The next day, student responses to “Akon Day” party included a variety of criticism. Some students pointed out that the party was a form of cultural appropriation and that it was offensive to the African continent. Others criticized the party as a form of self-seriousness and that it was not respectful to the culture of Africa. Some students also pointed out that the party was a form of microaggression and that it was not respectful to the experiences of African Americans.

The event was attended by students, faculty, and staff. Many of them expressed their support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion. The event was also attended by the President of Colby College, who expressed his support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion.

The event was a form of self-seriousness and a form of microaggression. It was also a form of cultural appropriation and a form of self-seriousness. It was not respectful to the culture of Africa and not respectful to the experiences of African Americans.

The event was attended by students, faculty, and staff. Many of them expressed their support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion. The event was also attended by the President of Colby College, who expressed his support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion.

The event was a form of self-seriousness and a form of microaggression. It was also a form of cultural appropriation and a form of self-seriousness. It was not respectful to the culture of Africa and not respectful to the experiences of African Americans.

The event was attended by students, faculty, and staff. Many of them expressed their support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion. The event was also attended by the President of Colby College, who expressed his support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion.

The event was a form of self-seriousness and a form of microaggression. It was also a form of cultural appropriation and a form of self-seriousness. It was not respectful to the culture of Africa and not respectful to the experiences of African Americans.

The event was attended by students, faculty, and staff. Many of them expressed their support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion. The event was also attended by the President of Colby College, who expressed his support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion.

The event was a form of self-seriousness and a form of microaggression. It was also a form of cultural appropriation and a form of self-seriousness. It was not respectful to the culture of Africa and not respectful to the experiences of African Americans.

The event was attended by students, faculty, and staff. Many of them expressed their support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion. The event was also attended by the President of Colby College, who expressed his support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion.

The event was a form of self-seriousness and a form of microaggression. It was also a form of cultural appropriation and a form of self-seriousness. It was not respectful to the culture of Africa and not respectful to the experiences of African Americans.

The event was attended by students, faculty, and staff. Many of them expressed their support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion. The event was also attended by the President of Colby College, who expressed his support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion.

The event was a form of self-seriousness and a form of microaggression. It was also a form of cultural appropriation and a form of self-seriousness. It was not respectful to the culture of Africa and not respectful to the experiences of African Americans.

The event was attended by students, faculty, and staff. Many of them expressed their support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion. The event was also attended by the President of Colby College, who expressed his support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion.

The event was a form of self-seriousness and a form of microaggression. It was also a form of cultural appropriation and a form of self-seriousness. It was not respectful to the culture of Africa and not respectful to the experiences of African Americans.

The event was attended by students, faculty, and staff. Many of them expressed their support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion. The event was also attended by the President of Colby College, who expressed his support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion.

The event was a form of self-seriousness and a form of microaggression. It was also a form of cultural appropriation and a form of self-seriousness. It was not respectful to the culture of Africa and not respectful to the experiences of African Americans.

The event was attended by students, faculty, and staff. Many of them expressed their support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion. The event was also attended by the President of Colby College, who expressed his support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion.

The event was a form of self-seriousness and a form of microaggression. It was also a form of cultural appropriation and a form of self-seriousness. It was not respectful to the culture of Africa and not respectful to the experiences of African Americans.

The event was attended by students, faculty, and staff. Many of them expressed their support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion. The event was also attended by the President of Colby College, who expressed his support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion.

The event was a form of self-seriousness and a form of microaggression. It was also a form of cultural appropriation and a form of self-seriousness. It was not respectful to the culture of Africa and not respectful to the experiences of African Americans.

The event was attended by students, faculty, and staff. Many of them expressed their support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion. The event was also attended by the President of Colby College, who expressed his support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion.

The event was a form of self-seriousness and a form of microaggression. It was also a form of cultural appropriation and a form of self-seriousness. It was not respectful to the culture of Africa and not respectful to the experiences of African Americans.

The event was attended by students, faculty, and staff. Many of them expressed their support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion. The event was also attended by the President of Colby College, who expressed his support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion.

The event was a form of self-seriousness and a form of microaggression. It was also a form of cultural appropriation and a form of self-seriousness. It was not respectful to the culture of Africa and not respectful to the experiences of African Americans.

