Features

CENTENNIAL 1

The semester marks the 100th anniversary of the enrollment of Colby's first woman, Mary Low. Despite early setbacks, Colby has gradually become a fully coeducational college.

HOMEcoming 4

The Alumni Council dedicated Homecoming Weekend to Leonard Mayo '22, retiring Professor of Human Development. His thoughtful response to the honor was a highlight of the Colby Night dinner.

PROFILE OF THE PRESIDENT 7

Excerpts from Gloria Negri's Boston Globe feature on President Strider and photographs by the newspaper's Joseph Runci create an expressive portrait.

Anniversary: A Century of Changes in Coeducation

"All honor is due Mary Low, the first girl to brave the lion's den of a Colby classroom," writes Dean-emeritus Ernest C. Marriner '13 in The History of Colby College.* "When she was permitted to enroll in 1871, she was not only the sole woman in the entire college; she had to make her way in competition with some brilliant men. . . . On commencement day in 1875 it was the woman who delivered the valedictory."

The cycle of 100 years began and ended with coeducation at Colby. For many of those years, women lacked some of the advantages afforded Mary Low. Not that the Waterville girl's situation was idyllic: many in the community thought her venture outrageous. She had the temerity to believe in "the inherent claim of women to the highest culture." A founder at Colby of Sigma Kappa, a national sorority today, Mary Low was among the first New England women to enter a full-fledged A.B. degree program.

"Throughout her college days, Mary Caffrey Low was treated with deference and respect by her fellow students," said The Colby Echo after her death in 1926. "They admired her for her spirit, intellect, and personal charm."

The abilities of Mary Low and the plucky women who joined her in 1874 were all too apparent: "It seems the few women . . . had been carrying off too many of the competitive prizes," Dean Marriner recalls. "Calling a halt to such monopoly," the trustees voted to establish separate prizes for men and women. It was only another step to the concept of separate "coordinate colleges" adopted by trustees in 1890, as male enrollment fell off and more capable women sought admission. At one point the Alumni Association passed a resolution asking trustees to ban further admission of women.

The 19 alumnae of 1890 issued a stinging challenge: ". . . by that statement the college confesses that she made a mistake 20 years ago, and thus places her present alumnae in the anomalous position of being the visible evidence of that mistake." The real issue, they said, was the risk of women surpassing men in scholarship. The spirited Louise Coburn, the first woman elected a trustee in 1911, is credited with a major role in drafting the rebuke.

Not only was the task of building a separate college unfeasible, but official indifference to the ladies was not shared by male students. An 1884 Echo editorial said: "It seems as if the most enthusiastic admirers of the co-ed system must have their enthusiasm increased by the extraordinary success it is meeting here. . . . If co-education is a settled fact, and we presume it is, it should be fully realized as soon as possible; and it can never be realized until steps have been taken to give the girls benefits of all the advantages which boys enjoy."

Those benefits were a long time coming. Male applications declined again in the early 1900s; so repugnant was the idea of evolution to a women's college to trustees, faculty and alumni that President Arthur J. Roberts decided the only way to solve the problem was "to enroll enough men so that the men's division would always be larger. Then he proceeded to show skeptics that he could do exactly that."

The early deans of women functioned more or less as house mothers. As women's grievances mounted, however, President Roberts promised to hire as his next dean "a Colby woman and one whom I know." The year was 1920 and the woman was the remarkable Ninetta Runnals '08. During her long tenure, she won the respect of Colby men and women. With the invaluable help of Miss Coburn and Mrs. Eleanora Woodman, Dean Runnals worked unstintingly to bolster the prestige and facilities of the women's division. When she retired in 1949, her alma mater was truly coeducational.

The second world war, along with changing ideas and mores, was a major factor in the emancipation of Colby women, Dean Marriner contends. "Given the chance to exercise leadership, the women did so well that not even the post-war influx of men could displace them. After 1945 a woman was quite as likely to be elected to a student office as a man." Long before Pearl Harbor, women were taken for granted in mixed classrooms, and when the decision was made to move to Mayflower Hill, all thoughts of a separate women's college had been abandoned.

