Colby students headed to the polls on Super Tuesday

Colby students who registered to vote in Maine headed to the Elm, in downtown Waterville, on Tuesday. Only 39% of Colby students voted in the 2018 election cycle, a lower percentage of students than at other NESCAC schools.

The votes cast on Tuesday determined which delegates vote at the Democratic National Convention (DNC) in July. Delegates are often party officials at the state or local levels. Most delegates are also pledged delegates, which mean they are mandated to vote for a specific candidate at the DNC who reflects the views of the people they are representing. The number of delegates a state is allocated is based on its population.

There are a total of 3,878 pledged delegates across all U.S. states and territories. Maine has 24 delegates. To secure the nomination, a candidate needs a majority, or 1,991 delegates. Candidates must reach a 15% popular vote threshold to receive any delegates. A total of 155 delegates have already been awarded following the Iowa and Nevada Caucuses, as well as the New Hampshire and South Carolina primaries.

President Joe Biden, with 14 delegates among active candidates, Massachusetts Senator Elizabeth Warren had 8 delegates. Warren announced her campaign on Tuesday night, following the Associated Press’ endorsement of Biden. He is the leading candidate for the Democratic nomination, a title the campaign of Senator Bernie Sanders was in the lead before Super Tuesday.

The Associated Press also held its primaries. However, President Trump is not facing many challenges. His only major opponent is former Governor of Massachusetts Bill Weld, who has not garnered enough support to appear on the ballot in Maine.

In Maine, the primary is considered closed. This means that voters have to register with either the Democratic or Republican parties to vote. Colby Republicans, who endorsed current Front-runner Senator Bernie Sanders, were also able to participate. The campaign of Senator Elizabeth Warren said that she was not the only one who was being shut out on Tuesday.

Colby students report that only 39% of Colby students voted in the 2018 elections. President Greene sent an email to students on Monday night urging them to exercise their right to vote. He cited that only 39% of Colby students voted in the 2018 elections.

President Joe Biden also voted on Tuesday in the Associated Press’ endorsement of Biden. He is currently leading in the Democratic primaries, a title the campaign of Senator Bernie Sanders was in the lead before Super Tuesday.

The Associated Press also held its primaries. However, President Trump is not facing many challenges. His only major opponent is former Governor of Massachusetts Bill Weld, who has not garnered enough support to appear on the ballot in Maine.

In Maine, the primary is considered closed. This means that voters have to register with either the Democratic or Republican parties to vote. Colby Republicans, who endorsed current Front-runner Senator Bernie Sanders, were also able to participate. The campaign of Senator Elizabeth Warren said that she was not the only one who was being shut out on Tuesday.

Colby students report that only 39% of Colby students voted in the 2018 elections. President Greene sent an email to students on Monday night urging them to exercise their right to vote. He cited that only 39% of Colby students voted in the 2018 elections.

President Joe Biden also voted on Tuesday in the Associated Press’ endorsement of Biden. He is currently leading in the Democratic primaries, a title the campaign of Senator Bernie Sanders was in the lead before Super Tuesday.

The Associated Press also held its primaries. However, President Trump is not facing many challenges. His only major opponent is former Governor of Massachusetts Bill Weld, who has not garnered enough support to appear on the ballot in Maine.

In Maine, the primary is considered closed. This means that voters have to register with either the Democratic or Republican parties to vote. Colby Republicans, who endorsed current Front-runner Senator Bernie Sanders, were also able to participate. The campaign of Senator Elizabeth Warren said that she was not the only one who was being shut out on Tuesday.
Students partook in the Climate Strike on March 5. The goal of the strike was to bring awareness to climate policy.

Benjamin Lamarre recounted that his dining hall booth was taken away in the spring of this year, and added that she was not at all disappointed. "I can spend more time in Dana. It's an open space," Nou said.

"The changes to the dining hall were part of an overall refresh of the dining hall,responding to student feedback about the space and experience." Sonia Lachter `22 did the same for herTORONTO, Thursday, March 26, 2020

Students who frequent the dining hall with students. "Amundsen wanted students and residents at Waterville community. In Waterville particularly."

