bob Littlefield in the 440, Sonny Bryant and Malcolm Graham in the high jump, Ken Bee and Dave Jacobson in the weights, Jeff Savastano in the high jump and broad jump, and Peter Beamont in the dashes.

Others who have been working and who will add depth to the team and perhaps provide some surprises are: Sturgess Butler '61, high jump and hurdles; Bruce Ferguson '62, hammer and javelin; Nick Gross '62, distances; Ronald Littlefield, '60, low hurdles and dashes; Bob Norton '62, low hurdles and dashes; Bill Swormstedt '61, hurdles, discus and javalin; and Harmon Withee '62, hurdles.

Track is a sport which has not been given the support at Colby which it deserves. As a result, Colby has perennially been at the rear among the track teams of the state, and now is even having trouble getting other schools to schedule meets with. Bates, Maine and Bowdoin, the other schools in the state, have track programs which get much more support from the student body and more important, from the athletic department and the results can be seen in their teams. It seems that nobody at Colby cares about the track team until state meet time and then everybody complains when we do poorly. Here's hoping track gets the recognition it deserves and the conditions it needs.

the year, an agreement has been made with the Physical Education Department, whereby room 201 on the second floor can be used for study at all times when it is not being used by gym classes. The ping pong room, which formerly was on the main floor, has been relegated to the basement.

The Women's Union Committee, under its new administrative staff, Ency Schick, Anna Radwany, and Judy Hoagland, is planning further projects to make this social center more attractive and more comfortably useful. In line with these changes will come the change of the name of the union to the Runnels Union in honor of the former Dean and trustee Dr. Ninetta May Runnels, in whose administration the center was dedicated.

At this time the members of the Women's Union Committee would like to thank Vice-president Williams and Mr. George Whalen for furnishing the new room on the second floor.

INTRAMURAL HOCKEY LEAGUE

In a hotly contested interfraternity hockey league which was not decided until the very end of the season, ATO was able to stave off DKE and DU to become the new champions. After an unimpressive start, ATO finished strongly by beating the Dekes were upsetting the other two contenders, the Dekes and DU.

Much of the credit for the ATO performance must go to their superior passing and the outstanding defensive play of Steve Chase and Gene Rainville. The final standings of the league were:

IFC States New Rules On Practices of Hazing

Since the Inter-Fraternity Council of Colby College believes and stands for the strongest possible constructive development of the individual fraternity men and is dedicated to elimination of all forms of conduct which are inconsistent with this purpose, it therefore establishes the following policy toward fraternity hazing of pledges:

The Inter-Fraternity Council will not allow any hazing which is physically, scholastically and morally detrimental to a fraternity pledge or group of pledges.

Cases which involve possible detrimental results from fraternity hazing shall be subject to the IFC's normal Review Board procedure. After the Review Board has met and made its recommendation, the IFC shall rule whether or not there were physically, scholastically or morally detrimental results to a pledge or group of pledges caused by hazing. The IFC may also rule instead that the specific case only involves possibly detrimental results. In this situation it shall send a letter of warning to the offending fraternity. The letter shall include a statement of the IFC's rules on hazing and of the possible disciplinary action which can ensue from violation of the rules. If the IFC decides, however, that there were definitely detrimental results, it may punish the offending fraternity in accordance with its standard Review Board procedures.

If in one college year a fraternity has either been sent a warning or has been disciplined for detrimental hazing and is found on a subsequent occasion either guilty of detrimental hazing or of possibly detrimental hazing, the offending fraternity must cease all its hazing activities other than requiring its pledges to learn the names and addresses of its active brothers plus whatever other material is required by the national. It may only discipline its pledges through the threat of non-initiation. The pledges of such a house are to be told of their rights in this situation by the IFC. The fraternity must also submit to the IFC for approval a detailed outline of its planned pledge program for the following year. The outline must be submitted at least two IFC meetings before the beginning of the following pledge period. If the fraternity then deviates from this program or continues detrimental hazing practices, it shall of course, be subject to further action from the IFC. In any case, a fraternity with two offenses is subject to such further disciplinary action as the IFC deems necessary and proper under its Review Board regulations.

straighten out. Another feature of the by-law affects a fraternity which has been either warned or punished once and then gets into trouble again in the same year. In this case, the twice-guilty fraternity must suspend its pledge program and plan its next year's program under the supervision of the Inter-Fraternity Council.

AFROTC Sky Lights

by Joe Wright

The long awaited Monday when drill would be resumed has finally arrived. The familiar flights of Blue basics were seen marching up and down the Colby streets earlier this week, and it appears that spring has finally reached Mayflower Hill.

During the winter, in place of the Monday afternoon drill, cadets were treated to Air Force movies. These films range in subject from the Wright brothers first aircraft to the latest A.F. weapons, all quite interesting the first time through. However, no more movies, no more blue plush L-100 on Mondays. Leadership laboratory has begun.