Further changes, more deliberate than gradual, have occurred during President Strider's tenure. Men and women lived, dined and used unions at opposite ends of the campus when he took office in 1960. The first change came four years later when Averill hall on the edge of the men's preserve was used to house women. This led to a limited coed dining arrangement in Roberts Union. Dana Hall, completed in 1965, took care of the women's housing problem temporarily, but by 1967 Averill and East halls were used again by women. The scales were balanced deliberately at this point by moving men into Coburn and Woodman on the distaff side of the hill. All dining was coed by 1967 and this fall, living units in Roberts Union have been given to women.

The tradition of separate deans ended in 1967 when the president appointed Mrs. Frances F. Seaman dean of students, and male and female associate deans to assist her. Degrees, once conferred separately, are awarded to the entire class in alphabetical order. The two non-academic honor societies merged last spring as the Blue Key Society.

Women are prominent in nearly every aspect of campus life: two of six Student Government officers; equal membership in the 12-student judiciary; and five of 12 officers of the three upper classes. Last semester, 20 of 22 college committees included women students. But they remain in a minority in a few areas: for example, six of 29 trustees; 20 of 118 full-time faculty, and seven of 22 Echo staffers as listed in the first issue this semester.

Current full-time enrollment is 1,538 with 842 men and 696 women. Yet last semester, with women in a similar minority, the dean's list was 60 per cent female. Over the past 15 years, they have surpassed men in senior honors (138 to 71), election to Phi Beta Kappa (139 to 76) and distinction in majors (161 to 144). Men have the edge in the number of senior scholars, 46 to 42.

Professor Paul P. Perez, clinical psychologist, contends the 15-year statistics don't reflect more recent developments: "The difference between men and women is disappearing (of course, I don't mean anatomically). When I first came to Colby (1959) the women's SATs and grades were way ahead. They spent much more time on studies. What has happened is that the men are becoming more academically oriented. A new survey shows women still put in a little more time studying — but not much."

Once subject to more stringent rules, women enjoy virtually the same social privileges as men — dormitory autonomy (subject to guidelines established by the college community).

As the stereotypes about "men" and "women" fall by the wayside amidst intensely self-analytical give-and-take, the creative agony of making decisions takes place earlier among undergraduates, especially women. Being what they want to be — now and as alumnae — can only strengthen them and their college.

Homecoming Honors

Leonard W. Mayo '22, a social scientist of international stature, has been extolled for his wise counsel by Colby students, faculty and administrators. The Alumni Council added official acclaim this year by dedicating Homecoming Weekend to Professor Mayo.

He retired from the faculty in June having made a tremendous impact on the college during his five years as Professor of Human Development — just as he did for more than 40 years on the lives of the socially, physically and mentally handicapped. Over the years Professor Mayo has served his college well, notably as chairman of the $2.5-million Fulfillment Program in 1957 and as a trustee from 1957 to 1966. The college recognized his professional accomplishments in 1942 by conferring an honorary doctor of science degree.

At the Colby Night dinner Sept. 24, following testimonials and gifts to the Mayos (Lena Cooley '24), he responded with a thoughtful, moving vote of confidence in his college and its future:

The Mayos (Lena Cooley '24) and a well-wisher

FAUNCE

Colby has been an integral part of my family history for nearly 100 years. It was 1875 that my father, who in later years became Colby's oldest living graduate, entered the little college on the Kennebec. Louise Coburn, for whom a dormitory has been named, was a distant relative; and a sister and several cousins are among more recent graduates. My earliest recollections include Colby legends and photos; Colby friends and reunions and Colby's aspirations for the future.

Two main reasons Colby has won a place in what Dr. Bixler used to call the "front rank of American colleges," are her sense of mission and her insistence on the highest possible quality of teaching and administrative leadership.

Colby Night, from the days when the entire college gathered in the old gym to consume vast amounts of cider and doughnuts, has always been an occasion for both rejoicing and rededication. So tonight we again renew our friendships and pledge continued support to our college.