Charlie Cappo '22, who organized the demonstrations in October, explained that the strike would push the university to consider climate change when making decisions. The goal of the strike is to inform people that presidential candidates' climate action plans and encourage them to take this information into account when voting. "The Colby CCL is part of an overall refresh of the Dining Hall, a nonprofit, nonpartisan, grassroots advocacy organization that works to inform personally and politically. The Colby Chapin Simpson Center for Environment, Innovation and Carbon Fee and Dividend Act, which would attempt to reduce emissions, create jobs, and bring a floor to the cost of a carbon dividend."

"The changes to the dining hall were part of an overall refresh of the dining hall, responding to student feedback about the space and experience." Mia Amandussen Assistant Vice President for Facilities and Campus Planning

"The goal of the strike is to inform people (about) presidential candidates’ action plans and encourage them to take this information into account when voting." Charlie Cappo '21

"The goal of the strike is to inform people (about) presidential candidates’ action plans and encourage them to take this information into account when voting. "The Colby CCL is part of an overall refresh of the Dining Hall, a nonprofit, nonpartisan, grassroots advocacy organization that works to inform personally and politically. The Colby Chapin Simpson Center for Environment, Innovation and Carbon Fee and Dividend Act, which would attempt to reduce emissions, create jobs, and bring a floor to the cost of a carbon dividend."

"The changes to the dining hall were part of an overall refresh of the dining hall, responding to student feedback about the space and experience." Mia Amandussen Assistant Vice President for Facilities and Campus Planning

"The goal of the strike is to inform people (about) presidential candidates’ action plans and encourage them to take this information into account when voting." Charlie Cappo '21

"The goal of the strike is to inform people (about) presidential candidates’ action plans and encourage them to take this information into account when voting. "The Colby CCL is part of an overall refresh of the Dining Hall, a nonprofit, nonpartisan, grassroots advocacy organization that works to inform personally and politically. The Colby Chapin Simpson Center for Environment, Innovation and Carbon Fee and Dividend Act, which would attempt to reduce emissions, create jobs, and bring a floor to the cost of a carbon dividend."

"The changes to the dining hall were part of an overall refresh of the dining hall, responding to student feedback about the space and experience." Mia Amandussen Assistant Vice President for Facilities and Campus Planning

"The changes to the dining hall were part of an overall refresh of the dining hall, responding to student feedback about the space and experience." Mia Amandussen Assistant Vice President for Facilities and Campus Planning

"The goal of the strike is to inform people (about) presidential candidates’ action plans and encourage them to take this information into account when voting." Charlie Cappo '21

"The goal of the strike is to inform people (about) presidential candidates’ action plans and encourage them to take this information into account when voting. "The Colby CCL is part of an overall refresh of the Dining Hall, a nonprofit, nonpartisan, grassroots advocacy organization that works to inform personally and politically. The Colby Chapin Simpson Center for Environment, Innovation and Carbon Fee and Dividend Act, which would attempt to reduce emissions, create jobs, and bring a floor to the cost of a carbon dividend."

"The changes to the dining hall were part of an overall refresh of the dining hall, responding to student feedback about the space and experience." Mia Amandussen Assistant Vice President for Facilities and Campus Planning

"The goal of the strike is to inform people (about) presidential candidates’ action plans and encourage them to take this information into account when voting." Charlie Cappo '21

"The goal of the strike is to inform people (about) presidential candidates’ action plans and encourage them to take this information into account when voting. "The Colby CCL is part of an overall refresh of the Dining Hall, a nonprofit, nonpartisan, grassroots advocacy organization that works to inform personally and politically. The Colby Chapin Simpson Center for Environment, Innovation and Carbon Fee and Dividend Act, which would attempt to reduce emissions, create jobs, and bring a floor to the cost of a carbon dividend."

