

Don't Forget to Vote on April 2 !!!

The Colby Echo

published by the students of Colby College, Waterville, Maine, since 1877

Volume XCVII, Number 18

Colby College, Waterville, ME 04901

March 29, 1993

1993-94 Student Elections

Stu-A Presidential and Vice Presidential Candidates

Blau/Rubin

Many of Colby's policies are founded on the premise: "That's what other small liberal arts colleges do." JB and Marc will represent the students so that Colby displays the initiative that other schools follow.

Our experience in Student Government and our commitment to Colby community will help us strengthen the student voice, which we have already fought so hard to enhance. As Commons and Hall Presidents we have been involved with the positive change that has occurred this year. We have the ability to continue this change and to recognize the problems that exist.

Now that student voice is heard, we need competent, experienced and enthusiastic leaders to adamantly and faithfully represent student views. JB and Marc will work and get the job done. Thank you.

King/Lee

Our main goals for the next year involve increasing cultural and social awareness by getting everyone in the Colby community involved from President Cotter down to each, individual student. We will push for more student input on all campus issues from social events to academic policies. We both have previous experience in Stu-A as hall presidents and will use that experience to help Stu-A run very smoothly and efficiently. Some of our ideas include reforming the current advisor system, implementing a peer advisory system and increasing campus unity to eliminate "sides" of campus. Essentially, we will work hard for you, the students, in getting your voices heard and respected in all matters concerning you. You will not be let down.

Mateo/Johnson

We, Marinel Mateo and Bonnie Johnson, have more student government experience than any other ticket in this race. As a team, we have held the positions of Commons Vice President, Hall President, Commons Publicity and Social Chairs. As Stu-A President and V.P., we intend to focus our energy on boosting the morale on campus, closing the gap between Stu-A and the student body, revamping the hall contract, rejuvenating the I-Play system and strengthening campus participation in all social and cultural events. We will be your strongest voice, so on April 2nd, please vote for the team that will most benefit you. Mateo and Johnson for Stu-A.

Moody/Loew

A brief message from Stu-A President and V.P. candidates Al Moody and Dee Loew:

Would you like to see: large scale events hosted by Stu-A; more input on tenure decisions; the option of living in a dorm with extended loud hours; a first-ever CBB weekend carnival; a more organized I-Play system; the voices of students of all races, gender and sexual preferences represented equally in decision making processes; the advisory system improved; the off-campus lottery removed so all seniors have the option to live off campus; pool or ping pong tables in the substance free lounges; weekend trips to more events; a late-night hang out right here on campus; improved communications with your President and V.P.; unity amongst the students? If your answer to any of these questions is yes, vote Moody and Loew.

Special Election Edition

The Colby Echo

founded in 1877

ANDREA KRASKER, Editor
GRETA WOOD, Managing Editor

WHITNEY GLOCKNER, News Editor
KAREN LIPMAN, Features Editor
MEADOW DIBBLE, A & E Editor
HANNAH BEECH, Opinions Editor
CHRIS DAVENPORT, Sports Editor
KRISTIN BURATI, Production Manager

SCOTT GALSON, Layout Editor
ARI DRUKER, Photo Editor
YUHO YAMAGUCHI, Photo Editor
ROBERT HOSTLER, Business Manager
CHARLES BEELER, Ad Manager
ANDY VERNON, Staff Cartoonist

JAC COYNE, Asst. Sports Editor
JAMES KELLEY, Asst. A&E Editor
KATHERINE BISHOP, Asst. Layout Editor
MICHELE ELLIOT, Layout Asst.
DANIELLE BEAUDIN, Layout Asst.
CARINN SCHURMAN, Ad Rep. and Designer
NATE LEWIS, Ad Rep.
MARK R. MUIR, Subscriptions Manager
BETH HERBERT, Subscriptions Asst.

LETTERS AND OPINIONS POLICY

The Editorial is the official opinion of the paper. The other opinions expressed on this page are not necessarily the views of The Colby Echo or its staff.
The Colby Echo encourages letters from its readers, especially those within the immediate community. They should not exceed 200 words.
Letters to the Editor should be typed. Letters to the Editor must be signed and include either an address or a phone number. For publication on Thursday, letters must be received by The Colby Echo no later than 8 p.m. Monday evening of the same week.
The Colby Echo reserves the right to edit all submissions.

EDITORIALS

Our Vote...

This year the Echo has chosen to endorse the ticket of Jon Blau '94 and Marc Rubin '95 for Student Association President and Vice President. After reviewing the statements submitted by the four candidates, we chose Blau and Rubin on the basis of their past experience and performance.

Although we feel that Alex Moody '94 and Dee Loew '95 have ambitious ideas and motivation as well as the dedication to carry them out, they don't not have the experience in Stu-A that Blau and Rubin do.

Marinel Mateo '94 and Bonnie Johnson '94 are also an experienced ticket, however Blau and Rubin have shown more results in their careers.

Kendra King '94 and Ken Lee '94 are the most dedicated of the candidates to promoting cultural unity, we don't feel that they have the experience or ideas to carry out their visions.

Colby needs savvy leaders with innovation, strong administrative qualities, and the dedication and pride in the college to make the students' needs a reality. Blau and Rubin have proven themselves in these areas.

As Lovejoy Commons President, Blau effectively carried off large scale events such as Skalloween and the distribution of recycling bins to all rooms throughout campus. Blau knows the ins and outs of Stu-A and we feel he is realistic in his goals for the new year. His business experience with CNT Shirts and Stu-Ads will also be valuable in helping Blau be an effective leader and administrator.

We feel that Rubin is the most qualified for Stu-A Vice President based on his performance and dedication as Hall President of Dana. Rubin is motivated and dedicated to the college and would be most effective and energetic in the job.

Of all the tickets, Blau and Rubin have the most realistic goals and ability to carry them out. Together, Blau and Rubin have built relationships with and gained the respect of students, faculty and administration. They understand the pace at which proposals are passed and have set goals that can be accomplished in that time. Blau and Rubin are familiar with the ideas and goals of the current Stu-A officers and will be able to follow through and improve on them.

Blau and Rubin are innovative people of action. They are best prepared to lead the student body next year, listen to students' voices and be a positive influence in Stu-A.

Good luck to all candidates for Stu-A, Commons, Class and Hall positions. Don't forget to vote this Friday.

Stu-A Social Chair Fitzsimons

Darragh Fitzsimons '95

photo by Ari Druker

Colby's Social life can be incredible! I want students to be excited about Stu-A social events. After all the Student Center is for all of us, it shouldn't separate us. Let's not forget—there's more at Colby! We have so much potential—our campus, the great outdoors, the students, the events we can bring to Colby, those we can create at Colby - we don't have to feel isolated here. College is supposed to be the best years of your life, as Stu-A Social Chair I can give you at least one.

Miller

For two years I have witnessed the decline in the social life at Colby and the Student Association is partially to blame. Instead of giving the students what they want in entertainment, Stu-A has only done what they have wanted to see and do for entertainment. The time has come for change. The time has come to elect a Social Chair that listens to the students and gives the students what they want. I, Michael T. Miller, am that person.

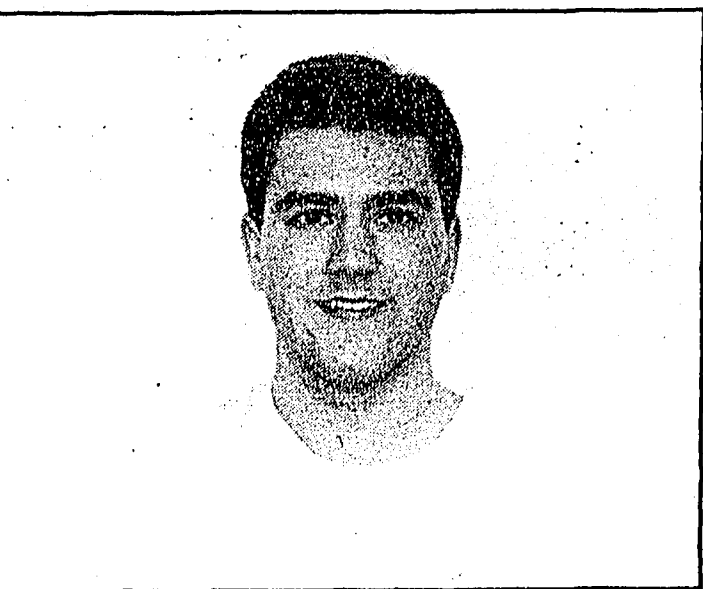

Michael T. Miller '95

photo by Ari Druker

Stu-A Treasurer

Barry

I will bring experience, a fresh attitude and enthusiasm to the position of Stu-A Treasurer if I'm elected. As Lovejoy Commons V.P. last year, I managed the budget for the commons, and as a result it was one of only two commons to finish with a surplus. I also understand the commitment and attitude needed to be a successful treasurer. Being away from student government for a year has instilled me with new energy, and a new will to see Stu-A run as successfully as possible.

Elliott Barry '94

photo by Ari Druker

Milgram

The role of Treasurer is one of responsibility. 68 organizations require that the Stu-A Treasurer have the time, know how and enthusiasm to make those groups and Stu-A run effectively. Additionally, the Treasurer must confront issues that effect the community and work cooperatively to solve those problems. I have served as a member of Stu-A Exec. this year and worked closely with Jason Hogg in the treasury. I bring fresh ideas, experience and continuity to this job. Thank you for your vote.

Andrew Milgram '96

photo by Ari Druker

Special Election Edition

Commons President/V.P. Candidates

CHAPLIN COMMONS

Eric Kemp '94 and Michael Casey '96

photo by Ari Druker

KEMP/CASEY

We are entering this race because we know what the Commons system should be. When conceived it was meant to replace the existing fraternity system. Unfortunately, in recent years it has become little more than a way to conveniently divide the campus into four groups of residence halls. In order to provide a quality social life at Colby, it is necessary to reevaluate and redefine our current Commons structure. Specifically, this includes increasing funding to individual halls, more frequent and thoroughly planned events and greater accountability in all positions at both the Commons and hall levels. We believe the key to a successful Commons as a whole is successful individual halls. Through a thoughtful and receptive administration we feel we can fully recognize the potential of Chaplin Commons.

MARY LOW COMMONS

Michael Sabin '96 and Dean Snell '95

photo by Ari Druker

SABIN/SNELL

Mary Low Commons has been a standout on the Colby College campus for providing its students with valuable cultural programming. As President and Vice President of Mary Low Commons, we wish to continue that tradition by showcasing more controversial speakers, more interesting bands and fully integrating the Coffee House into the campus community as a whole.

Though cultural programming is the focus of our efforts, we also wish to provide quality social programming. Social events will breathe new life, not just kegs, but more inventive social programming on the Commons and hall levels.

Our goal is to instill a sense of respect for the Commons by providing interesting and enlightening programming that appeals to the wide variety of students on both sides of campus.

There were no candidates for Lovejoy Commons as of the Echo deadline.

JOHNSON COMMONS

Justin Van Til '95 and Derek Plunkett '95

photo by Ari Druker

VAN TIL/PLUNKETT

Spa bagels, dogheads, Project Inward, the hall contract, the cross on the chapel, video games, parties in Bob's, streaking through Miller... If these are things you like or don't like, things you want to see more or less of, then we want to know.

Justin has been vice president and president of Johnson Hall. Derek has been vice president of Go-Ho and social chair of our Commons. Justin has run effective hall meetings, organized dorm events and spoken out on important campus-wide issues at Presidents' Council. Derek has organized Student Center parties, run pre-parties and learned the ins and outs of social programming.