Traditionally, Colby has always "looked out upon a jaundiced world with a clear eye and viewed hot problems with a cool head." I suggest that in these days our college — alumni, board, administration, faculty, students, the entire community — keep three major things in mind.

First, the need to retain a sense of reality.

No college is a typical community. It is a protected community with a highly selective population. It is easy to withdraw, to lose contact with the hard realities and to be content with an ivory tower existence. Colby has always resisted the temptation to live in a dream world and she must continue to do so.

But just as a college campus must guard against losing contact with the real world, so the alumni must keep in mind the importance of seeing their alma mater as it is today not through the rose-colored glasses of 20 or more years ago. Colby is not the same college you and I attended nor should it be; we may regret some changes but we can only rejoice in the major ones. For in comparison with other colleges of our size and even larger, our progress has been phenomenal.

Our students, too, must face reality. Participation on their part in the process leading up to decision-making is not only desirable, but an essential part of their education. But the major decisions in both social and academic life belong where the wisdom born of experience and maturity lies, i.e., in the faculty and administration. Responsibility for the conduct of the college can and should be shared but it must not be abrogated.

Second is the need to renew our hope and confidence not only in the future of our college but in all of our democratic institutions and of course in our young people.

The colleges and universities of America have long been known as the citadels of freedom. They must now become the citadels of hope in an age that threatens to give up hope. The confirmed cynic is a far greater hazard to the life of the Republic in my judgment than the political radical, for the confirmed cynic has given up — he has, as the students say, “copped out.”

Our democratic institutions can work more effectively; integrity in private enterprise and in government can prevail — if we so determine. What the American people want badly enough they will achieve.

As for our young people, we can never forget that they are ours. They were reared in the society we built and whether we like it or not, they reflect us. To lose faith in them would be to lose all faith in the future.

A sense of reality and a renewal of hope go hand in hand; for reality without hope is barren; and to live by hope alone without a sense of reality is to exist in a dream world.

And third is the need for compassion.

Compassion is one quality that marks the educated man and the civilized human being. It denotes warmth toward other people and acceptance of human beings with all their faults and foibles and weaknesses. A friend of mine used to say, “always take adolescents seriously but not always literally”; and that is good advice, for compassion is a sine qua non in living and working with students.

Every one of us is vulnerable and most of us have not learned that the main objective in life is not to be understood, but to understand.

Compassion is not to be confused either with pity on the one hand or a soft attitude toward deviant behavior on the other; it does not denote any lowering of academic or community standards. It is a philosophy of life, a way of looking at problems; and above all, a way of looking at people. Literally, it means to feel with; i.e., to understand and to share. It is a quality greatly to be desired as the faculty works with the college; and as we associate with each other in trying to cope with a complex world.

Perhaps then we may say that among the high purposes of a liberal education and among the objectives of Colby in particular are helping students to gain and retain a sense of reality, renewed hope in the future of our society and a greater measure of compassion.

In expressing my appreciation for the honor so generously given me tonight, I wish to acknowledge my debt, still unpaid, to Colby College and to all of those through the years, both at Colby and elsewhere, who have given encouragement, support and inspiration.

Miss Margaret Payson

President Strider, in testimonial remarks, commended the Alumni Council for its choice. "There is no one in the far-flung community that makes up Colby who is more deserving of special honor from his alma mater. . . . He has been of great help to all sorts of people through the years in quite a number of capacities, but I would wager that there is no one to whom he has been more help than the president of his college during the last five years."

The president recalled another testimonial dinner in 1966 at which he spoke upon Professor Mayo's retirement as executive director of the Association for the Aid of Crippled Children in New York. "Now, that might have been the end of a very nice story. In most cases it would have been. But Len Mayo has always had limitless energy. . . . He was still ready to do more. And along came a splendid opportunity."

At this point, President Strider was able to announce for the first time full details of the arrangement that brought Dr. Mayo to Colby as Professor of Human Development in 1966 — "with the permission of a gracious lady" who made the professorship possible.