What does Leadership Lab (drill) accomplish? What are its objectives? It is quite difficult for a participant to be objective toward the subject, but I shall try to give as fair an evaluation as possible. For the freshman at the beginning of the fall meetings, drill was rather disorganized. He found he didn't know his right from his left. Demerits flowed free and easy. But, he also was amazed at what his flight was able to do in no time at all.

Leadership lab is an outdoor classroom, where there is no teacher. The basic cadets learn the fundamentals of precision drill. The advanced cadets receive invaluable experience in the leadership of men and the handling of responsibility.

SELECTION OF DORMITORY COUNSELORS

The date is approaching for the selection of men's dormitory counselors and assistants for the next college year.

This is to remind all men who feel they have the qualifications to leave their names in the Dean office.

Approximately six counselors will be chosen from the large number who apply.

Each applicant will be considered carefully for this very important work, which, needless to say, calls for ability and leadership, the best on campus.

It should be emphasized that contrary to rumor, financial need is NOT considered in making these selections.

Daisy Mae Gets Abner In Hawkins Day Chases

Daisy Mae and Little Abner lead Grand March

Saturday, April 2 was proclaimed Sadie Hawkins Day by Hezebiah Hawkins, mayor of Dog Patch. His general intent was to give his "lovely" daughter a chance to catch herself a husband, since it was lawful and proper on that day for the girls to chase the men. This also gave the Colby girls a chance to ask out their secret interest. (this being leap year, besides!)

The Delta Delta Delta's planned a perfect excuse, the Sadie Hawkins Dance and supper. Everyone enjoyed the hoe down and the marriage of Daisy Mae to 'Lil Abner. This year Colby's Daisy Mae was Joan Dignam and 'Lil Abner was Ed Burke. After a short chase to catch him, Daisy and Abner were married by Marryin' Sam, Iorio, as were many other couples. The affair was a complete success, with 275 people attending.

Rapid Colby Eight Plays East Coast

This spring vacation the Colby Eight took one of its longest and most successful trips. Finding themselves with a shiny new bus and no place to go, they decided to make a barnstorming tour of the east coast colleges and universities from Maine to Miami. The group started out on a tour which was to cover 4200 miles and thirteen states in one week. The trip began with a performance at Assumption College in Worcester, Mass. Stops were made at such places as the University of West Virginia, University of South Carolina, Duke, Columbia College for Women and University of Florida. The tour was climaxed by a two night stand at the Club "88" in Fort Lauderdale. The audiences in the South were very receptive and interested as New England seems to have a corner on the market of eight-type groups. The return trip to Maine was made non-stop from Fort Lauderdale. The group arrived on campus tired but happy after singing many hours for enthusiastic people.

Other trips to be made this spring are to Holy Cross, University of New Hampshire, Skidmore, Westbrook Junior College and Cornell.

SCHOOLS LISTED

check with advisors to be sure that all graduation requirements are being met, especially the necessary number of courses. To make up a semester course at Colby requires a course which carries at least three semester hours or credits, while a "year" course may only be made up by a course carrying six hours or more.

STU-G MEETING

shutting the door on the Spa end of the library to prevent commuting from the Spa to the reference room in the evenings. He mentioned bringing a cultural series to the campus. He also proposed more support to "intellectual organizations". "We could bring them a speaker and give them more money to work with." He also tentatively suggested enforcing some all-campus study hours. In addition, he mentioned prizes to top scholars, prizes to fraternities and sororities with high averages, senior guidance of frosh in choosing majors, a good program for incoming freshmen, and a more unified all-campus election system. Those present then discussed things informally. Both deans were generally in favor of working in this area and promised their support of Lapham and the Stu-G. Dean Nickerson said, "When I came here 14 years ago, Student Government meetings were held in the President's Office once a week and four seniors griped for an hour." He felt that things had improved since then. The rest of the members had varied reactions. Don Williamson, senior class president said, "Our attendance tonight is a disgrace. We ought to take Student Government more seriously even if it means cutting other activities that we like." He stated that Blue Key has been discussing the problem of strengthening campus organizations and was willing to help with suggestions. He went on further to say, "Student Government has been in a period of stagnation. The administration should know that Student Government is here and should have more respect for it."

On the question of the adequacy of present representation, President Lapham asked how many representatives took notes of the meetings back to their respective organizations. Unfortunately, no one did. A discussion followed on the purpose of the group. On the question of taking news back to groups, Echo Editor Dan Hodges stated, "You can't report anything unless Stu-G does something. How many students would be interested in tonight's meeting?" On the question of the purpose of the group he said, "Student Government is made up of the heads of the important campus organizations and is intended to be made up of the people who know more about the campus than anyone else. We should sit around and discuss problems of the campus to try to define them and how to get at them. We shouldn't just try anything without knowing the problems we are facing."

Former Editor of the Echo, Bill Droll, said, "Stu-G should not be a big bull-session." The rest of the groups seemed to be in agreement that Student Government had to act if it was going to get somewhere. At the next meeting with fuller attendance, the group will discuss the question again.
