My dear Gledhill -

I am sitting and copying in Peters' room and the idea strikes me that I will write you a note to break the monopoly I think you are owing me one, but no matter; in my present mood I will make no difference. What-yeas are over but I cannot yet tell how I came out with the exams.
Think I passed them with right honors, and have no particular fear in that direction

To-morrow (Saturday) evening, if the winds are right and the planets propitious, I will go into town and have a bottle or two of Guinness' Dublin by way of thanksgiving. I have been having these thanksgivings about every third night all through the most year season but think I will be justified in having one ~~now~~ more before the new spring work begins.
I say spring work, meaning the opening of the second half year.
Well, Peter's is springing a newspaper joke and I will stop. Vale.