"Miss Margaret Payson of Portland, recipient of an honorary degree from Colby in 1956, long a friend not only of Colby but of other institutions in Maine and of the state as a whole, is a person of tremendous idealism as well as imagination who likes to dream dreams. She and I and others had long talks over a considerable period of time about the potential role of the liberal arts college in social service, and one of the most notable results of our conversations was her establishment of a program in human development at Colby College, an innovative concept full of academic as well as social excitement, and it will continue to be, though in forms different from those we had in mind when we first talked about it. Miss Payson is a modest person and I will not embarrass her, not only because I have promised not to but because it is not in her nature to accept the accolades that are due her; but I want to pay tribute to her publicly, a remarkable person of vision and imagination who has set in motion wheels that will bring about improvements in man's estate for years to come."

The president told Professor Mayo in concluding: "We think all your accounts are more than in order, and if anyone owes anything to anyone, it is the college who owes it to you. . . . Whatever it is, we couldn't possibly afford to pay it to you. What you have done for your college and for society is not to be measured in any currency except those eternal and intangible values that have made the human race endure for thousands of years. You have made your contributions toward its enduring for perhaps a few thousand more."

Decade of Change

Conversation with the GLOBE

Few college presidents have survived a decade in the no-man's-land between those who passionately clamor for change and pressure and those who resist it with equal sincerity.

President Strider has a great deal more to his credit than survival since 1960. Colby has experienced constructive change, growth and prosperity despite friction virtually unknown in previous generations.

Publication last spring of Colby in the Sixties, the president's accounting of his stewardship, told the story of academic innovation and changing patterns in campus living, and in doing so he was frank in acknowledging occasional failures as he reported on successes.

The report received wide notice. Most notable of the editorials and features was a profile in the Boston Sunday Globe. As Gloria Negri, reporter from the Globe, interviewed President Strider, Joseph Runci was creating an expressive portrait on film.

I like students. . . . They are idealistic and extremely able and anxious to help the college become better.

Colby, its philosophy unaltered, has changed, not only inevitably, but I think properly and dynamically, with those times. . . . if the colleges didn't reflect changes there would be something wrong. The college has to adapt itself . . . without losing its basic philosophy.

A college president must not only maintain his health, but his sense of humor. In my welcoming addresses I have urged freshmen to find something to laugh about every day.

The focus of the college is still the life of the mind, but when you are dealing with this age group . . . there is a lot more going on among them besides the development of the mind.

I see students who are very different from those of four or five years ago. There has been a major change . . . on the positive side. They are better prepared for college.

On the negative side mores are changing. . . . This has made the college . . . a more volatile kind of community. We have a greater number of students . . . who have been brought up permissively. No one has ever said, 'no,' to them.

Occasionally you have to admit you're wrong, that sometimes the choice has to be between castor oil and epsom salt. My choice often is distasteful to me. The thing to do is not to strive for perfection, but a good batting average.

A college president is an educational leader. He is head of a rather complex administrative organization. He is ultimately responsible for fund-raising.

Esther French Spaulding '16 and her husband, Earl, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary at the Lamoine summer home of their daughter, Mrs. Herbert Dickey, July 18. They were married by the Rev. Wilbur Berry, father of Mary Berry Manter '04. Mrs. Manter's daughter, Eleanor '36, was flower girl at the wedding. On July 20 the Spauldings attended a luncheon at Lakewood Inn, where the guests were all members of the wedding party in 1921. Among those present were Marion Whipple Tuscan '15, Claire McIntire Curtis '16 and Berle Cram '16. The Spauldings have resided at Hampden Highlands since 1940.

Doane Eaton '16 maintains his interest in local and state history, being active in the affairs of both History House in Skowhegan and Waterville's Redington Museum. Although distinguished in his own right, Doane is even more proud of his father, Harvey Eaton '87. Recently the Somerset Reporter announced that their oldest continuous subscriber was the Eaton family. In 1871 Doane's grandfather brought his young son, Harvey, into the newspaper office and said, "I want the paper for this boy." That boy rose to law practice before the U. S. Supreme Court.