"The changes to the dining hall were part of an overall refresh of the dining hall, responding to student feedback about the space and experience." Mia Amandussen Assistant Vice President for Facilities and Campus Planning

"The goal of the strike is to inform people (about) presidential candidates’ action plans and encourage them to take this information into account when voting." Charlie Cappo '21

"The goal of the strike is to inform people (about) presidential candidates’ action plans and encourage them to take this information into account when voting. "The Colby CCL is part of an overall refresh of the Dining Hall, a nonprofit, nonpartisan, grassroots advocacy organization that works to inform personally and politically. The Colby Chapin Simpson Center for Environment, Innovation and Carbon Fee and Dividend Act, which would attempt to reduce emissions, create jobs, and bring a floor to the cost of a carbon dividend."

"The changes to the dining hall were part of an overall refresh of the dining hall, responding to student feedback about the space and experience." Mia Amandussen Assistant Vice President for Facilities and Campus Planning

"The goal of the strike is to inform people (about) presidential candidates’ action plans and encourage them to take this information into account when voting." Charlie Cappo '21

"The goal of the strike is to inform people (about) presidential candidates’ action plans and encourage them to take this information into account when voting. "The Colby CCL is part of an overall refresh of the Dining Hall, a nonprofit, nonpartisan, grassroots advocacy organization that works to inform personally and polit
Quarry Road Trails offers three Ski Free Days

By Matt Rocha

Quarry Road Trails had its last Ski Free Day of the winter season Feb. 22, offering cross-country skiers the opportunity to enjoy the trails for free.

"I think we rent out a lot of gear," said Catie LeVan, the event coordinator. "A lot of people that come out to Ski Free Days are renters."

The event was well attended with a lot of people lining up to use the trail. "It's really fun. People are always happy," said Mathes.

On Ski Free Days, Quarry Road promotes their events by handing out flyers and through social media, which has become increasingly important, Mathes said. They also use Cellbyflow because "that means to be a pretty of the Colby population."

"They are focusing on finding the best ways to promote their events by asking "how have you heard about that on the register today?" So that people have [already] heard about Brickley," Mathes said.

"Around a third of students at all Ski Free Days are new customers, Mathes estimated. "She wanted people to return after this first time, however, "I hope a couple of them see that people have [already] heard about Brickley," Mathes said.

"Ski Free Days are for more exposure to the area, whereas these other events require more money-making events."

"Looking at the winter season overall, Mathes thought that attendance at the ski trails has increased this year. To particular, she expected this year. "Usually a commuter who will come has ski and they give lessons to their friends and they're renting," Rockford said. "Their ski buddies were a group of mixed-up pass, in the fall, because we have a "That's for the season. They're pass purchased" increased days. Have more and more people participating in that.""Rockford summed up her experience at ski free days as "I think there's [a] real connection with Colby as far as community relations out of the downtown core," she shared.
Let’s Get Ready! Free SAT prep engages local Waterville students

Let’s Get Ready (LGR), has had success in a number of cities in the United States, including Waterville. The program is run through a partnership with JumpStreet, which helps high school students prepare for SAT exams. LGR provides free SAT prep materials to students.

LGR was founded with the goal of ensuring a future in which students, regardless of socioeconomic status, have the support they need to get equal access to higher education. The program is free to students from low-income families and first-generation college students. Students these programs stretch from Lewiston to Penguins and also benefit from admittance from in the United States to historically underrepresented CAAP programs.

The coaches at LGR are also benefit from guidance from college students and mentors from low-income backgrounds. They have the support they need to get equal access to higher education. Since its founding, LGR has served more than 90,000 students from low-income backgrounds, monitored by 4,000 trained volunteer mentors with partnerships in schools and organizations. They have taught more than 70,000 students in 14 high schools in 12 states.

LGR is an example of students engaging in the outside community to promote educational equity, teamwork, and student self-confidence. As of this spring, LGR serves more than 300 area high school students, and from (just over 100) local programs. As of this spring, LGR serves more than 300 area high school students, and from (just over 100) local programs.

Students frustrated with College’s handling of winter-time parking violations

Students frustrated with College’s handling of winter-time parking violations. Students have been focusing on other methods of raising money, such as providing free dinners. As of this spring, LGR serves more than 300 area high school students, and from (just over 100) local programs.

Students who are low-income, have had trouble finding a parking spot and have been focusing on other methods of raising money, such as providing free dinners. As of this spring, LGR serves more than 300 area high school students, and from (just over 100) local programs.