We don't want to give you a bunch of words, we want to make promises. We have the experience, innovative ideas and drive to give you the best Commons next year.

Jennifer Wolff '94 and Bryan Raffetto '95

photo by Ari Druker

RAFFETTO/WOLFF

Since we're limited to how much we can say, here it is. Yes, we both have a strong background in leadership on campus. Jenn is V.P. of the Class of '94 and Bryan is Social Chair of Johnson Commons. More importantly, though, is what the #?#! we are planning to do if we are elected. Perhaps the most pressing concern would be to make a revision in the hall contract especially to relieve the tensions that have arisen between hall staff and hall councils. What else? Strengthen I-Play turn-outs, host parties with lower admission and higher attendance (i.e. more at Robert's), and choose a particular charity that we, as a Commons, can sponsor throughout the year. We are also considering an optional Commons social fee to increase intra-Commons events. Guess that's all for now. Thanks.

Stu-A Cultural Chair

photo was not available

Kebba Tolbert '94

photo by Ari Druker

As President of SOBHU I have had experience in coordinating or helping to coordinate a variety of events from lectures, panel discussions and workshops to concerts, parties, study breaks and dinners. As your Stu-A Cultural Chair I would continue to plan these types of events that would raise awareness of cultural and gender issues in fun and interesting ways. I have served on a number of committees and am currently the Co-Chair of the Student Affairs Committee.

Candidates advocate student voice

BY WHITNEY GLOCKNER
News Editor

A predominate theme of this year's campaigns for Student Association President and Vice President is student voice.

All the candidates agree that student voice is a key issue in this election, but all four have very different suggestions for how to make this voice heard.

Alex Moody '94 and Dee Loew '95 will make student voice heard through a variety of channels.

"We would like to have a monthly dinner in the Student Center with speakers on the same issues as Project Inward," said Moody. "From the group, discussions would be held in lounges in every dorm."

Moody and Loew would also like to see student representatives of clubs be made part of the President's cabinet in an effort to gather and utilize more student input, they said.

Other ideas to promote student voice through unity are a reorganization of Stu-A to promote the accurate representation of the students.

Moody and Loew would like to see the institution of a CBB week-end complete with performing arts, cultural events and parties, to promote Colby voice and unity with Bates College and Bowdoin College.

Marinel Mateo '94 and Bonnie Johnson '94 are running on a different and simpler platform in the area of student voice.

"The student without a voice equals a campus without a choice," said Mateo.

Kendra King '94 and Ken Lee '94 plan to promote student voice in terms of unity.

"Our goal is to effectively incorporate student voice in order to make the campus more unified academically, culturally and socially," said King.

King and Lee would like to see the institution of a peer advisory system and the understanding on campus that theirs is an open door, according to King and Lee.

"We cannot effectively lead without the voice of those we are leading," said King.

Jon Blau '94 and Marc Rubin '95 have yet different ideas on Colby and its student voice.

"Student voice no longer falls on deaf ears. We need to realize how powerful it is," said Blau. "We need leaders to continue to represent and follow through on the students' concerns."

Blau and Rubin plan to represent students by instituting a student think tank in which a number of randomly selected students will be invited to dinner with the Stu-A president and V.P. to voice their opinions, according to Blau and Rubin.

"We don't want to put forth our own agenda," said Blau. "We have ideas but we want to create a student agenda."

More from the candidates for Stu-A President and V.P. can be heard Wednesday March 31 at the Presidential Debate. □

Don't forget to vote on Friday,
April 2.

New
From Apple

Solutions from your Apple Campus Reseller:
the computer you'll use in school and after school.

Quite possibly, the only thing in your life that won't change after college.

The Apple Macintosh Centris 610.

The same Apple Macintosh Centris 610.

The new Macintosh Centris™ 610 computer has all the power you'll need today — and tomorrow. Its 68040 chip speeds through word processing, spreadsheet and graphics programs. It's expandable up to 68MB of RAM, giving you lots of room to grow. And, Macintosh® is the most compatible personal computer you can buy. See the new Macintosh Centris 610 today at your Apple Campus Reseller. Where you'll get special student pricing, as well as service during college.* And discover the power more students choose. The power of Macintosh. The power to be your best.*

For all of your computer needs visit the "Macintosh Office" at the Colby Bookstore in Roberts Union or call 872-3336

Editors need dates. See personal ads inside.

The White Ass

Printing the truth and pissing people off. A proud tradition since 1877.

Volume XCVII, Number 19

Colby College, Waterville, ME 04901

April 1, 1993

Echo sells out

The unmarked bills found in the Stu-U office.

BY STRESSED ECHO MOM
Echo Addict

The Echo has been sold to the highest bidder.

Secret negotiations between an administrator in the Stupid Activities Office, a Stu-U officer and an anonymous corporate buyer ended this week in the sale of the Echo, according to the Stupid Activities Office.

Negotiations were finalized after the Echo began investigating Stu-U's diminishing finances. It was then determined to be in Stu-U's best interests to sell the Echo to a private corporation. Payment was made in cash, in stacks of unmarked bills.

"It was a pretty sweet deal for Stu-U," said Po Werhungry. "All the money from the sale is going directly into the Stu-U social fund. The remainder of the money at the end of the year will be used to send all Stu-U officers to a student government seminar in Aruba."

The corporate buyer has revealed himself as the ever-popular and extremely wealthy cartoon character Richie Rich. Rich plans to enroll at Colby and begin administering the Echo immediately.

"I have money to burn and I think I can run the paper better," said Rich.

"Who needs experience when you've got money?"

The entire Echo editorial board immediately resigned on hearing of the sale. Some have plans to start up an off-campus paper. Others are just looking forward to the added leisure time.

"I think I might take up some of my old hobbies again, like eating and sleeping," said Ima Sostressed, an Echo editor.

As part of the sale contract with Rich, Stu-U was given complete powers of censorship and the new paper will run weekly columns written by or about all Stu-U officers, elaborating on their fabulous administrative capabilities.

"I'm looking for a new staff of writers and editors," said Rich. "Anyone moderately literate may apply. I don't intend to exercise the same discriminatory hiring practices as were used by the former editorial board. That's what spell check is for." □ space filler...shhhh!

See NICE TRY up your butt.

Woodie Allyn to teach creative writing class

BY KITTY KAREN
Unidentified

Famous comedian, writer and actor Woodie Allyn plans to abandon his place in the tabloids next fall, as he has accepted a position as Visiting Professor of Creative Writing at Colby. Arrangements have been has some problems with his coming," said President of the College Billy Karter. "We are thinking that he could add a lot to the entire academic community not just the English Department. We plan to have him teach Ethics and Child Development, too."

"I think he could really add a lot to my child development course," said Professor of Psychology Put-ya Tasleep.

Allyn is looking forward to the move.

"I am totally fed-up with New York City and the Enquirer, even USA Today," said Allyn in a recent phone interview. "I heard at Colby what you do behind closed doors is your own business."

Maine's outdoors is one of the reasons Allyn expressed an interest in the position after he saw it advertised in Parents Magazine.

"I've always been an outdoors type of man and I can't wait to take Mia's and my children skiing," said Allyn.

Good thing he has already earned a lot of money! □

We plan to have him teach Ethics and Child Development, too.

-Billy Karter
Pres. & a half

made for Allyn to reside in the Alumni house for the fall semester where a special security system has been installed.

"We are really excited to have him, although I have heard that the Women's Group

Stu-A Funds to Waco

BY ECHO BUNNY
EKQ Pledge

Due to the recent lack of Stupid Center paathies, a sub-committee to the ad hoc task force formed to investigate under-the-table actions Stu-U does not want students to know about met to discuss the lack of Stu-U social activity.

The sub-committee is made up of three students: Jonny Dogood '94, Paula "PC" Connway '95 and Ima Dork '96; two faculty members: Asst. Professor of Ethics Ucant Dothat and Head of Womyn's Studies Huper Child and Joiyse.

The sub-committee has made some rather disturbing discoveries, according to What Business is it of Yours?"

"You'll never believe the shit we got on Stu-U now," said Connway.

After tracking several unidentifiable checks to their ultimate destinations, the sub-committee discovered that almost $15,000,000 of the Stu-U social fund was diverted into a Swiss bank account under the name of Colby Koresch.

That's right folks, Colby Koresch.

The sub-committee determined that for the greater part of the year, Stu-U funds have slowly been siphoned into an account for use by the infamous Waco Cult.

The sub-committee speculates that Stu-U has been sending the cult in Waco funds and plans to join them after graduation this May.

"If they hold out 'til May, we bet that those two-timing bastards in Stu-U will just take the money and run," said no one you know. "I bet they already have their tickets."

When questioned on the matter, Stu-U spokesperson Fulla Shit '93 declined to comment, but said off the record that if I kept the whole thing quiet he would promise me a full ride for next year's tuition and salvation in the name of Colby Koresch. □

Soldiers wait outside the compound as Colby Stu-U delivers relief money.

News Briefs

Project In and Out sponsors student sex

Student Sex upon Campus (SSUC) is sponsoring a condom sale as part of their Thursday night all-campus dinner and forum on sex. The forum, Project In and Out, is intended to promote more sex among the student body.

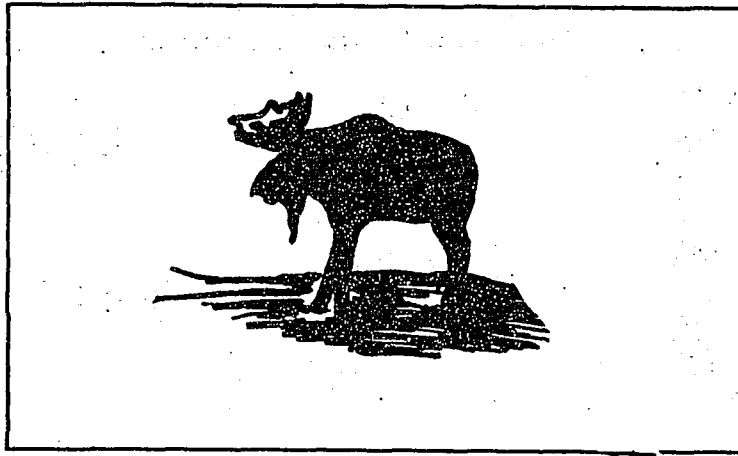

"We were asked by the administration to sponsor something nonalcoholic, so we thought, hey, why not sex?" said I. Getlots '94, co-president of SSUC.

The group will be discussing various positions, lubricants and fantasy enactment, as well as the emotional impact of rainbow colored condoms on sex. Questions can be addressed to the group at their hotline, x7399 or SEXY.

College bans "clunking" candy and soda

Thirsty students will no longer be able to get sodas from the machine on the first floor of Lovejoy. The candy and soda machines are being removed because "the clunking noise of the candy and soda hitting the bottom of the machine was disturbing professors," said Dean of Students Jane Slightlyzinger.

"I could hear those Almond Joys clunking all the way on the fourth floor," said Driveya Nuts, professor of oversensitivity. "I just couldn't concentrate on my seminar."