The event was attended by students, faculty, and staff. Many of them expressed their support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion. The event was also attended by the President of Colby College, who expressed his support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion.

The event was a form of self-seriousness and a form of microaggression. It was also a form of cultural appropriation and a form of self-seriousness. It was not respectful to the culture of Africa and not respectful to the experiences of African Americans.

The event was attended by students, faculty, and staff. Many of them expressed their support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion. The event was also attended by the President of Colby College, who expressed his support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion.

The event was a form of self-seriousness and a form of microaggression. It was also a form of cultural appropriation and a form of self-seriousness. It was not respectful to the culture of Africa and not respectful to the experiences of African Americans.

The event was attended by students, faculty, and staff. Many of them expressed their support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion. The event was also attended by the President of Colby College, who expressed his support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion.

The event was a form of self-seriousness and a form of microaggression. It was also a form of cultural appropriation and a form of self-seriousness. It was not respectful to the culture of Africa and not respectful to the experiences of African Americans.

The event was attended by students, faculty, and staff. Many of them expressed their support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion. The event was also attended by the President of Colby College, who expressed his support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion.

The event was a form of self-seriousness and a form of microaggression. It was also a form of cultural appropriation and a form of self-seriousness. It was not respectful to the culture of Africa and not respectful to the experiences of African Americans.

The event was attended by students, faculty, and staff. Many of them expressed their support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion. The event was also attended by the President of Colby College, who expressed his support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion.

The event was a form of self-seriousness and a form of microaggression. It was also a form of cultural appropriation and a form of self-seriousness. It was not respectful to the culture of Africa and not respectful to the experiences of African Americans.

The event was attended by students, faculty, and staff. Many of them expressed their support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion. The event was also attended by the President of Colby College, who expressed his support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion.

The event was a form of self-seriousness and a form of microaggression. It was also a form of cultural appropriation and a form of self-seriousness. It was not respectful to the culture of Africa and not respectful to the experiences of African Americans.

The event was attended by students, faculty, and staff. Many of them expressed their support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion. The event was also attended by the President of Colby College, who expressed his support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion.

The event was a form of self-seriousness and a form of microaggression. It was also a form of cultural appropriation and a form of self-seriousness. It was not respectful to the culture of Africa and not respectful to the experiences of African Americans.

The event was attended by students, faculty, and staff. Many of them expressed their support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion. The event was also attended by the President of Colby College, who expressed his support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion.

The event was a form of self-seriousness and a form of microaggression. It was also a form of cultural appropriation and a form of self-seriousness. It was not respectful to the culture of Africa and not respectful to the experiences of African Americans.

The event was attended by students, faculty, and staff. Many of them expressed their support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion. The event was also attended by the President of Colby College, who expressed his support for the petition and for the College’s commitment to diversity and inclusion.

The event was a form of self-seriousness and a form of microaggression. It was also a form of cultural appropriation and a form of self-seriousness. It was not respectful to the culture of Africa and not respectful to the experiences of African Americans.
 serum statements include specific and up-to-date experiences students have had on Colby's campus, a range of stories of isolation and depression, as well as responses to that. They are printed and anonymized for the sake of those sharing.

On Nov. 15, The Bridge will also be holding a Trans Narative mic night at Mary Scranton Commons. The Bridge has also helped qualitatively assess the presence of silence in honor of transgender victims of violence. The moment is a powerful way to be heard by students of color.

She also shared advice for any Colby students who are interested in learning about critical issues. Each one of us has a responsibility to be in the know about the amount of false news we see every day. When you read something online, take a moment to question, what does this mean? Is this an ad, an advertisement, or a personal experience? What is the source of this news? And how reliable is it? I believe that’s why it's so important to be critical.

She believes universities and transportation, infrastructure are important investments for the state, and that all students who give their votes to candidates who prioritize those issues can make a difference. For Governor-elect Janet Mills, “As an educator, Smith said, the fourth and fifth ballot were a change in the update state university and asking college students to facilitate both a tax cut and to increase funding for healthcare.

Also on this conference, Smith said that health care was an important issue for the state legislature. She emphasized that the state legislature has a history of defunding in the past and should be held accountable.