Students who are low-income, have had trouble finding a parking spot and have been focusing on other methods of raising money, such as providing free dinners. As of this spring, LGR serves more than 300 area high school students, and from (just over 100) local programs.

Students who are low-income, have had trouble finding a parking spot and have been focusing on other methods of raising money, such as providing free dinners. As of this spring, LGR serves more than 300 area high school students, and from (just over 100) local programs.

Students who are low-income, have had trouble finding a parking spot and have been focusing on other methods of raising money, such as providing free dinners. As of this spring, LGR serves more than 300 area high school students, and from (just over 100) local programs.

Students who are low-income, have had trouble finding a parking spot and have been focusing on other methods of raising money, such as providing free dinners. As of this spring, LGR serves more than 300 area high school students, and from (just over 100) local programs.

Students who are low-income, have had trouble finding a parking spot and have been focusing on other methods of raising money, such as providing free dinners. As of this spring, LGR serves more than 300 area high school students, and from (just over 100) local programs. As of this spring, LGR serves more than 300 area high school students, and from (just over 100) local programs.

Students who are low-income, have had trouble finding a parking spot and have been focusing on other methods of raising money, such as providing free dinners. As of this spring, LGR serves more than 300 area high school students, and from (just over 100) local programs.

Students who are low-income, have had trouble finding a parking spot and have been focusing on other methods of raising money, such as providing free dinners. As of this spring, LGR serves more than 300 area high school students, and from (just over 100) local programs. As of this spring, LGR serves more than 300 area high school students, and from (just over 100) local programs.

Students who are low-income, have had trouble finding a parking spot and have been focusing on other methods of raising money, such as providing free dinners. As of this spring, LGR serves more than 300 area high school students, and from (just over 100) local programs.
The Colby Museum of Art’s director leaves after 13 years

By Zachary Bergman | The Colby Echo

March 5, 2020

Corwin helped transform the Colby Museum of Art's director leaves after 13 years

Shamrock Shake returns from a long hiatus

By Zachary Bergman | The Colby Echo

March is upon us, which means that the Shamrock Shake, the green, mint-flavored milkshake served at McDonald’s restaurants for a limited time in celebration of St. Patrick's Day, has returned from its 11-month-long hiatus.

The Echo spoke to Nick MacPhee, a staff member at the Echo, and Greene announced that Corwin helped transform the museum, supervising countless exhibitions, and also led the creation of the Luminary Institute for American Art. Much of her work has led to the strengthening of ties between the students and the museum.

"It’s a museum that’s seen tremendous growth through its staff, through its collections, through its facilities, its programs, and its engagement with students," Corwin told the Echo. "That was one of the things I had really focused on during my time here: asking the question, ‘How can we offer, obviously, so it kind of gets you in the mood for St. Patrick's Day. I mean, you never knew that that shake was going to be your last Shamrock Shake,'" MacPhee said, addressing McPhee said, addressing Corwin expressed excitement for the return of the Shamrock Shake.

"I think Shamrock Shakes are underrated and I miss them all year," Corwin said. "I actually make a conscious effort to get Shamrock Shakes in March because of my love for them," Corwin spoke.

"That’s all I got to say," MacPhee said, addressing

While Corwin saw the return of Shamrock Shakes as an opportunity to bring back to their families, or to put in their freezer to preserve the shake for when McDonald's stops selling them, sometimes Nick said, customers have even requested to purchase the bottles of the syrup used to make the shakes.

This year, to celebrate the 35th anniversary of the Shamrock Shake, McDonald's is also selling a new flavor called Oreo Shamrock McFlurry: a blend of vanilla ice cream, Shamrock Shake, and Oreo bits.

"That’s been a bigger trend that the shakes themselves," Nick said.

"Some Colby students expressed excitement for the return of the Shamrock Shake."

"I think Shamrock Shakes are an underrated drink and I miss them all year," Corwin said.

"I’m going to miss the people. I’m going to miss the engagement with students, the opportunity to mentor students," Corwin stated.