The Colby EKO moose

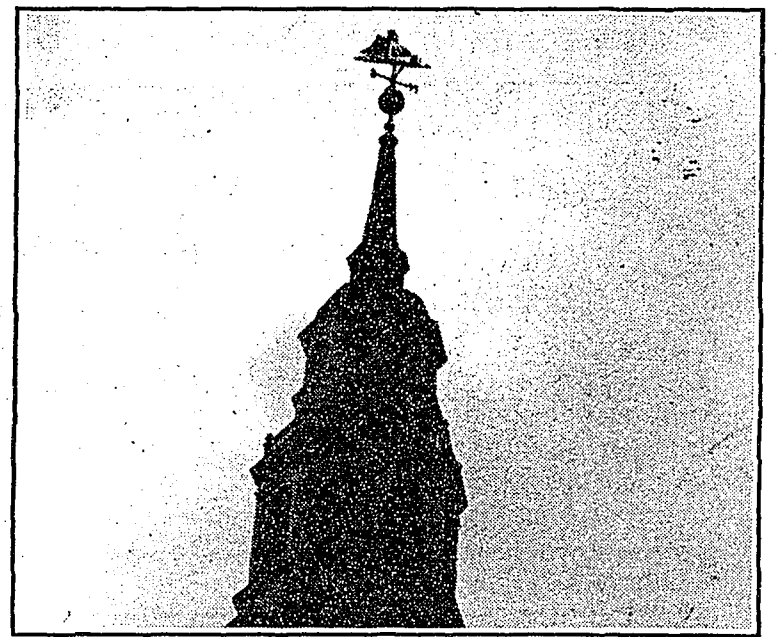

An additional factor in the decision to remove the machines was the image they project to prospective students. "Candy and soda just aren't academic," said the Director of Administrative Vice. "We don't want prospectives going home with the image of an unhealthy, junk-food-eating student body."

The Echo endorses its Moose for Stu-A Cultural

In a surprise announcement Monday, the Echo Moose declared a write-in candidacy for Student Association Cultural Chair. "I know it's sudden, but I think I have some great contributions to make to the school and hey, I look good," said Moose. "My first move as cultural chair will be to change our mascot to the moose. I mean, white mules? Who are we kidding?"

The Moose is also planning a Spotlight Lecture by the president of the Maine chapter of Ban Moose Hunting Season, a talk by Colby graduate Jeremiah Beer Die Earth on the role of god in Beer Die and a showing of the Colby classic, "Dielander."

"I'm just happy I declared my candidacy in time to get my picture in the Echo's election issue," said Moose.

The Miller clock tower/climbing wall

Students reach for the blue light

Two seasons of gym credit are now being offered to students who successfully scale the tower of Miller Library. The new gym credit option will allow students to use their climbing skills on Miller in a quest to reach the blue light.

"It seemed like a great way to get rid of my last two gym credits," said Gotta Graduate '93. "We're trying to start a bungy jumping off the blue light club too."

Students who wish to take advantage of the library scaling option can sign up at the Aesthetics Office.

News flash:

Student spotted at Spa Band Night! What the hell?!

Elvis?! Not another white male...

BY ECHO BUNNY
EKO Pledge

Because Gorby will be unable to leave the Commonwealth Union of Socialist Russian Republics to speak at Colby's graduation, plans have been arranged for an alternate graduation speaker. The administration tried to get some stuffed shirt in a dumb looking banker tie to come and talk about being a white male in America, but students quickly shot that one down.

"I mean, hey, if that dork spoke at graduation, parents would say it was nice and all, but I bet no one would remember a word he said," said senior Way Cool Jr. "We need someone fun and exiting to enhance the buzz."

With very little time left to name a speaker who would accept, the administration has asked Elvis Presley to be this year's graduation speaker, according to Ima Psychic, director of netherworld activities.

"I didn't even know Elvis was alive, but after I saw his photo in the Enquirer I thought it was worth a try," said Senior Class President Thisis Ridiculous. "I just figured, enquiring minds want to know."

The search for Elvis was hard, as his agent did not even know he was alive, but Colby eventually got in touch with the Pelvis, who gladly accepted.

"I think it's about time I stepped back into the spotlight," said the King. "Plus, I think the kids at Colby are real hip."

Elvis has been making a great living impersonating himself in Las Vegas, but feels he has had enough pretending and is ready to be himself again.

"I just hope people believe me," said the Pelvis. "It has been a long time since I rocked and rolled."

Elvis is currently living in West Palm Beach while working on his come-back album.

"I am trying to do a remix of 'You Ain't Nothing but a Hound Dog' with a bit of Simon's 'Graceland' and Cohn's 'Walking in Memphis' added in," said the once teenage heartthrob.

Students and faculty alike seem pleased with the choice of the administration.

"Anything is better than that other guy, he would have really made graduating a drag," said Ima L. Ibral '93.

"I just hope the King doesn't look all old and stuff, I mean, I want to remember him the way he used to be," said President "I Don't Wanna Grow Up" Caughther.

As of yet Elvis is not sure on what he is going to speak, but some possible topics include "My Life as a Dead Superstar," "Variations on the Pelvic Thrust" (complete with volunteers from the audience) and "How to Wear Satin in the Summer."

With graduation just around the corner, Colby is anxiously awaiting the return of the King. □

Mutant roaches discovered in Roberts

BY CHRISTINE FRANCAIS

The Roberts Union dining halls have recently been fumigated once again to cure their cockroach problem. However, a different kind of cockroach has been discovered in the basement of Roberts.

This kind of roach is immune to the insecticides that kill the common cockroach and is also much bigger than the average roach, according to a student worker at Silo's who discovered the roaches. The roaches are approximately two feet in length and six inches in width, about the size of a poodle. These roaches definitely cannot be crushed underfoot like an ordinary roach or they will make a big mess. So there is no known way to eradicate these abominable insects.

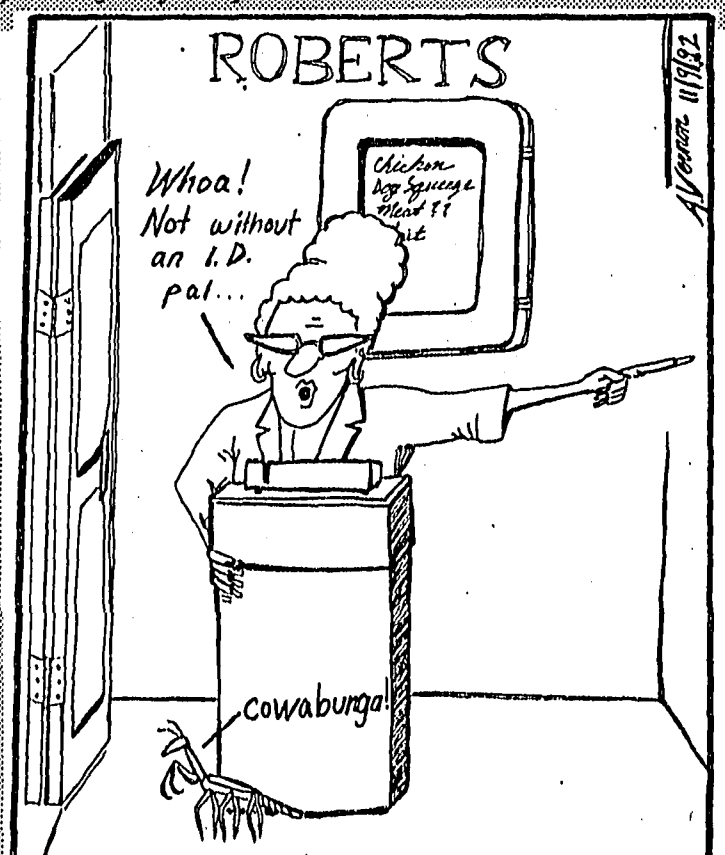

World-renowned insectologist Catherine E. Pillar was asked to come to the college and identify this species of cockroach. Pillar was astonished by the size of these insects. "There is not a species of cockroach like this on earth. This new species of cockroach must be some kind of mutation," said Pillar.

Pillar asked Dining Services if she could stay in the basement of Roberts overnight and observe these creatures. She was allowed to stay and during her stay she observed some interesting behaviors. According to Pillar, the roaches are nocturnal in nature. During the day they sleep in nests of shredded cardboard and at night they come upstairs into the kitchen to feed.

The roaches eat leftover foods, just like normal roaches; however, they eat much more than the common roaches. An entire freezer of hot dogs and breakfast sausages was reported to be roach infested, said Merry Ant-an-spider, director of Silos.

Pillar did not witness any roach mating behaviors during her stay, but she promises to come back later this spring "when the roaches will be hot to trot," said Pillar.

Right now dining halls Foss and Dana are being investigated for the presence of these mutant gargantuan roaches. "But there is a positive side to this," said Wayne Doobaye, manager at Roberts. "At least these roaches can't fit into the yogurt machines." □

Personally, I can't imagine how they got in in the first place.

Pledge EKO!

Archive 1969

Sixty-eight students suspended for orgy

BY HORNBY THOREAU

Sixty-eight students were suspended for a semester in 1969 after participating in what the Dean of Students found to be "an orgy type event." The students were caught in "the acts" in the then cord sauna at the fieldhouse when Security responded to a complaint by faculty members who heard disturbing noises while swimming in the pool during their lunch hour.

"I was utterly disgusted by the noises I heard," said Professor of Religion Mary Magdall. "I think those students need to re-examine their relationship with the Lord."

The students who were found guilty after a private deans' hearing were immediately sent home and warned not to speak to any media, which the Dean of Students assured them would harm their chances of ever being readmitted to the college. Several newspapers and news stations nationwide covered the story.

"This is truly a disgrace to this school," said the President of the College. "I sincerely feel sorry for all those who have been harmed by this." □

Admissions gives tips for assimilating

BY ANNA BARCELONA
Minority Writer

International students will no longer be a minority group at Colby College. Admissions received 78 international applications this year, a record never before achieved. All the applicants except for five lower class Spaniards who did not look good enough in the application picture have been accepted, and Dean of Admissions Pepsi Bevearige was so excited about the good news he could not keep the secret anymore.

"We knew that spending $10,000 printing and sending the new and revised International Catalogs to more than 100 countries would finally bring true diversity to Colby College," said Bevearige. "I think that everyone in Admissions should be proud of a job well done, especially the friendly secretaries who made thousands of phone calls to all kinds of students around the world trying to convince them that Maine is not only Vacationland but also the way life should be," said Bevearige.

"It was very pleasing to sense the happiness that most European members of the class of '97 felt when I told them that when living and partying at Colby they would feel at home," said Toni Feederlee. "Those Euro-freaks were in shock when I told them about the Hard Spa Cafe and Student Center mega disco we have here at Colby. Those bunch of preppies thought that Waterville was a shitty little town!"

Many Colby professors have also helped to recruit International students, according to Bevearige.

"I had most of my students over at my house and we ate all different kinds of Asian food in order to experience what Asian teenagers feel," said East Asian Studies Professor Lee Jeans. "It turned out to be an excellent workshop, and we decided to write postcards to Asian High School students describing how good Dana's hamburgers, Bob's refried beans and Foss' garden soups are."

Anthropology professor Constant Hrikos asked his students to do fieldwork based on the Colby Community in order to better inform international perspectives about life at Colby.

"I was very surprised at how well my students managed to avoid ethnocentric points of view by clearly stating in their fieldwork that most foreign cultures are not necessarily worse but rather primitive and ignorant cultures that had not have the chance to learn about Maine, the way life should be," said Hrikos.

Stu-A has also been very helpful in increasing the international students' interest in Colby College.