Smith also expressed that the campaign for governor was a challenge, but a rewarding experience. She hoped that Colby students would continue to engage with the issues and work towards social justice.

Colby Madison, Representative to the Maine State House, District 110
Colby Madison is the incumbent representative to the Maine State House, representing District 110, which includes the Mayflower Hill campus. Madison was re-elected with 6,922 votes in 2016. He has strong beliefs in advocating for students and protecting their rights.

In his interview with the Echo, he shared his goals for the next two-year term. He plans to focus on improving education and work-life balance. He also wants to ensure that all students and faculty have access to healthcare.

Colby Madison is a social worker in Waterville for Saint Luke's. Healthcare has always been a priority for him, and he reflected on his experience working with patients who have faced various challenging situations. He also emphasized the importance of continued support for the healthcare system.

Colby Madison is a social worker in Waterville for Saint Luke’s. Healthcare has always been a priority for him, and he reflected on his experience working with patients who have faced various challenging situations. He also emphasized the importance of continued support for the healthcare system.

Colby Madison is a social worker in Waterville for Saint Luke’s. Healthcare has always been a priority for him, and he reflected on his experience working with patients who have faced various challenging situations. He also emphasized the importance of continued support for the healthcare system.

Colby Madison is a social worker in Waterville for Saint Luke’s. Healthcare has always been a priority for him, and he reflected on his experience working with patients who have faced various challenging situations. He also emphasized the importance of continued support for the healthcare system.

Colby Madison is a social worker in Waterville for Saint Luke’s. Healthcare has always been a priority for him, and he reflected on his experience working with patients who have faced various challenging situations. He also emphasized the importance of continued support for the healthcare system.
“It all started out because we didn’t want any child waking up bare to a tree.”

Alison Plan-Tillson
Student Post Officer
The Colby Echo

The 1,001 Smiles Toy Drive

It was the summer of 2013 and I was working as a law clerk for the Colby College Legal Clinic. शीर्षक

Latifah's clinic had been working with the Maine Department of Health and Human Services (DHHS) on a case involving the Maine State Welfare system and one of their clients. The child in question was in need of winter clothing and toys to keep him warm during the winter months. Latifah and I

The clinic had been in contact with the DHHS for several weeks and we knew that the child needed the items. We decided to organize a toy drive to gather as many items as possible for the child.

We contacted Latifah's supervisor, Colby College Legal Clinic Director of Operations, and she agreed to support the effort. We set a goal of collecting 1,001 toys and decided to call it the 1,001 Smiles Toy Drive.

We advertised the drive on campus through email, social media, and posters around the Colby College campus. We also asked for donations from local businesses and community organizations.

We received an overwhelming response, and we were able to collect over 2,000 toys. The response was so great that we had to extend the drive for another week.

On the day of the drive, we had over 100 students, faculty, and staff members volunteering to help sort and deliver the toys to the DHHS. The drive was a huge success, and we were able to deliver over 2,000 toys to the DHHS.

Since that first drive, we have continued to organize toy drives every year, and the number of toys collected has only increased. We have collected over 10,000 toys in total, and we are proud to say that we have touched the lives of many children in need.

The 1,001 Smiles Toy Drive is an annual event that brings together students, faculty, and staff members to provide holiday cheer to children in need.
Features

Features

Club Feature: Outside Colby

By Minico Cruz

For students looking to have more news and events that branch away from what is happening on and around the Hill, Outside Colby is a publication that aims to present a wide array of current events and issues happening beyond campus. Rich completely by Colby students, Outside Colby hopes to engage students in think critically about political and current events while also showcasing their unique ideas in understanding political discourse.

Outside Colby is a student-run political magazine for Colby’s community and beyond. The publication is a nonpartisan publication including Maine Affairs, Political Science and International Relations and the United States are generally left-leaning. Poliquin, a first-term Republican candidate, has the potential to greatly help the community.

The Disorientation

According to the Associated Press, the lead

does not have enough funds and capital each year. As a result, this charity auction has the potential to greatly help the community.

For students looking to have more news and events that branch away from what is happening on and around the Hill, Outside Colby is a publication that aims to present a wide array of current events and issues happening beyond campus. Rich completely by Colby students, Outside Colby hopes to engage students in think critically about political and current events while also showcasing their unique ideas in understanding political discourse.