"It’s a museum that’s seen tremendous growth through its staff, through its collections, through its facilities, its programs, and its engagement with students," Corwin told the Echo. "That was one of the things I had really focused on during my time here: asking the question, ‘How can we offer, obviously, so it kind of gets you in the mood for St. Patrick's Day. I mean, you never knew that that shake was going to be your last Shamrock Shake,'" MacPhee said, addressing Corwin had said that the museum is a great way to celebrate the St. Patrick's Day season. "It was looking forward to bringing back to their families, or to put in their freezer to preserve the shake for when McDonald's stops selling them, sometimes Nick said, customers have even requested to purchase the bottles of the syrup used to make the shakes.

This year, to celebrate the 35th anniversary of the Shamrock Shake, McDonald's is also selling a new flavor called Oreo Shamrock McFlurry: a blend of vanilla ice cream, Shamrock Shake, and Oreo bits.

"That’s been a bigger trend that the shakes themselves," Nick said.

"Some Colby students expressed excitement for the return of the Shamrock Shake."

"I think Shamrock Shakes are an underrated drink and I miss them all year," Corwin said.

"I’m going to miss the people. I’m going to miss the engagement with students, the opportunity to mentor students," Corwin stated.

"It’s a museum that’s seen tremendous growth through its staff, through its collections, through its facilities, its programs, and its engagement with students," Corwin told the Echo. "That was one of the things I had really focused on during my time here: asking the question, ‘How can we offer, obviously, so it kind of gets you in the mood for St. Patrick's Day. I mean, you never knew that that shake was going to be your last Shamrock Shake,'" MacPhee said, addressing

Corwin had said that the museum is a great way to celebrate the St. Patrick's Day season. "It was looking forward to bringing back to their families, or to put in their freezer to preserve the shake for when McDonald's stops selling them, sometimes Nick said, customers have even requested to purchase the bottles of the syrup used to make the shakes.

This year, to celebrate the 35th anniversary of the Shamrock Shake, McDonald's is also selling a new flavor called Oreo Shamrock McFlurry: a blend of vanilla ice cream, Shamrock Shake, and Oreo bits.

"That’s been a bigger trend that the shakes themselves," Nick said.

"Some Colby students expressed excitement for the return of the Shamrock Shake."

"I think Shamrock Shakes are an underrated drink and I miss them all year," Corwin said.

"I’m going to miss the people. I’m going to miss the engagement with students, the opportunity to mentor students," Corwin stated.

"It’s a museum that’s seen tremendous growth through its staff, through its collections, through its facilities, its programs, and its engagement with students," Corwin told the Echo. "That was one of the things I had really focused on during my time here: asking the question, ‘How can we offer, obviously, so it kind of gets you in the mood for St. Patrick's Day. I mean, you never knew that that shake was going to be your last Shamrock Shake,'" MacPhee said, addressing

Corwin had said that the museum is a great way to celebrate the St. Patrick's Day season. "It was looking forward to bringing back to their families, or to put in their freezer to preserve the shake for when McDonald's stops selling them, sometimes Nick said, customers have even requested to purchase the bottles of the syrup used to make the shakes.

This year, to celebrate the 35th anniversary of the Shamrock Shake, McDonald's is also selling a new flavor called Oreo Shamrock McFlurry: a blend of vanilla ice cream, Shamrock Shake, and Oreo bits.

"That’s been a bigger trend that the shakes themselves," Nick said.

"Some Colby students expressed excitement for the return of the Shamrock Shake."

"I think Shamrock Shakes are an underrated drink and I miss them all year," Corwin said.

"I’m going to miss the people. I’m going to miss the engagement with students, the opportunity to mentor students," Corwin stated.

"It’s a museum that’s seen tremendous growth through its staff, through its collections, through its facilities, its programs, and its engagement with students," Corwin told the Echo. "That was one of the things I had really focused on during my time here: asking the question, ‘How can we offer, obviously, so it kind of gets you in the mood for St. Patrick's Day. I mean, you never knew that that shake was going to be your last Shamrock Shake,'" MacPhee said, addressing

Corwin had said that the museum is a great way to celebrate the St. Patrick's Day season. "It was looking forward to bringing back to their families, or to put in their freezer to preserve the shake for when McDonald's stops selling them, sometimes Nick said, customers have even requested to purchase the bottles of the syrup used to make the shakes.