"We have sent several workshop tapes overseas with things such as 'fashion tips to succeed at Colby' where several Colby students model with either the sportsy-backwards-baseball-cap-jog-look singing "I am so cool, popular and hot. I really am, and so can you be too." or with the granola-crunchie-hairy-patagonia-coffee house-Marylow-look singing "If you don't shower but smoke grass Colby is for you too," said Bevearige.

Nevertheless, Admissions has not heard from anyone yet, probably due to mail delays caused by Superstorm '93. □

Colby laments age discrimination

Prospective students discuss financial aid.

BY EKO ADDICT
Jon's Babysitter

In the interest of promoting greater diversity at the college, Colby is actively recruiting from a group hitherto untouched; students disadvantaged by age.

"The College is concerned about what we now see as systematic discrimination against less mature students," said Pepsi Bevearige, dean of admissions. "For some reason all applications from this group have previously been completely disregarded."

As part of the new active recruitment, several prospectives were secretly brought up to campus last weekend under the guise of a Colby Frenz sleep-over.

"We consider it a successful weekend," said Bevearige. "It was productive in terms of addressing some of the specific issues this group has."

The weekend was kept a secret from the student body because of an administrative fear that complications might arise from student involvement. Information about the weekend did leak out however.

"Some students took advantage of these prospectives because of their particular age disadvantage," said President Kotter. "Taking them to a Student Center party wasn't so bad, but when someone tried to explain the blue light we ran into all kinds of complications."

A task force has been formed to deal with the specific issues of incoming youthful students. In particular, the task force expects to look at the need for a story hour in the English Department, an on-campus playground and seminars to raise awareness among students and faculty for the need for sensitivity toward the new students.

"We want to make every effort possible to see that these students are made comfortable at Colby," said Kotter. "After our past discriminatory practices I don't see how we could do any less." □

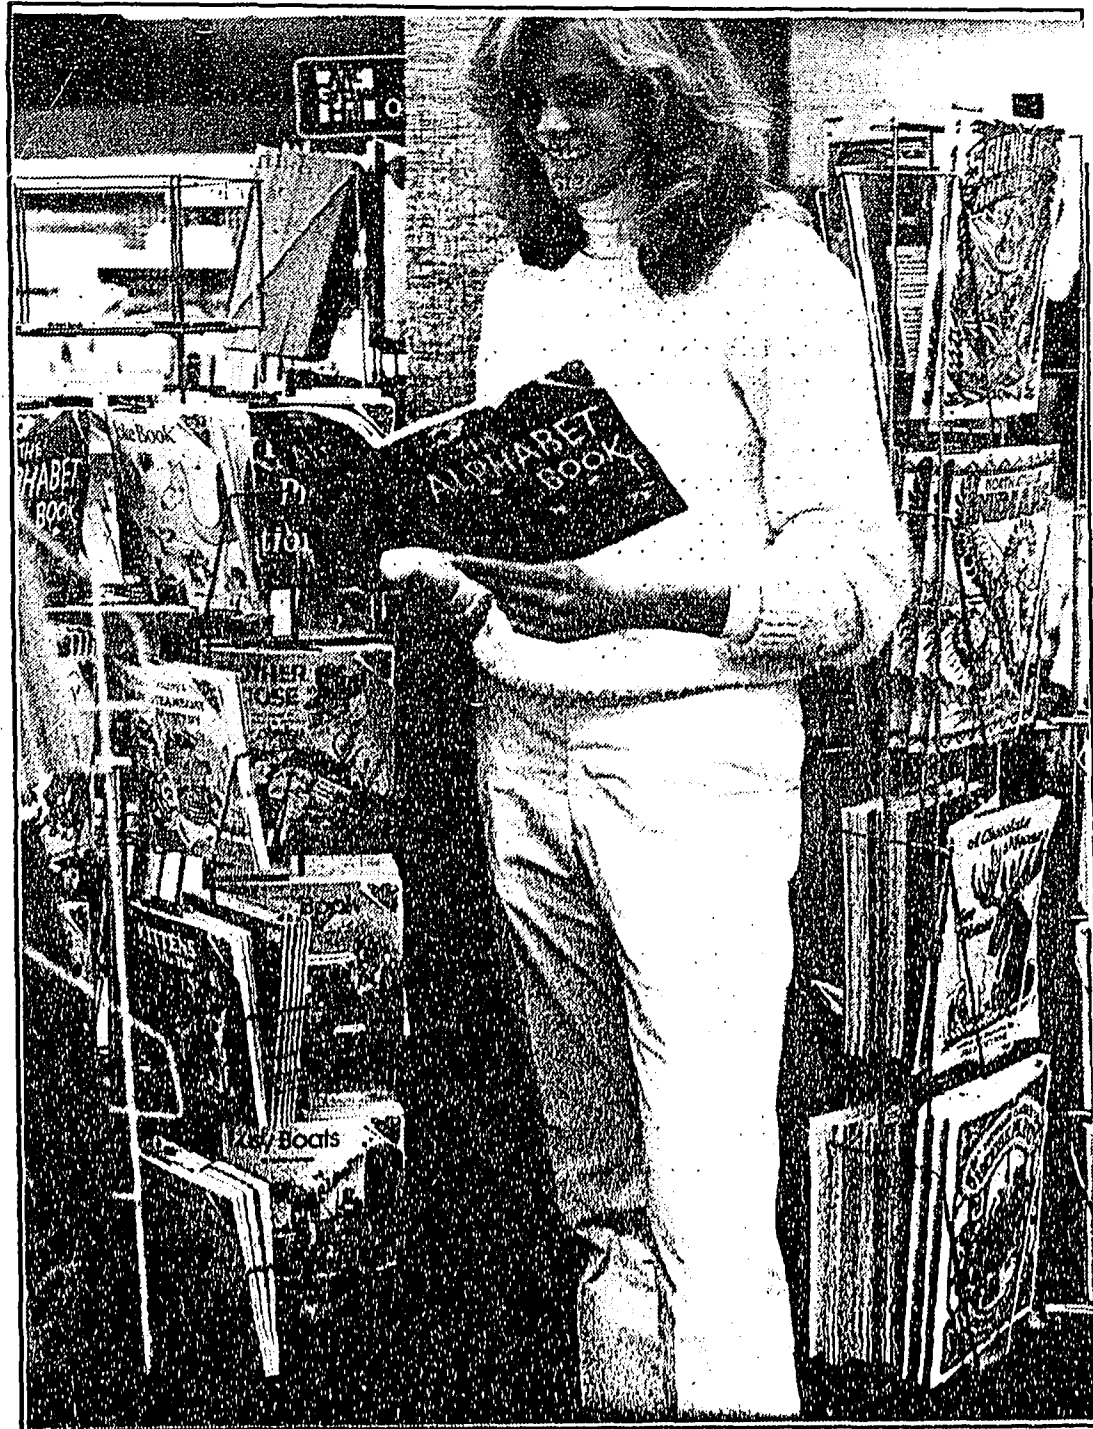

photo by Ari B. Drunker

Because too many minorities were accepted last year, only dumb blondes could be accepted for the class of '97.

Farts and Entertainment

Strider stage lights up the night

BY LANCE MANION
Asst. Editor, Brews and Babes

The campus remains stunned by the unfortunate and unexpected Strider fire last Thursday at 2 a.m. A swift fire raced through the building, gutting Runnals Union before fire trucks could arrive. One fireman was heard saying, "It was almost as if someone had gone up and down the halls with a can of gasoline. But why would someone do that?"

This comes immediately after an alumni gift to replace the campus building most in need of repair. Safety and Security has begun an investigation into the origins of the blaze. Currently their only lead is a charred backpack containing a coffee mug with traces of what appeared to be hexuple espresso, a clove cigarette and a Danzig CD. This piece of evidence has thrown suspicion onto one Morgan Davis '95. This was further corroborated by the scratch marks found on what was left of the doors. Davis has a well documented relationship with a paramilitary supply company, purchasing the equipment for illicit entrances. Suspicion was heightened by his frequent presence in Runnals as a pyrotechnics expert. Davis has protested his innocence.

Colby students around the smoldering remains of Strider Theater.

photo by Waterville Firefighter

"I don't know what they're talking about," said Davis. "I mean, yeah, it's true we needed fly space, workspace, new lighting and sound equipment, costumes, props, makeup, wing space and a new proscenium, but I'd never do something like that. Have you seen my coffee mug?"

The Performing Arts majors have expressed mixed emotions at the loss of their favorite haunt. Dana Cage '96 was deeply distressed.

"It's going to take them all year to build a revolving stage for us to do Les Miserables," said Cage. "We're not even going to be able to afford the lasers for Starlight Express. What the hell do they expect us to do with a lousy six million?"

In the meantime, all theater work has been moved into Safety and Security's offices. Security's distrust of the Performing Arts department has, of late, been increasing. S. Crockett, a replacement officer, was quoted as saying, "It's not that we don't trust them, we just don't want a bunch of naked long haired commies sitting around giving each other back rubs. Now we can see what they're up to. How soon until they're moving back out?" □

Herms Harms Humanity

BY LANCE MANION
Meadow's Bane

The acting world was rocked when Konstantin Stanislavsky introduced the method to acting. His ground-breaking idea was that the actor must experience the emotions and feelings of the character. Today his ideas are so widely held that they seem to be the only way of performing. Or are they?

In the area of stage combat there was no concept of the method. All was done by subterfuge and sleight of hand. Rounded edges on swords and blanks in pistols restrained actors from feeling the experiences of their characters as steel flashed and duels changed the courses of lives.

Students experience the pain.

photo by the Gooch

Combining martial artistry, 16th-century swordsmanship and a real bad attitude, instructor Leroy Herms '93 has brought realism to the final acting frontier. Herms, one of the most virile men on campus, has begun teaching a course where students learn to put their bodies and souls into experiencing that final battle. Herms, a firm believer in the idea that "If it's real for the actor, it's real for the audience," eschews pulling punches and using stage weapons in favor of the real thing. Students are equipped with razor edged knives and swords, including broadsword and katana. Classes are held outside after a misguided blow sheared open a steam pipe in the basement of Runnals.

The course was met with great initial interest from the student population. Unfortunately, many students have been forced to withdraw, citing medical emergency. Herms has not lost heart. "I'm very intrigued by the concept of the method. If living the part works so well for lines, shouldn't it work for violence as well? I tell my students to 'feel the pain' in a fight. I'm sure that they do."

The remaining students, or survivors, as they like to call themselves, expressed a continuing enthusiasm for their studies. They gesture excitedly with their remaining limbs at the beginning of each class. One of Herms' advanced students, contacted at Thayer Hospital, spoke highly of Herms. "I really thought I had him," he murmured through the sedative. "Man, he's fast." He also expressed a burning desire to get back to class, and "have another go at that bastard!" Before losing consciousness he mumbled something; "There can be only one ... the prize ..."

The students, have discussed plans to repay Herms for his efforts. "We're going to wait till the end of the semester and sneak up, uh, surprise, Mr. Herms. We want him to know just how we feel about all he's done for, and to, us. We want to show him all we've learned."

Herms has begun looking into a firearms course next semester. Funding is currently pending. □

Eating out: raw clams

BY RAY VICTORY AND CAL JAMMER
Staff Writers

Welcome, faithful readers, to another edition of "Eating Out." This week we are replacing your regular restaurant review columnists as they work in the Governor's office manning the Marijuana Cultivation Tip Hotline phones. Apparently they have helped many ambitious cultivators throughout the region.