The University of Maine added to the impressive array of awards given over the years to Marston Morse '14 when President Winthrop Libby conferred an honorary doctor of science degree in June. The citation recognized Dr. Morse's half-century of research as "affecting the main currents of mathematics," and the man as "one of the founders of a new branch of mathematics called variational theory in the large." The distinguished French Academy has described him as "the most productive living mathematician." Dr. Morse, a native of Waterville, was appointed professor of mathematics at Princeton's Institute for Advanced Study along with Albert Einstein in 1935. Since, he has received the National Medal of Merit and the National Medal of Science, the federal government's highest award for scholarly excellence. Colby conferred an honorary doctor of science degree upon him in 1935.

The Rochester Academy of Medicine awarded the 32nd Albert David Kaiser Medal to Dr. Libby Pulsifer '21 in recognition of his "humane counsel and dedication to patients, the community and our medical profession." Dr. Pulsifer, noted gastroenterologist, carries on a medical tradition of five consecutive generations as clinical assistant professor of medicine (emeritus) at the University of Rochester Medical Center. He helped organize the G. I. Clinic at Strong Memorial Hospital, and to man the medical clinics at the Rochester General Hospital and Baden Street Settlement. A past chairman of the board of governors of the American College of Gastroenterology, he served as medical section chief of the 19th General Hospital in World War II and was chief of medicine at Rochester General Hospital from 1951 to 1956. Dr. Pulsifer, elected president by his class prior to Alumni Weekend, received the Rochester Academy's Award of Merit in 1962. Now vice president of the Fifty-Plus Club, he will succeed to the presidency in 1972-73.

Greetings! Some of you were able to get back to Commencement, and we hope that all of you are making plans to return for our very special reunion next June. Chairman Len Mayo and his committee already are making plans for the big event. They would welcome any suggestions from any of you for making the occasion more enjoyable.

Chester Robinson, who has spent much of his life working in and for schools, has been honored in recognition of his "valuable contribution as a faithful and dedicated school director of SAD 50 (Cushing, St. George and Thomaston) from 1963 to 1971." After 36 years in the profession, which included the post of director of adult education in Manchester, Conn., Chet has retired to Pleasant Point, Cushing. Life there is full of activities ranging from lobstering and woodworking to his service with the school board. . . . Walter Berry writes of a 44-day Airstream trailer caravan trip to Guadalajara, Matzalan, Acapulco and Mexico City. He returned by way of Texas, up through the Shenandoah Valley to New England and home to Camden, where Huck and Helen have built a retirement home. They welcome summer calls from old friends (since they travel in winter). . . . Jerry Doyle received a 50-year Phi Delta Golden Legend pin. The Doyles winter in Florida and attend St. Petersburg Colby Club luncheons. . . . Ruth Goodwin still teaches piano and does volunteer church work. . . . Seldon Gerrish, retired teacher and visual education director, does volunteer repair service with visual aid equipment. He received a plaque for his 32 years of educational service and work as founder and executive secretary of the Utica, N. Y., Educational Film Exchange.

Ruby Dyer has retired after 15 years as Skowhegan correspondent for the Somerset Reporter. She worked for many years previously as an advertising copywriter in New York. . . . Avis Barton Bixby, retired language teacher, is a companion in Holyoke, Mass., and does volunteer work in church, the historical society and the women's club. Daughter, Rebecca Casey '48, is living in California and a married son is assistant treasurer of Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance in Springfield. . . . Hugh Whittemore, although retired, is registrar for the Bergen (N. We had an enjoyable visit with "Scottie" (Lenora Scott) on our trip south last winter. She's retired from teaching in Long Branch, N. J., and busier than ever with church and community activities. She also cares for an aged aunt.

The class is proud to claim Len Mayo as one of our own. He was honored at the traditional Colby Night dinner at Homecoming Sept. 24. The good wishes of all of us go to Len and Lena (Cooley '24) for many happy years of well-earned retirement.

