HCL EAR misdated this letter.

1. The letter was addressed to Prof. A. R. Gledhill.
2. Ed. G. Moore, another high school classmate, the third member, with Gledhill and EAR, of the League of Three, organized for social and convivial purposes during their last year together at Gardiner High School. EAR is said to have been fond of Moore's sister Mabel.
3. EAR is being roguish here and showing off his classical knowledge. Glyceria was a mistress of Menander and a favorite of Horace.
4. In his text of Virgil, now housed in the Robinson Treasure Room at Colby College, EAR, in a clear bold hand, wrote: "Finished Book VII, Jan 31. 1889." The completion of the entire work was also noted: "Finished Aeneid, May 12, 1889. E. A. Robinson."
5. The insignia of the League of Three.