We initially intended to review the fine cuisine offered for brunch each Saturday morning in the first floor Averill latrines. According to our sources, there is always a fine selection of reprocessed food to be found in and about the toilets — vomit, fecal remnants, you name it! However, even in the name of college hijinks, this was straying a bit too far from a certain administrator's definition of so-called "community norms and guidelines."

Instead, we decided to "perform" a review of "Flo and Susie's Raw Clam Bar" located on Cunnilingus Boulevard in the picturesque seaport community of Castine. We opted to approach this restaurant review from a radial standpoint. Dressed solely in leopard skin G-strings and Ambervision sunglasses (they really do filter out harmful solar rays) we were plated — handed our plates that is — then seated at a lovely candlelit table for two with sweeping pelvic views.

Cal, a seafood lover at heart, dove immediately into a huge plate of luscious bearded clams offered graciously by our most amiable waitress, Savannah. Ray started things out with a cup of clam chowder, because it really does make 'em louder, if you catch our drift. For the main course, Cal decided to go with the "catch of the day," a 12" tubesteak smothered in a salty white sauce. Ray enjoyed a hefty helping of tuna tacos, a delicacy that is a real treat when served properly.

For dessert, the choice was clear ... a big old piece of pie. The selection was diverse: apple, blueberry, hair, lemon and cherry. One can only imagine the difficulty in choosing, so instead of taking one — Jeppers — we took all! Washed down with a fifth of scotch, we were not only full, but three sheets to the wind as well.

Later, on the car ride home, following a vicious but spirited round of Bronx cheers, we agreed that "Flo and Susie's Clam Bar" was a real treat. The atmosphere was lovely, and there was hair, so we were there! Finally, in conclusion, to wrap things up, we came to a mutual consensus that the Colby alcohol policy is the lamest proposal ever! □

Sven the relatively impressive's advice

Sven is the most photogenic psychic available for cheap work. He also waits tables where he is able to determine customers' orders from the kitchen. Sven can be reached c/o The Colby Echo.

Dear Sven,
I lost my labrador retriever Woogums last week. I just want to know that she is alive and happy. Will I ever see her again?

Distraught Dog Devotee

Dear Distraught,
Yes, you will see Woogums again.

Next week you will be driving on I-95 and you will see Woogums. Briefly. The next person to see Woogums after you will be the road crew.

Dear Sven,
I'm sure my boyfriend is cheating on me, but I can't prove it. Can you help me? If he is, I'll kill the girl he's with and I don't care what the cops do to me.

Vengeful in Vancouver

Dear Vengeful,
Yes, your boyfriend is cheating on you. Go to the Motel Six on route 43 next Friday at 9:45 p.m. You probably won't need to worry about the police if you kill his partner. The wool industry probably won't be thrilled, though. Baa.

Dear Sven,
I think someone is trying to kill me. I don't know who it is. Please tell me who it is and how I can avoid them.

Frantically Fearing Fragmentation in Framingham

Dear Frantic,
Sorry, but by the time this is printed, you will already be dead. In the next life have someone else start your car.

Dear Sven,
You told me that if I played the serial number off a 1976 BMW in the lottery I would win. I tried it and almost got arrested. My number (12-34-54-60) didn't even win. I think you're a fake.

Hardly Happy in Harrisburg

Dear Hardly,
I had my assistants do some checking and discovered that the number in question did in fact win the Bolivian cockroach lotto last week.

It's not my fault if you don't specify the lottery you have in mind. And because you were rude, I'm not going to tell you which one of your co-workers is cheating with your wife.

Personals from Sven:
P-whipped in Pensacola—Yes, cactus would hurt.
Listless in London—Defense shields active. Warning, warning, warning.
Queasy in Queens—Today is a good day to maim someone named Brad.
Your broccoli is growing mouldy.

Still weary from Spring "Break", Vernon takes the week off... Filling in for him is "Billy" the annoying little Fuck from Family Circus....

Dig This Shit!

OFF CAMPUS

Bates College:

who the hell cares?

AT COLBY

Colby College

Lorimer Chapel: Spotlight Series Event
What Mr. Rogers Really Wanted When He Asked "Won't you be my Neighbor?" and its effects on a generation of American Children
April 1 Lorimer Chapel

Colby Art Museum: A Collection of Hand-Painted Origami Lobsters from Around the World

Art Chat: Evidence of Extra-Terrestrial Influence in the early works of Pablo Picasso

Music at Colby Concert Series: The Portland Triangle Quartet, performing Beethoven's fifth and the complete works of Jim Morrison

MOVIES

Stu-A Movies
Highlander II
Mr. Bungle Takes Manhattan
My Stepmother Is An Alien
Howard The Duck
Problem Child
License To Drive
Buffy the Vampire Slayer
The Beastmaster

That Shit Is Dug!

The esteemed panel of judges from the government department cast their votes for Ms. Colby '93.

EKO MEMBERS

founded in 1877

STRESSED ECHO MOM, Echo Addict
THE ALMIGHTY EKO GODDESS, *The Controller*ECHO BUNNY, EKO Pledge
KITTY KAREN, Unidentified
MELLOW DRIBBLE, Arts Editress
LIFE'S A BITCH, Twisted and Bitter
CHRIS "VINNY" DAVENPUERTA,
Who's Your Daddy?
K.B., *Toys and Hobbies*ROCK ME AMADEUS, Fucking Byline
Here
ARI B. DRUNKER, Really Nice Guy
THE GOOCH, Prince of Darkness
THE HUSTLER, Money Man
FERRIS BUELLER, Ad Manager
ANDY "DISCO INFERNO" VERNON,
*Staff Crueller*JAC COIN, The Major
LANCE MANION, Meadow's Bane
PEGGY POPE, Asst. to Stress Case
EHLEOTT, E.T. Phone Home
DANIELLE BOWDOIN, Better than Bates
MIRACLE EAR, Disney Seductress
NATE THE GREAT, Ad Hustler
MARKY MARK MUIR, Subscriptions and Beer Die
BETH HER, BERT, AND ERNIE, Subscriptions Chick

LETTERS AND OPINIONS POLICY

The Editorial is the official fucking opinion of the paper. We don't give a shit what you think because we're the only one's who read the fucking paper, not you ignorant imps.

The White Ass only encourages letters from its readers because we need to fill space not because we give a shit what anyone has to say. Most of the letters are so incoherent that we end up writing them ourselves anyway.

EDITORIALS

Our vote...

This year The White Ass is not endorsing anything on campus. Our only wish is to bring back fraternities to Colby College.

We have found that student life has decayed faster than some of the brain cells in Foss. Student Center parties, no matter how many times "you know who" does his stunt out the window, suck. The Spa band nights entertain only the soda jerks. "Campus" events are only for the once liked Stu-A officers. Christ, no one even knows the real rules to Beer Die anymore!

What can be done? Student leaders have been asking themselves that question for eight years now. Let's face it, 1985 was the last year Colby College saw any kind of social life. The administration repeatedly has told the student community it is their responsibility to create a social atmosphere. So we form our little commons system and bond in our dorms. Everyone who thinks that the commons system is the epitome of social happening, raise their hand now. That's what we thought.

The campus is slowly losing its bigotry towards all religions, races, sexual orientation, and women. Nudity is now restricted to the lax team and Talcum and Toupée cast parties. Only the Greeks can rehabilitate this once-treasured tradition. We at the White Ass see the fraternities as the only mode to revive white male oppressive behavior. If the campus wants to bring anyone out of the closet, it should be the Alpha Chi Rows, Gamma Lamda Deltas, Phi Gamma Delta and Alpha Chi Sigmas. Yes, Alpha Chi Sigma. We believe that the only group on campus that holds enough pride to wear the Greek letters is the Woodsmen's Team.

Forget all those wussy honor societies and clubs that think anacronyms are even close to cool. The only thing that can redeem the pathetic social life at Colby is a total revival of the fraternity system. We must act now, before it's too late.

Go EKO!

TOP TEN

Echo Editorial Pick-up Lines

10. Hyphenate me, baby.
9. Has anyone ever told you that you have the most beautiful non-scan blue eyes?
8. Let me show you our dark room.
7. Show me your body text.
6. I want to paste you up.
5. Ever done it on a light board?
4. How many functions does your mouse have?
3. You can fill my white space any day.
2. I want to wax you all over.
1. I want to get laid-out.

PERSONALS

Small Brown Woman with stress tension problem seeks nocturnally inclined male for cheap tawdry relations on alternate Thursday afternoons. Must be into kinky wax machine tricks.

Petite blond woodsman seeks vertically challenged female companion. Must give good backrubs, be fluent in Pagemaker and know where all her continueds are.

"Nice Guy" seeks attractive young female to get exposed with. Interested in developing an enlightening relationship, plus he's a senior, and he's got a big lens.

Freckled Red Chick seeks man with like features to play dot to dot freckles with non-scan blue pen. Must be willing to endure hostility, general disgust and threat by ex-acto.

"Unnatural" nudist lax player seeks sexually adventurous woman with fetish for cruellers to take post meridian strolls through the street in the buck. Will PMT to fit.

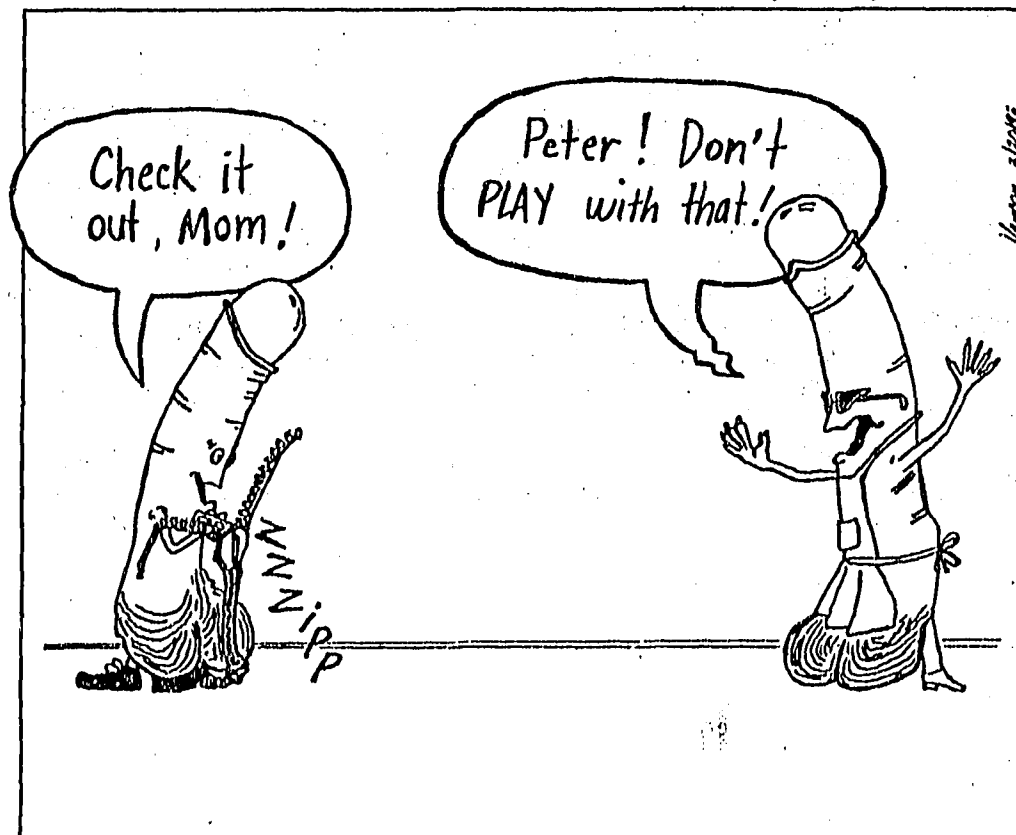

Sportsfans seek female. Must be of age—will share.