Keep in touch and do plan to come back in June '72.

Marguerite Starbird Lunt was honored on her retirement as associate librarian of the Curtis Memorial Library, Brunswick, at a reception June 29. Professor Philip M. Brown, treasurer and senior director, said of Marguerite: "It is with real regret that we have accepted Mrs. Lunt's decision to retire. We wish to express our deep appreciation for her nearly 20 years of faithful and devoted service. She will be missed by all of us and by countless other patrons of the library." She received her library science degree at Simmons College and held positions in the libraries of the University of Maine, Connecticut College for Women and the Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh. . . . I reported that Arlene Ringrose Brown was hospitalized after a February auto accident in Milton, Mass. Arlene, her sister and brother-in-law all were badly injured. Arlene is recovering satisfactorily after five weeks in the hospital and six months convalescence. She had a brace, crutches, then a cane; and therapy continues. But she is doing her own housework and driving a little. . . . A heart attack has restricted the activities of Ethel Alley Baxter. Let's hope she will be able to resume the traveling she and her husband have enjoyed so much since retirement. . . . Tom Callaghan and his wife also enjoy traveling. They visited Spain and Morocco before returning to their Delray Beach, Fla., home for the winter. Tom extends invitations to visit there or at their summer place in Willimantic, Conn., where a new high school gymnasium was named for him. Congratulations! . . . Avis Cox Colby and husband divide their time between Florida and Maine since retirement. Avis has seen Doris Ogier Pitcher, Marion Bibber Wade, Thelma Powers Walker, Margaret Gilmour Norton '24 and Cliff Littlefield '26. . . . Anson Lowitz claims to be retired. But in addition to writing, lecturing and traveling, he is president-emeritus of the Greenwich (Conn.) Titles of his lectures are "Religion in Latin America," "The Armory Show of 1913" and "The So-called Holy Land."

H., cottage. Leonette is in charge of Christian education for Hedding Campground children. She gave Spike and me the pleasure of a call during a drive through Maine with her cousin, Elizabeth Weeks '34. . . . Louise Tilley was in Maine early in the summer

Evan preached in the Buckfield church he attended as a boy when he visited grandparents.

The Remarkable Husseys

Business success today usually is measured by merger, conglomeration and issue of public stock. By these standards the 136-year-old Hussey Manufacturing Co. of North Berwick is quite an anomaly.

The firm whose founders believed literally in beating "swords into plowshares" flourishes in the hands of the family that has been associated with Colby for more than a half-century. Each of five Hussey generations has added some new dimension to the metal-working line, which moved upward from plows to a ski jump 10,000 feet in the mountains of Colombia.

Under the direction of Philip W. Hussey '13 and his sons, the company has established a worldwide market for its mainstay—seats and bleachers—plus a new plant in Toronto. Phil Jr. '53 is president-treasurer and Peter '57, vice president for manufacturing. As leading producer of telescopic bleachers, the concern has seating in almost every state, in Canada, Puerto Rico, Europe, Asia and Australia. Many are in gymnasiums and arenas. But Hussey has sold them to television stations, including the Columbia Broadcasting Co. in New York City.

The story began in 1835 when William Hussey cast the first really successful iron plow. His son, Timothy, lived the family's Quaker faith after the Civil War by buying scores of cannon that were melted down for plows. The Husseys survived a fire which destroyed their plant in 1895 by using every available cent to reduce debt, with each brother taking only what he needed to keep his family. Family trust was complete and there was no accounting on this score. Soon the firm moved into production of such items as manhole covers, saw rigs and barn ladders, which in turn led to installation of complete fire escape systems.

When Cyrus H. Curtis donated a Boys' Club to the city of Portland, Hussey Manufacturing had to produce bleacher seats to get the bid, and in the 30s went on to design portable bleacher seats and grandstands.

Following work on essential wartime metal items, the firm began producing floats, diving boards and ski jumps. Its steel tower jump in Berlin, N. H., is one of the largest in the country.