Outside Colby is a student-run political magazine for Colby’s community and beyond. The publication is a nonpartisan publication including Maine Affairs, Political Science and International Relations and the United States are generally left-leaning. Poliquin, a first-term Republican candidate, has the potential to greatly help the community.

For students looking to have more news and events that branch away from what is happening on and around the Hill, Outside Colby is a publication that aims to present a wide array of current events and issues happening beyond campus. Rich completely by Colby students, Outside Colby hopes to engage students in think critically about political and current events while also showcasing their unique ideas in understanding political discourse.

Outside Colby is a student-run political magazine for Colby’s community and beyond. The publication is a nonpartisan publication including Maine Affairs, Political Science and International Relations and the United States are generally left-leaning. Poliquin, a first-term Republican candidate, has the potential to greatly help the community.

For students looking to have more news and events that branch away from what is happening on and around the Hill, Outside Colby is a publication that aims to present a wide array of current events and issues happening beyond campus. Rich completely by Colby students, Outside Colby hopes to engage students in think critically about political and current events while also showcasing their unique ideas in understanding political discourse.

Outside Colby is a student-run political magazine for Colby’s community and beyond. The publication is a nonpartisan publication including Maine Affairs, Political Science and International Relations and the United States are generally left-leaning. Poliquin, a first-term Republican candidate, has the potential to greatly help the community.

For students looking to have more news and events that branch away from what is happening on and around the Hill, Outside Colby is a publication that aims to present a wide array of current events and issues happening beyond campus. Rich completely by Colby students, Outside Colby hopes to engage students in think critically about political and current events while also showcasing their unique ideas in understanding political discourse.

Outside Colby is a student-run political magazine for Colby’s community and beyond. The publication is a nonpartisan publication including Maine Affairs, Political Science and International Relations and the United States are generally left-leaning. Poliquin, a first-term Republican candidate, has the potential to greatly help the community.
Reactions to Colby museum exhibit through dance

By Zachary Bigelow '18 and Dave

Colby Theater and Dance students participated in a performance by the mentalist duo Antonina and David put on a mind-reading show for Colby students in Pulver Pavilion.

Dance students provided an alternative for people who might not necessarily want to go out and drink, "Rutah said. "I really enjoyed it. " According to David, these kind of reactions are why he and Antonina enjoy being mentalistic performers. "We both enjoy the moment when we get to try out a new effect on the audience that we create," he said in an email to the Echo. "We enjoy watching the audience react and see them be amazed by the effects we perform."
At the very least, educate yourself on campus:

By Elisa Winzer

November 15th, 2018

The blackface theme, the frat had

While they had joked about the

their famous annual Hallow

White, an African American

White People". During

the education that I am

"Thanksgiving ping-pong tourney" "Go to my high school’s football game "Going to my grandma’s house" "Every year we go somewhere new and eating "We end dinner with a

"Dear White People". In response to the podcast,

It is extremely important to most cultures of social appro being racist before deciding to privilege. This doesn't mean that occurred at real colleges

America, Africa" in a hallway of the dents were seen chanting "Africa, Africa" in a hallway of the dents perpetuate racist dents. Thus, I direct this my perspective

"Dear White

ners and stuff my face at family dinner" "candy corn from a bucket with my sister" "family dance party!

"I don't know how I feel

"I don't feel an ache in my

"Every single day, I feel a

"There isn't a day that

"Black girls in this country

a good sport" and "try for the classroom setting.

"I am not racially

"Just don't. Even if you're

"ask me about it.

"Don't tell me "to be

"You can't call me a;

"You can't say "oh, you look

"You're not helping me

"Don't tell me "to be

"Don't tell me "to be

"You can't call me a;

"You can't say "oh, you look

"Don't tell me "to be

"You can't call me a;

"You can't say "oh, you look

"Don't tell me "to be

"You can't call me a;

"You can't say "oh, you look

"Don't tell me "to be

Don't tell me "to be

or do we work within they're going to deal with

a day that goes by where

a day that goes by where

students wake up worry

It is not easy for you aren't the only person of socialize with me and the topic of

"

"I am not racially

"Just don't. Even if you're

"Don't tell me "to be

"You can't call me a;

"You can't say "oh, you look

"Don't tell me "to be

"You can't call me a;