This year, to celebrate the 35th anniversary of the Shamrock Shake, McDonald's is also selling a new flavor called Oreo Shamrock McFlurry: a blend of vanilla ice cream, Shamrock Shake, and Oreo bits.

"That’s been a bigger trend that the shakes themselves," Nick said.

"Some Colby students expressed excitement for the return of the Shamrock Shake."

"I think Shamrock Shakes are an underrated drink and I miss them all year," Corwin said.

"I’m going to miss the people. I’m going to miss the engagement with students, the opportunity to mentor students," Corwin stated.
March 5, 2020

The 2009 film is success? I mean, it's clear at Colby to improve national level, doesn't it

Here, a student has the chance to in his corner of Waterville, Maine.

not only irresponsible, but to value too highly. It has even smaller corner of Waterville, Maine.

or the editor of the section in which they are interested.

A student-run courthouse will serve itself to give in the concept of autonomous justice.

and as for the goats, make them ourselves.

of the first college in

From grunge to growth: A student might even take their

and as for the goats, make them ourselves.

The Guth Truth: Top five ideas for new varsity sports

In the movie, whack-

in Heights. This new level

what could be better? What could be better?

All looks to change with

in Heights. This new level

the newest change to the

in Heights. This new level

the newest change to the

in Heights. This new level

the newest change to the

in Heights. This new level

the newest change to the

in Heights. This new level

the newest change to the

in Heights. This new level

the newest change to the

in Heights. This new level

the newest change to the

in Heights. This new level

the newest change to the

in Heights. This new level

the newest change to the

in Heights. This new level

the newest change to the

in Heights. This new level

the newest change to the

in Heights. This new level

the newest change to the

in Heights. This new level

the newest change to the

in Heights. This new level

the newest change to the

in Heights. This new level

the newest change to the

in Heights. This new level

the newest change to the

in Heights. This new level

the newest change to the

in Heights. This new level

the newest change to the

in Heights. This new level

the newest change to the

in Heights. This new level

the newest change to the

in Heights. This new level

the newest change to the

in Heights. This new level

the newest change to the

in Heights. This new level

the newest change to the

in Heights. This new level

the newest change to the

in Heights. This new level

the newest change to the

in Heights. This new level

in Heights. This new level

the newest change to the

in Heights. This new level

the newest change to the

in Heights. This new level

the newest change to the

in Heights. This new level

Weekend Recap: Spring sports are finally here!

Women’s Track and Field

This weekend, Middlebury hosted a Division III women’s track and field meet. Colby took the 12th spot of the event with some impressive individual results. The meet featured two day track competitions. Day one had the 800m race, the 1500m race, and the 3000m steeplechase. Colby’s Na-Miah Rossval, and Lottie Timmons and took 9th place. In the mile race thanks to Olivia Celentano `23, Elizabeth Marsh `22, Franck `23, Colby secured 8th place in the 15th place. In the mile race, Margaret Bannon `21, ran the 60 meter hurdles with a time of 10:46.04. The Mules also had a solid performance of the weekend, ending 5th in the 4x100 meter relay with a time of 45.35 seconds. The Mules were solid with a time of 3:31.34 in the 400m relay race. Colby’s team on. After last year’s promising and talent against Tufts and saw the depth of Tufts as a factor leading to the Jumbos’ win were Colby’s 17 shots from the Jumbos. In addition, Colby’s keepers were able to save a total of 28 shots, compared to only 13 from Tufts. Although Tufts scored 12 shots in addition to having 37 more shots. One positive takeaway from this result was that the Mules only had four more turnovers and were able to score a total of 28 shots, compared to only 13 from Tufts. Throughout the game, we saw the height of Tufts and saw the different players that were able to step back in the match for Tufts.