Phil Sr. is happy to note that seating now demands so much time that the company has stopped making fire escapes and other smaller items. Booming sales of indoor seating keeps production on a steady 12-month basis and the North Berwick plant still is expanding.

Even more encouraging is the fact that members of the sixth generation, while still in school, exhibit a keen interest in keeping the Hussey Co. a thriving family business.

Phil Jr. is married to the former Martha De Wolfe ('55). Their sons are Timothy, Jonathan and Richard. Peter's sons are Christopher and Thomas.

Rowland Hussey '13, Philip's brother, was associated with the firm briefly, and continued to work with steel for Jones & Laughlin Co. of Woodlawn, Pa. He is retired and lives in North Berwick.

Both New Englander and Down East magazines have chronicled the development of this uncommon company in recent issues. "The Hussey Company," said Down East, "whose personnel and associates always are quick to take advantage of modern materials and methods and to anticipate new industrial trends, seems to have a future as bright as its past. The Maine family industry has plowed a long furrow in the . . . years since William Hussey cast the mouldboard of the first Hussey plow by pouring molten lead into a hole in the ground."

Contributors to the Plan for Colby and the Annual Fund 1970-1971

We hear a great deal these days about the future of privately-supported education, some of it decidedly pessimistic. But as each year comes to a close and Colby's balance sheets are tallied, we are pleased and inspired to see that once more the support of our alumni, parents and other friends has enabled the college to face up to financial pressures felt acutely even by institutions formerly considered secure.

This is the wellspring of Colby's strength: the generosity and concern of its friends, and their belief in the college and willingness to support its programs in times which may give them good reason for financial anxiety.

During the past year the Annual Fund for Continuing Achievement surpassed its goal again. At the same time, the Plan for Colby capital campaign drew closer to realization and detailed plans began to take shape.

It is a pleasure to pay tribute to our generous supporters. Though publishing their names cannot begin to express the depth of our appreciation, the list of friends that follows serves both as a means of recognition and a reminder to future generations that without this sort of loyalty and devotion to an ideal, the benefits which Colby students enjoy would not be possible.

Our sincere thanks and very best wishes to all of you.

eight children among them. . . . Gren Vale was awarded a Colby Brick in June in "deep appreciation of extraordinary loyalty and service to Colby." I am sure you join me in congratulating him on this signal honor. Gren and his wife traveled to Russia and the Scandinavian countries. He writes that the "new Connecticut Yankees are enjoying the country life," and extends the usual welcome to Colby folks. . . . Ruth Allen Peabody and her husband spend their summers in East Eddington and winters in Fort Meyers, Fla. They've been on a Caribbean cruise and to Venezuela, and Ruth is busy with volunteer church and educational work. Another recent activity was salmon fishing in New Brunswick and Newfoundland. . . . Mary Watson Flanders and her sister, Jean Watson '29, visited relatives and friends in Virginia, New York and Washington state during the summer. They also took a side trip to Skagway, Alaska, and Bennett Lake in the Yukon Territory. They ended their journey by visiting their sister, Elizabeth Watson Gerry '27, in Brewer and plan to spend the winter in Florida. . . . Harry Greene, who passed away Aug. 14, gave promise as a student of his great capacity for compassion and understanding of his fellow men, which he displayed in his years as a physician. His was a rare and gallant spirit, respected and admired by all who knew him. Those privileged to be his friends loved him. He leaves a lasting memorial of esteem in the hearts and minds of friends, acquaintances and patients.

Paul Gates, John Stambaugh Professor of American History at Cornell and former history department chairman for 10 years, retired in June. A faculty member since 1936, Paul was considered an authority on the history of the American West and U. S. public land policies. He is the author of a comprehensive history on public land developments. Many of his graduate students followed in his field: 15 articles by former students were prepared in his honor for a book, The Frontier in American Development, in 1969.