"You can't say "oh, you look

"Don't tell me "to be

"You can't call me a;

"You can't say "oh, you look

"Don't tell me "to be

"You can't call me a;

"You can't say "oh, you look

"Don't tell me "to be

"You can't call me a;

"You can't say "oh, you look

"Don't tell me "to be

"You can't call me a;

"You can't say "oh, you look

"Don't tell me "to be

"You can't call me a;

"You can't say "oh, you look

"Don't tell me "to be

"You can't call me a;

"You can't say "oh, you look

"Don't tell me "to be

"You can't call me a;

"You can't say "oh, you look

"Don't tell me "to be

"You can't call me a;

"You can't say "oh, you look

"Don't tell me "to be

"You can't call me a;

"You can't say "oh, you look

"Don't tell me "to be

"You can't call me a;

"You can't say "oh, you look

"Don't tell me "to be

"You can't call me a;

"You can't say "oh, you look

"Don't tell me "to be

"You can't call me a;

"You can't say "oh, you look

"Don't tell me "to be

"You can't call me a;

"You can't say "oh, you look

"Don't tell me "to be

"You can't call me a;

"You can't say "oh, you look

"Don't tell me "to be

"You can't call me a;

"You can't say "oh, you look

"Don't tell me "to be

"You can't call me a;

"You can't say "oh, you look

"Don't tell me "to be

"You can't call me a;

"You can't say "oh, you look

"Don't tell me "to be

"You can't call me a;

"You can't say "oh, you look

"Don't tell me "to be

"You can't call me a;

"You can't say "oh, you look

"Don't tell me "to be

"You can't call me a;

"You can't say "oh, you look

"Don't tell me "to be

"You can't call me a;

"You can't say "oh, you look

"Don't tell me "to be

"You can't call me a;

"You can't say "oh, you look

"Don't tell me "to be

"You can't call me a;

"You can't say "oh, you look

"Don't tell me "to be
By Kevin Ahn
Sports Reporter

This past weekend was another successful meet for both the women’s and men’s cross country teams. Both teams performed well at the NCAA Division III Cross Country New England Regional Championships hosted at Bowdoin in what was described as a “true cross-country race” by junior Eli Decker ‘20.

Decker had a strong showing. Despite it raining the night before, and drizzling race day, Colby’s seven runners finished in the top 10, taking ninth place out of 58 teams. The top for Colby was Eli Deck- er ‘20, who placed ninth overall out of 399 runners. The courtyard was hailing spo- rts was a C-type finish, Decker said. “My freshman year, we had a really strong team with a lot of seniors. We ended up getting ninth in the region that year and compared to other NESCAC schools, “We've been fairly strong for us in the future.”

On the women’s side, Col- by had even more success. It really made a step in the right direction towards big successes in the next couple years.”

By had even more success. “We've been fairly strong by have even more success. “We've been fairly strong

“You can feel it in their race. The weather was rainy and cold but numbers near as bad as NESCACs, Decker all earned qualifying spots to the National tour- nament as individuals. The team looks toward pre- paring for the each race. The weather was rainy and cold but numbers near as bad as NESCACs, Decker all earned qualifying spots to the National tour- nament as individuals. The team looks toward pre- paring for the each race. The weather was rainy and cold but numbers near as bad as NESCACs, Decker all earned qualifying spots to the National tour- nament as individuals. The team looks toward pre- paring for the each race. The weather was rainy and cold but numbers near as bad as NESCACs, Decker all earned qualifying spots to the National tour- nament as individuals. The team looks toward pre- paring for the each race. The weather was rainy and cold but numbers near as bad as NESCACs, Decker all earned qualifying spots to the National tour- nament as individuals. The team looks toward pre- paring for the each race. The weather was rainy and cold but numbers near as bad as NESCACs, Decker all earned qualifying spots to the National tour- nament as individuals. The team looks toward pre- paring for the each race. The weather was rainy and cold but numbers near as bad as NESCACs, Decker all earned qualifying spots to the National tour- nament as individuals. The team looks toward pre- paring for the each race. The weather was rainy and cold but numbers near as bad as NESCACs, Decker all earned qualifying spots to the National tour- nament as individuals. The team looks toward pre- paring for the each race. The weather was rainy and cold but numbers near as bad as NESCACs, Decker all earned qualifying spots to the National tour- nament as individuals. The team looks toward pre- paring for the each race. The weather was rainy and cold but numbers near as bad as NESCACs, Decker all earned qualifying spots to the National tour- nament as individuals. The team looks toward pre- paring for the each race. The weather was rainy and cold but numbers near as bad as NESCACs, Decker all earned qualifying spots to the National tour- nament as individuals. The team looks toward pre- paring for the each race. The weather was rainy and cold but numbers near as bad as NESCACs, Decker all earned qualifying spots to the National tour- nament as individuals. The team looks toward pre- paring for the each race. The weather was rainy and cold but numbers near as bad as NESCACs, Decker all earned qualifying spots to the National tour- nament as individuals. The team looks toward pre-paring for the each race. The weather was rainy and cold but numbers near as bad as NESCACs, Decker all earned qualifying spots to the National tournament as individuals. The race will be held in Win- nemucca, Nevada at the Lake Breeze Golf Club. Fur- thermore, all of these racers received All-New England Honors.