Echo bunny seeks man without criminal record with whom to pass meaningful time. Deadlines mandatory and must do it by the AP Stylebook. Backrubs crucial.

Terminally cool renaissance dude seeks chemical attraction with woman who knows her way around in the dark. Must be into the nasty (burger that is).

Unnatural Selection

By Andy Vernon

Shortly after his recovery, Peter went on to fame and fortune with the Vienna Boy's Choir...

Opinions

"Eko. Yeah, I know Eko. She was fantastic. Let's just say she knew how to wiggle out of her clothing."
—Ari B. Drunker

"I really don't have any opinions at all. I'm just the Opinions Editor."
—Life's a Bitch

"I think someone should censor the Echo. We are really getting out of hand and are printing some horrible things. I mean, really, we're making Colby look bad."
—The Almighty EKO Goddess

"In a nutshell; great copy, shitty pictures."
—The Gooch

Editors on the Street

photos by The Gooch

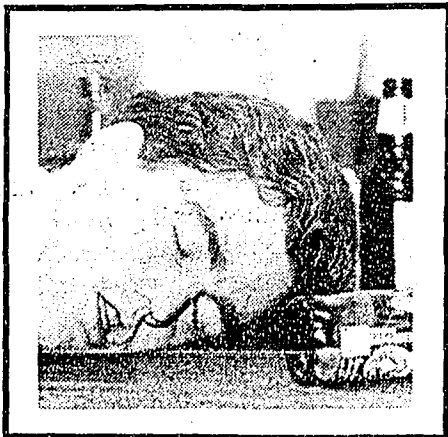

"The EKO's too negative. There should be more happy stories, like Off The Hill. And we should try to make Colby look better since Stu-A gave us all that money."
—EKO Addict

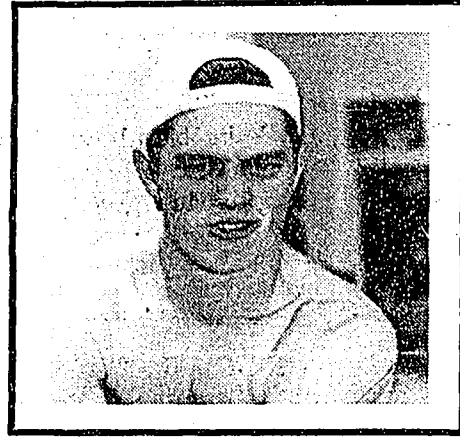

"Your father was a hamster and your mother smelt of elderberries."
—Chris Davenport

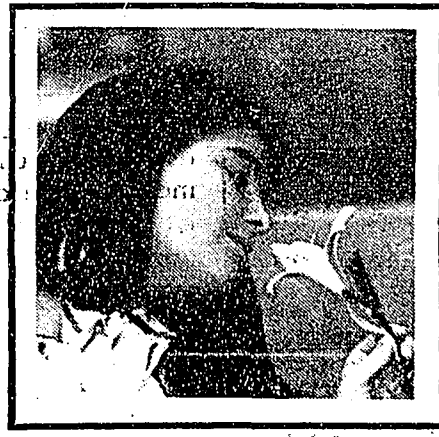

"I find it personally fulfilling because professors always tell me how accurately they are quoted."
—Featuring: Caren

"Well, it's okay, but their joke issue is always really lame. They also need more nudity."
—Lance Manion

"Stunning, erectifying, I love this place."
—Andy "Disco Inferno" Verno

"It's a great way to meet people, even better than a frat."
—Echo Bunny

"I think they need fucking headlines!"
—Rock Me Amadeus

Committee equalization presents a great travesty

BY THE ALMIGHTY EKO GODDESS
"It's Faanabulous"

Committee equalization? Are you kidding? Equal representation of students and faculty on committees which formulate policy on college life is a ridiculous concept. I thoroughly agree with Assoc. Professor of Romance Dole Pineapple. I mean, who better to formulate policy than the policy-makers? I say the students of Colby College should give up all pretenses of decision-making capabilities and let the eminently more qualified faculty members decide our fates for us.

I applaud the new admissions policy of admitting only students who can be easily controlled or can be pressured into signing a contract of loyalty to the administration. Sneakily, a clause in extremely small print in the contract specifies the punishment for betraying the tyranny of Colby as follows:

- four failing grades will be factored into the student's GPA.
- the blot of political incorrectness will be attached to the student's permanent record.

This admissions policy is excellent, for the College could make itself look good by equalizing committee membership yet in reality would retain its stranglehold on admissible opinions, for the committees would be stuffed with pawns of the administration.

By admitting only nitwits willing to worship the administration or "helping" recalcitrant students to see the value in becoming a nitwit, Colby can, as Pineapple suggests, keep the students occupied with fluffy and insignificant "social matters" while the "academic matters" are secretly dealt with by the faculty fraternity.

I wholeheartedly support anything the administration deems is suitable for the student body. Forget personal agency, let go of your responsibilities, join us ... it's so much easier ... ☐

Code blue light hits the Colby campus

LIFE'S A BITCH
By Twisted and Bitter

SEX, SEX, SEX. We, as a responsible student body need to stop lewd professors from making unwarranted advances on poor unsuspecting students. To ensure more platonic student-faculty relations, here is a more stringent sexual conduct code for the faculty. The rough draft is as follows:

- When lecturing in class, a professor may approach a student no closer than 1.75 feet and when handing back papers must put the paper on an intermediary surface so that there is no hand-touching involved.
- If a student wishes to meet with a professor after class, eye-contact can be maintained for a maximum of 6.2 seconds whereupon the professor must conclude eye-contact.

- Professors may only eat a meal with a student if a dean acting as a chaperone accompanies the pair. Under no conditions may alcohol or oysters be served at the table. Room service is out of the question.
- Professors and deans are not allowed to invite students to their houses under the pretense of mowing their lawn, raking leaves, snow-shovelling or any other excuse used to lure unsuspecting students.

- English professors may not teach any piece of literature that describes sexual relations within its pages, and Biology professors may not lecture on reproduction, asexual or otherwise. Government professors may not teach at all.

- A glass divider should be constructed between the professor and the students in class so that no inadvertent contact will take place.

- For male professors, a dress code will include the following: socks must be worn and shirts must be buttoned to the top in order not to expose any flesh; no bow ties, and no cheap see-through Oxfords.

Any violation of the sexual ethic code will result in an investigation by the Subcommittee of the Subcommittee of the Committee on Professors Who Do Naughty Things. If found guilty, the perpetrator must discuss Long-Dong Silver with Clarence Tomas in a Foss closet-single until the Blue Light burns out. ☐

Political Correctness hits Colby Athletics

President Cutter forms committees and subcommittees to investigate P.C.ness in athletic department.

BY CHRIS "VINNY" DAVENPUERTA
Who's Your Daddy?

After the cross on the chapel came under fire because of its exclusivity toward non-Christians, the politically correct police committee brought a proposal to Politically Correct President Cutter [PCPC]. The details of the proposal involve the elimination of the national anthem before Colby sporting events because it offends foreign exchange students.

PCPC has formed a committee and several underground subcommittees to investigate the matter, according to no sources whatsoever. PCPC is looking into removing the American flag flying in the quad before Miller Time Library as well. "The waving of that flag is downright un-American," said PCPC in an interview with The Wall Street Journal.

PCPC and other Politically Correct NESCAC Presidents vigorously debated a movement to lower the basketball hoops in ECAC tournament competition, as the traditional 10' height is unfair to short people. They found a compromise to settle the dispute: "We've decided instead of lowering the baskets to simply cut taller people's legs off to make everyone in NESCAC basketball the same height," said PCPC. "That way it's fair."

The weight rooms will also be removed from campus; those wishing to build muscle will have to travel downtown to Chumpions. The decision for evicting the barbells and iron from Mayflower Hill was made in fairness for weak people who lack the motivation to work out. "Hey, it's just not fair I tell you," said PCPC, while spontaneously bursting into the Colby school anthem, "Hail Colby Hail ..."

Several other proposals are being looked at by PCPC and his PC task force to make Colby "a more equal institution that preserves and protects every and all individuals," according to PCPC.

- The ship/compass weathervane that sits on top of Miller Time Library may be removed because of its offense toward land dwellers and those who do not give a shit which way is north.

- Pressure from faculty members may coerce PCPC into demolishing the Student Center. "Hey, the faculty doesn't have a Faculty Center," said PCPC. "I can see their point. Plus all those damned video games ...."

- PCPC is currently undergoing serious negotiations with Drave from Drave's barber shop in downtown Waterville. PCPC is trying to get Drave and his wife to set up a head shaving center in Dana. PCPC said that students walking around with a full head of hair is insulting to those who are balding.

Administrators have also contacted PCPC and his task force about the removal of the traditional grading system from the Colby academic structure. According to the sources that do not exist, those who study should not have an edge over those who would rather drink their way through college. "It's simply not fair to stupid people," said PCPC. "It is not the Colby way, it's not the American way. I think we have started a precedent for other colleges to follow. Hail Colby Hail ...." □

Spring Sports Cancelled; Colby ski hill to re-open

BY CHRIS "VINNY" DAVENPUERTA
Who's Your Daddy?

Prompted by all the snow with which Mother Nature has covered Mayflower Mill, spring coaches in conjunction with Director of Aesthetics Richard Whippingmore and President Welcome Back Kotter have decided to terminate all spring sporting competitions.

"We said, 'what the hell, let's just forget about it,'" said Whippingmore. "These kids knew they were coming to Maine. What did they expect, warm weather?"

The cancellation of the spring athletic season does not necessarily mean all athletics on campus will cease, however. Kotter and Whippingmore have decided to re-open the Colby ski hill of old. The construction should be finished any minute now, and Colby skiers should be able to get in some spring skiing this year.

"Shoot, Middlebury and Dartmouth have a ski hill, what makes those bastards think they're better than us," said Kotter.

"Forget lacrosse," said rookie Head Lacrosse Coach Dave Zoro. "I want to ski."

Not all of the Colby community will be up on the hill carving turns with Zoro. The entire men's varsity baseball team has transferred to the University of Florida after having spring break practices for a week in the land of the sun-ripe orange. "Colby is just too damned cold," said Head Baseball Coach and part time shoe salesman Dextor.

The fun of the ski hill does not end when the snow finally melts. The mud that has collected underneath the hill will provide hours of amusement for the Colby community, according to Kotter and Whippingmore. The two administrators are planning a spring carnival in which the main attraction will be competitive pig imitations. Students will compete by rolling around in the mud naked while eating slop from troughs. The winners will be awarded with two P.E. credits each.

"We are just trying to make the best of all this white crap," said Kotter. □

Shoot, Middlebury and Dartmouth have a ski hill, what makes those bastards think they're better than us.