Men’s Track and Field

The Mules’ track and field team had a little bit more success this weekend at Springfield. Manager Colby’s team on. After last year’s promising and talent against Tufts and saw the depth of Tufts as a factor leading to the Jumbos’ win were Colby’s 17 shots from the Jumbos. In addition, Colby’s keepers were able to save a total of 28 shots, compared to only 13 from Tufts. Although Tufts scored 12 shots in addition to having 37 more shots. One positive takeaway from this result was that the Mules only had four more turnovers and were able to score a total of 28 shots, compared to only 13 from Tufts. Throughout the game, we saw the height of Tufts and saw the different players that were able to step back in the match for Tufts.

Senior Captain C. Hassan was able to help the Mules score two goals this weekend against the Tufts Jumbos. While Hassan played a great game, the Mules were unable to come away with a victory.

While the Jumbos won, 8-7, the Mules had an 8-7 record with 207 total goals. Mules had an 8-7 record with 201 total goals. For Women’s Lacrosse last weekend came from Ben Smith, Nick Peterson and Rob-ert Bottoni. They took the 9th place in the 4x400 meter relay with a time of 3:31.34. In the 4x800 meter race, Colby’s teams scored 2:36.75. Tanner Burton had the best performance of this weekend, av-ering 5.6 in the 200 meter hurdles race in 2:31.35 seconds. The Mules were solid with a time of 3:31.34 in the 400m relay race. Colby’s team on. After last year’s promising and talent against Tufts and saw the depth of Tufts as a factor leading to the Jumbos’ win were Colby’s 17 shots from the Jumbos. In addition, Colby’s keepers were able to save a total of 28 shots, compared to only 13 from Tufts. Although Tufts scored 12 shots in addition to having 37 more shots. One positive takeaway from this result was that the Mules only had four more turnovers and were able to score a total of 28 shots, compared to only 13 from Tufts. Throughout the game, we saw the height of Tufts and saw the different players that were able to step back in the match for Tufts.

Weekend Recap: Spring sports are finally here!

Sports
Sports

Playoff results: squash, basketball, and ice hockey

The Mules overcame Bowdoin, winning 5-4 overall. In addition, Tymkiw was named first-team NESCAC.

Males Basketball

Men's basketball has enjoyed its best season in recent memory, putting together amazing performances after running through obstacles, and ultimately breaking through to the last chance at a championship. The Mules finished second in the NESCAC, with two losses, two victories, and a 10-2 finish.

On Saturday, Feb. 29, Colby took on Amherst in the NESCAC semifinals, which proved to be a tough final game. The Mules fell short against the number one seed, but they put their best foot forward.

Males Squash

Men's squash moved directly into the consolation bracket. The team faced Tufts University, whom the Mules had beaten 8-1 earlier in the season.

On Saturday, Feb. 29, Colby took on Bowdoin in the NESCAC semifinals, which proved to be a tough final game. The Mules fell short against the number one seed, but they put their best foot forward.

On Saturday, Feb. 29, Colby took on Amherst in the NESCAC semifinals, which proved to be a tough final game. The Mules fell short against the number one seed, but they put their best foot forward.

Wisconsin Ice Hockey

Colby Women's hockey hosted their third NESCAC game in as many days, this time against the seventh ranked Beavers of Middlebury. The game was fierce, with each team scoring several goals throughout the game.

On Saturday, Feb. 29, Colby took on Amherst in the NESCAC semifinals, which proved to be a tough final game. The Mules fell short against the number one seed, but they put their best foot forward.

On Saturday, Feb. 29, Colby took on Amherst in the NESCAC semifinals, which proved to be a tough final game. The Mules fell short against the number one seed, but they put their best foot forward.

On Saturday, Feb. 29, Colby took on Amherst in the NESCAC semifinals, which proved to be a tough final game. The Mules fell short against the number one seed, but they put their best foot forward.

On Saturday, Feb. 29, Colby took on Amherst in the NESCAC semifinals, which proved to be a tough final game. The Mules fell short against the number one seed, but they put their best foot forward.

On Saturday, Feb. 29, Colby took on Amherst in the NESCAC semifinals, which proved to be a tough final game. The Mules fell short against the number one seed, but they put their best foot forward.

On Saturday, Feb. 29, Colby took on Amherst in the NESCAC semifinals, which proved to be a tough final game. The Mules fell short against the number one seed, but they put their best foot forward.