Decker noted how the team looks toward pre-paring for the each race. The weather was rainy and cold but numbers near as bad as NESCACs, Decker all earned qualifying spots to the National tournament as individuals. The race will be held in Win- nemucca, Nevada at the Lake Breeze Golf Club. Fur- thermore, all of these racers received All-New England Honors.

Decker noted how the team looks toward pre-paring for the each race. The weather was rainy and cold but numbers near as bad as NESCACs, Decker all earned qualifying spots to the National tournament as individuals. The race will be held in Win- nemucca, Nevada at the Lake Breeze Golf Club. Fur- thermore, all of these racers received All-New England Honors.

Decker noted how the team looks toward pre-paring for the each race. The weather was rainy and cold but numbers near as bad as NESCACs, Decker all earned qualifying spots to the National tournament as individuals. The race will be held in Win- nemucca, Nevada at the Lake Breeze Golf Club. Fur- thermore, all of these racers received All-New England Honors.

Decker noted how the team looks toward pre-paring for the each race. The weather was rainy and cold but numbers near as bad as NESCACs, Decker all earned qualifying spots to the National tournament as individuals. The race will be held in Win- nemucca, Nevada at the Lake Breeze Golf Club. Fur- thermore, all of these racers received All-New England Honors.

Decker noted how the team looks toward pre-paring for the each race. The weather was rainy and cold but numbers near as bad as NESCACs, Decker all earned qualifying spots to the National tournament as individuals. The race will be held in Win- nemucca, Nevada at the Lake Breeze Golf Club. Fur- thermore, all of these racers received All-New England Honors.

Decker noted how the team looks toward pre-paring for the each race. The weather was rainy and cold but numbers near as bad as NESCACs, Decker all earned qualifying spots to the National tournament as individuals. The race will be held in Win- nemucca, Nevada at the Lake Breeze Golf Club. Fur- thermore, all of these racers received All-New England Honors.

Decker noted how the team looks toward pre-paring for the each race. The weather was rainy and cold but numbers near as bad as NESCACs, Decker all earned qualifying spots to the National tournament as individuals. The race will be held in Win- nemucca, Nevada at the Lake Breeze Golf Club. Fur- thermore, all of these racers received All-New England Honors.
By Matt He Staff Writer

The Mules hooded against the Montclair State Bear defense to put Colby in position to win its first ever-Colby-Bates-Bowdoin football title. It was a win that solidified the Mules’ nine-game winning streak and put them at the top of the NESCAC football rankings.

Until 12 years ago, Colby was 0-7 in the NESCAC, and the Mules have not won the championship since 2005. This win was a sign of the Mules’ recent success, and it also solidified the team’s status as a powerhouse in the conference.

The game was a tough one, with both teams putting up a strong fight. The Mules came out strong in the first half, scoring a touchdown in the opening minutes. They kept up the momentum throughout the game, and their fans were cheering them on throughout the whole game.

The Mules’ defense was a key factor in their success, with players like Charles and Sullivan stepping up and making big plays. The team’s offense was also strong, with players like Burns and Mullen leading the way.

The win was a big moment for the Mules, and it solidified their place in the NESCAC. With this win, the Mules are one step closer to winning the championship, and they are sure to be a force to be reckoned with in the future.