-President Kotter

Welsh signs on with Twins in surprise move

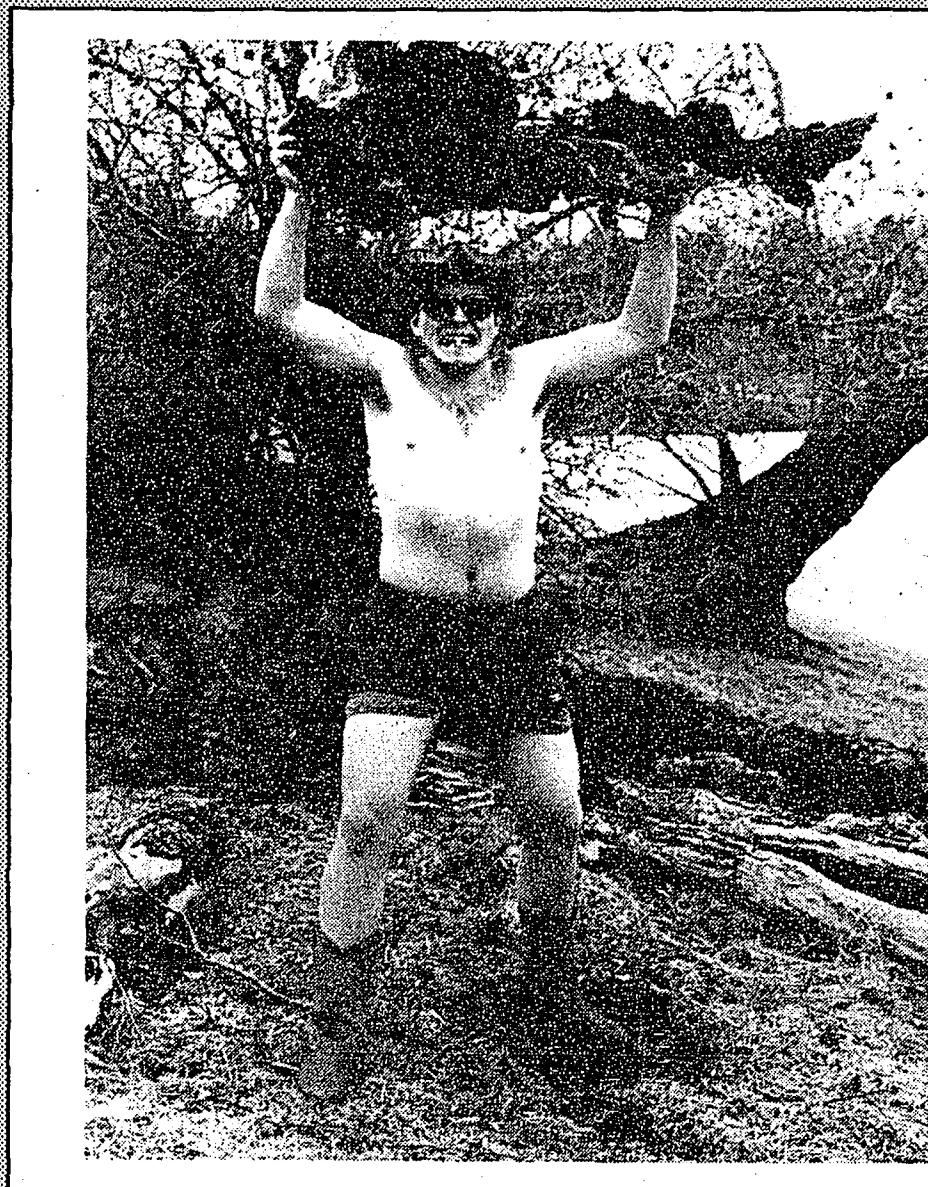

photo courtesy of the Minnesota Twins

Welsh working out for the big leagues by lifting Johnson Pond drift wood.

BY JAK COIN
The Major

Looking like the move of the season in Major League Baseball, Colby gopher-baller Jon Welsh has inked a ten-day contract with the Minnesota Twins. In a surprise press conference held in the Twin Cities, Minneapolis-St. Paul, Twinkies' Manager Jim Kelly broke the news to the media.

Interestingly, very few knew of the decision. The Twins organization waited until the last moment before letting the cat out of the bag. Even Welsh kept the news under his hat. "I let my roommates know," said Welsh, "but they are really my only friends."

Consistent play, whether good or bad, has been Welsh's strength in his two seasons as a White Mule hurler. A set-up man in his first season as a Mule, Welsh made the switch to stopper season, and the tion was both impressive and pleasing. Tom Deckster, "I asked for anything Deckster. [Welsh] professional, kill-rallies."

Killing rallies is ing accomplish- but he realizes that same against the Bigs. "It's going to ments Welsh, "but far. I can do any- Many Major scouts realize that Welsh has the talent, but wonder if the Twins are not rushing Welsh, not allowing him to mature in the minors for a couple of years. Welsh becomes only the second major league player to step directly from college to the professional ranks without any previous minor league experience, following Pete Incaviglia for the Texas Rangers in 1986.

"You only get a chance like this every so often," says Welsh, who is well aware of the pressure present in Major League Baseball for rookies. "I'm sure a lot of players will be jealous, but hey, I'm good."

Assignment number one for Welsh will be to get in shape, after spending the winter months atrophying in his cellar suite in Grossman. "I was really nervous about the upcoming draft," comments Welsh. "I had no idea what was in store for me, so I kind of overindulged."

Still, things look promising for Welsh. An unknown talent from Mayflower Hill, Welsh impressed scouts at the rookie combine held in Seattle at the Kingdome. Dazzling scouts with both power and precision, Welsh improved his stock immensely.

Spring cannot come soon enough for Welsh, who is eagerly anticipating throwing his best stuff against what the big leagues have to offer. Yet Welsh still has a good attitude. "Time will tell just how good I am." Yes it will.

Future moves that seem to be imminent are the Double A signings of Dan Kutz, a crafty infielder who, like Welsh, has blossomed in this very young season. Also, look for stalwart catcher John Puerta to get a contract from the Rockford Peaches.

After graduation on May 23, Welsh will hop on the team plane and be in uniform for that night's double header against the Toronto Blue Jays. □

"I'm sure a lot of players are jealous, but hey, I'm good."

-Jon Welsh

this, his final smooth transpressive to the to Head Coach could not have more," said is the ultimate ing opposing the most satisfactory for Welsh, it will not be players in the be tough," la- I've made it this thing.

League Baseball scouts realize that Welsh has the talent, but wonder if the Twins are not rushing Welsh, not allowing him to mature in the minors for a couple of years. Welsh becomes only the second major league player to step directly from college to the professional ranks without any previous minor league experience, following Pete Incaviglia for the Texas Rangers in 1986.

Devastator

photo by The Gooch

This week's devastator is Bob the pizza delivery man. Bob was named to the pizza delivery hall of fame in Cornstalk, Ohio last week. The award came as a surprise to Bob. "Geez, I knew I was good, but not that good," said Bob. Our local hero has also won three gold medals in delivery competitions in his career. According to Bob, his favorite deliveries are to Colby. Bob noted that he was especially overloaded with work during the Project Inward dinner discussions.

"I'll bet almost every kid on this campus called and ordered a pizza those nights," said Bob. "What the hell did they feed you guys anyway, bread and water?" Well, nothing nearly as good as Bob's pizzas.

Koresh Knows Sports

BY PETE DOOBAGE
Token Druggie

Having been cooped up in his complex since late February, David Koresh must be dying for some exercise. David October '95 (hereafter referred to as Dino), Gerry Co-

This guy is supposed to be a religious leader, but hey man, this dude can booze."

-David October

caine '95, Steve Simchick '93 and I traveled to Waco, Texas last week to offer Koresh some tips on staying in shape.

Realizing that traditional Colby sports were not realistic considering the space restrictions, we came up with some fresh ideas for Dave and his cult buddies.

First, Pop-a-Shot basketball. This was a big hit with Dave and his cult. But as all good things must end, the game was soon gone; Dino squared Dave in the head with an errant hookshot just as he was eating lunch. See ya.

Next we headed upstairs to test Dave's acumen at Foosball and a few video games.

While Dave thoroughly enjoyed these tests of timing and eye-hand coordination, he was quite concerned that the ruckus would look bad to tours of perspective Branch Davidians. Strike two.

At this point, our non-alcoholic, wholesome, old-fashioned fun had been stripped from us leaving only one option: drink. After all, what else can you do when you are out in the middle of the boonies and the people who flex the muscle take away your fun?

We were able to convince Dave that a game of Die would provide him with the necessary exercise. After 10 beers Dave was shithoused.

"This guy is supposed to be a religious leader," said Dino, "but hey man, this dude can booze."

Suddenly, the sign Dave had been awaiting arrived; the goddess McLease-me dropped from the Texas sky and shot Dave a mirror-breaking look.

"David," she said, "I'm very concerned with the community here in Waco." With that, the party was shut down and the table confiscated. Strike three.

At this point we had exhausted our options. We tried the non-alcoholic activities, but they were taken away. We tried the ones with alcohol, and they were taken too.

Gerry summed it up the best: "nothing left to do but eat Savory Baked Chicken and Popcorn Shrimp in Bob's... so good, dude." □

Maine athletics voted #1 in nation by NRIA

BY JAK COIN
The Major

Maine received some surprising news this week from the National Register of Interstate Athletics. This fact finding organization, based in Jackman, Maine, came to the conclusion that athletics in Maine, both on the collegiate and high school level, are the best in the United States.

Although Maine has one of the smallest populations per state in the land, it was still able to garner top awards. The ability of Maine residents to step up their game to the next level when it counted was instrumental for its success. Many Mainers attribute their success to a headiness that comes from living in Maine. "We just have that innate desire to be the best," commented one unidentifiable Bangor resident.

It should not come as much of a shock to those not native to Maine. One just has to look at the dynasties that have been created in the state. Morse, Cheverus, Moosehead Regional and Stearns can be lumped together as athletic programs that get the job done.

Nothing seems to stand in the way of success for Maine. The only Division I program in the state, UMaine at Orono, boasts solid teams on the court, field, track and ice, making it a tempting choice for out-of-staters. It is even more tempting for those who live in this great state. "I love this place," reminisced one Limestone native. "I never want to leave."

Eventually, Maine looks to take over the number one spot in academics as well, currently trailing by percentage points to national leader, New Jersey. Until then, residents bask in the glow of being the soundest of body. "It's great being the best," boasted an ecstatic Winter Harbor citizen.

Surprisingly, Aroostook County won best county in the country. The NRIA ranked Northern Aroostook Polytech, located in the thriving metropolis of T2-R7, as one of the finest athletic programs for a secondary school and gave Schenk High School, in East Millinocket, the nod as most outstanding high school.

Unfortunately, many of the high schools in southern Maine were snubbed from the list. Such sports powerhouses as Cape Elizabeth, Marshwood and Boothbay Harbor Regional were notably absent in the final Maine tally.

Citing lack of speed and strength, the NRIA also left University of Southern Maine, Westbrook College and Bates College off the top college list, opting to go with UMaine-Presque Isle, UMaine-Fort Kent and Central Aroostook County Day College.

Kansas, Alaska and New Mexico followed closely after Maine in the balloting, but did not have the strength of schedule that the Maine teams had. Although there has been some questioning of the survey, most Mainards knew it all along. "We've got more heart," said one unnamed Mainer. The survey reflects just how much heart this state has.

Success is sweet for this much maligned state. Congratulations, Maine. □

This space purchased by the Anti-Tree Lobby.

GET WET, SET 'N SPREAD

photo by The Gooch

OH LA LA-Experiencing the "shower of the century," Elliott Barrymore is in ecstasy in his leopard skin bikini-bottom suit by Tiger Design ($99).

photo by The Gooch

STIFF-ARM-Sacheting around campus is Davenpuerta in his vest by Brooks Brothers ($350), shorts by Morgan Memorial (free with a bowl of soup) and hat by Paul Revere and the Raiders (n.a.).

creation by Rock Me Amadeus

STICK FIGURE-Running man, despite his gendered name, has no penis nor vagina. He has no internal organs, nor sexual preference. "But I love getting some...from anything...all the time," said Running man. He wears nothing. Originals go for $0.35 (about the same price as an editor per hour).

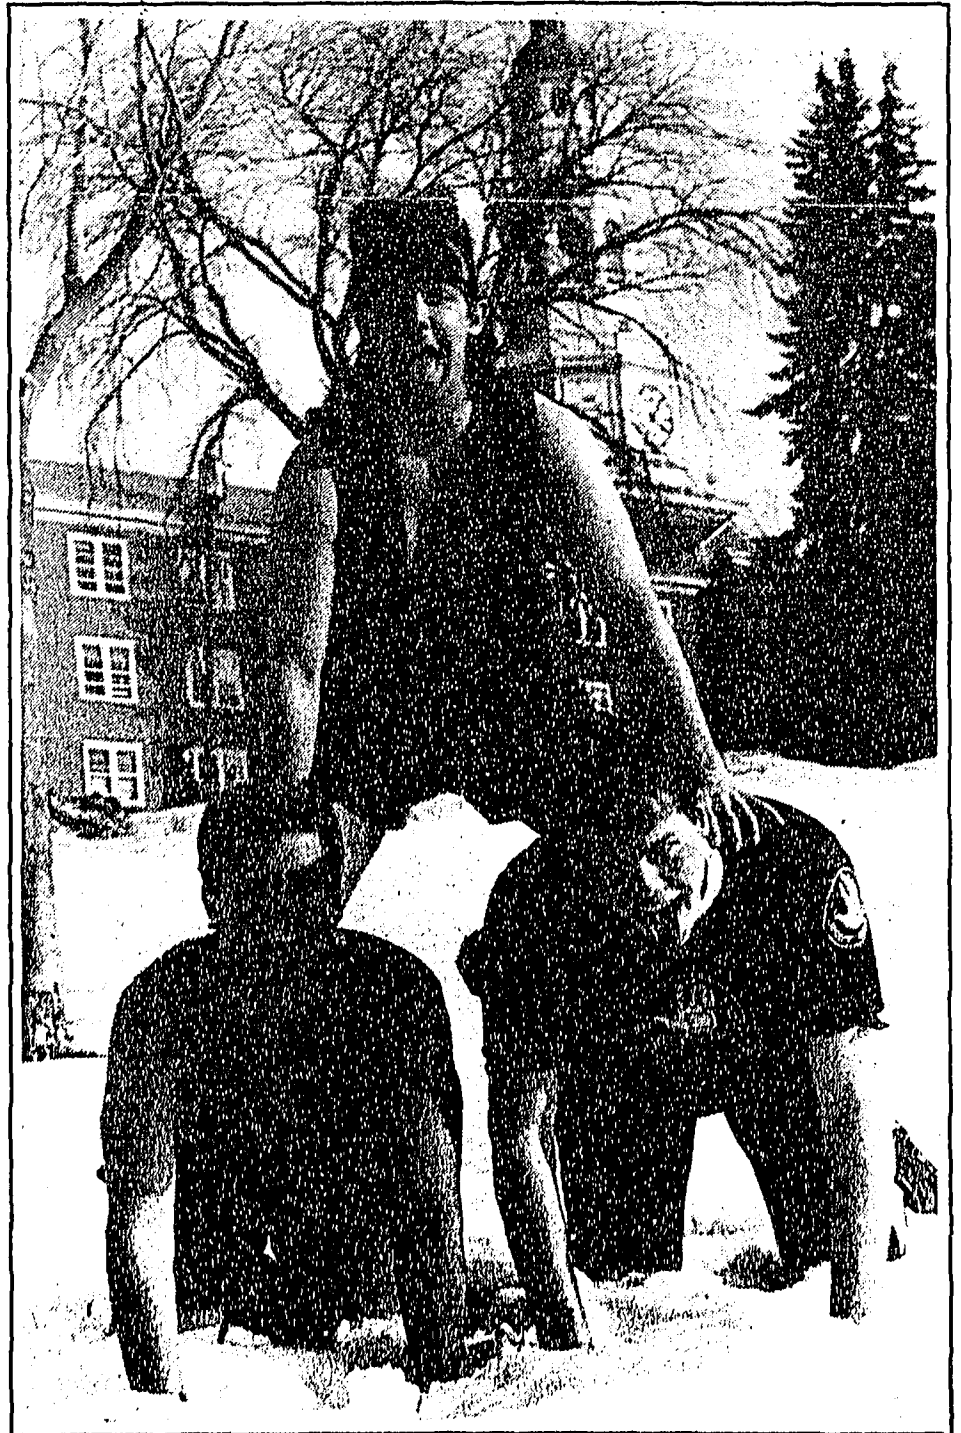

photo by The Gooch

PYRAMID-Barrymore, Davenpuerta and Doobage bring their rendition of the Egyptian pyramids to Mayflower Hill, while showing off their new cosmetically altered tongues ($5000).

photo by The Gooch

WET 'N WILD-Chris Daven-make-me-puke, in his lifelong quest to get naked for the camera, forgets that this is a swimsuit issue. Though we're not sure where his swimsuit is, facial expression, body hair and ass crack come straight from Brooklyn.

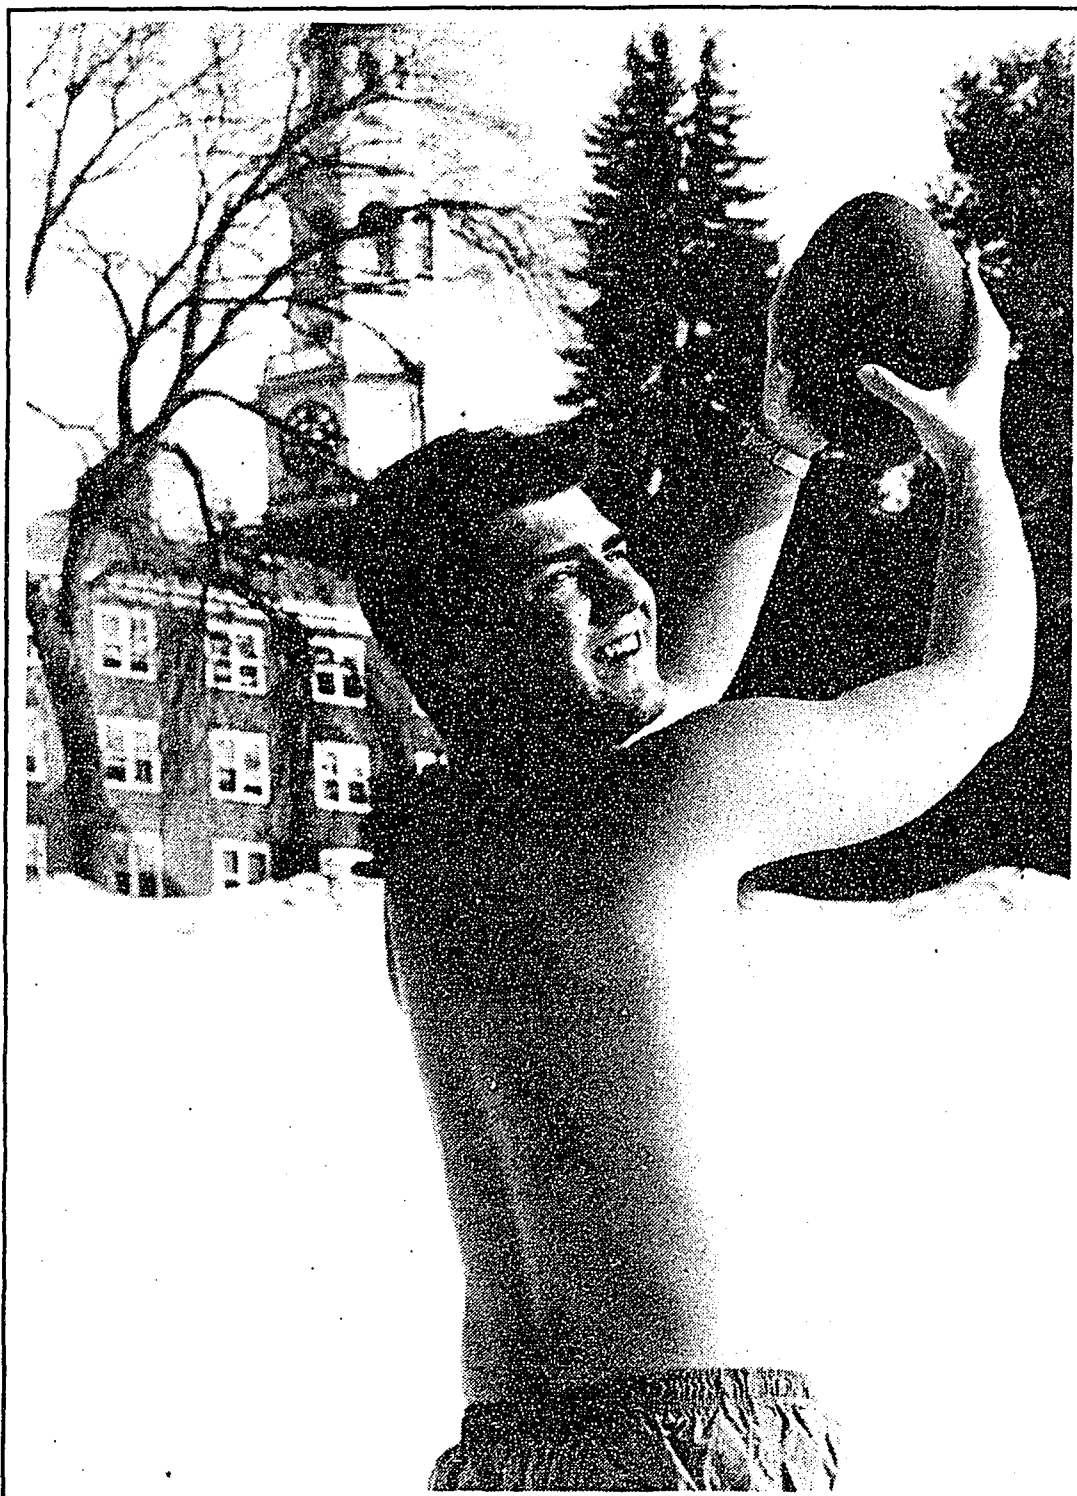

photo by The Gooch

BASKET CATCH-With the smile and pompadour of a true champion, Elliott Barrymore pulls down this pass with authority. Going for the casual look, Elliott looks great in the traditional "boxer short" bathing suit ($9.95 at Shaw's) by Nuevo Mystique.

photo by The Gooch

I'M NUMBER ONE-says Doobage through his snow white teeth. His wetsuit ($2,016) by Body Glove keeps his precious buns warm in the cold.

SEVERED COWS' HEADS

THE WHITE ASS

Page 666

Colby College, Waterville, ME 04901

April 1, 1993

1993
S
W
I
M
S
U
I
T
I
S
S
U
E

STARS AND STRIP! - The Cynic opens up this years' swimsuit issue by giving WMHB fans his award winning imitation of Dick Vitale., Cap ($.25) at I-95 rest stop vending machine, Oakley "thermo-nuclear protection" shades ($300), skivies ($40) by Speedo available at the bookstore, and Body (priceless) by Stairmaster.

Photo by The Gooch