Hilda M. Fife
21 Wentworth Street
Kittery, Maine 03904

Silence settled over the class after our reunion. Presumably members have been busy doing whatever they do in the good ol' summertime. As for me, I've been teaching again — a summer course for graduates at the University of Maine at Portland-Gorham called "Literature of Maine and the Atlantic Provinces." There is growing interest and cooperation in studies of joint significance to Maine, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland. Ed McKay '30 is one of the leaders of the Institute of Atlantic Studies at the University of Maine. I'm always busy with meetings, speaking and the Maine Old Cemetery Association, an organization devoted to the preservation of the old burying grounds. Write me if you "dig" genealogy, collecting epitaphs, making photographs or rubbings of grave stones, restoring old graveyards or copying inscriptions. I edit a newsletter that goes to our more than 500 members, and help plan our "fun" meetings. Never a dull moment!

You see, with practically no news from you since reunion I have to write about myself. What are you doing, you retired class members? News clippings refer to Carl MacPherson's 42 years of teaching at Brockton (Mass.) High School and Duckie's 18 years at Lynch Junior High in Winchester, Mass. Welcome to the club, Carl and Duckie.

Do let me hear from you, a note or even a post card, before the next class news section of the magazine goes to press telling me of your plans, activities, hobbies and travels. Newspaper clippings about anyone in the class are welcome, too. As always, I'll be delighted to see any of you when you pass through Kittery on your way to or from Colby (or anywhere).

Jean M. Watson
67 Hawthorne Drive North
New London, Conn. 06320

E. Richard Benson was presented a plaque by the Salvation Army in recognition of 25 years of service as treasurer. He and Mrs. Benson spent last winter in Vero Beach, Fla. On their way they visited her sister in North Carolina. They visited Cape Kennedy twice as guests of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration — first to tour the John F. Kennedy Space Center, then to view with Vice President Agnew and other dignitaries the Apollo 14 liftoff for the moon last Jan. 31. . . . During the tour of the vehicle assembly building (the world's largest building in volume) they read the word "Colby" about 500 feet above them in the middle of the high bay area. (It was the name of the crane, no doubt.) "One might say that all recent flights to the moon have been supported initially by Colby," Dick remarked. . . . Oscar M. Chute, research consultant for the Illinois Association of School Boards, became dean of academic affairs at National College of Education in Evanston. He serves on two advisory committees for the Illinois Superintendents of Public Instruction.

Charles Jordan retired this year after 47 years in the field of education, 33 of them in Auburn where he served as teacher, then principal of the Walton and Webster schools. Earlier he taught in Richmond and Winchester, Mass. Since 1968 he has been director of education services for Mechanic Falls, Poland and Minot. We wish him many years of health and happiness. . . . F. Elizabeth

Libbey, Colby associate librarian, received a service award from student government — a silver bowl — and a dozen red roses. The honor was one of many bestowed on Elizabeth upon her retirement. The summer Alumnus also featured a retirement story on Earle McKeen, director of placement and career planning, who devoted his entire career

Jean Watson, our able correspondent for 1929, has been an avid traveler and a duffer on the golf course for years. Now she is working at both hobbies seriously. School was out for Jean in June for the last time. With 42 years of teaching behind her, she headed for Seattle. "I've promised myself the next time I went to Seattle, I would get to Alaska," she mused before leaving. "So maybe this time. . . ." Next year it may be the Mediterranean and Africa, where a friend works as a missionary. She has seen most of Europe. "But I haven't been to the Mediterranean yet." As for golf: "I'm not very good because I haven't had time to practice — until now."

Jean was mathematics chairman for 24 years at the Williams School in New London, Conn., where she lives. Previously she was at Ricker Classical Institute and Junior College in Houlton (now a college) and the Emma Willard School, Troy, N. Y. Why teach mathematics? "It seemed like more of a challenge. . . . I encourage the girls to take as much math as they can and I have tried to encourage a lot to be doctors — we need so many more." Jean, a former college trustee who earned her master's at Columbia, takes pride in her membership in the international honorary society, Delta Kappa Gamma, in professional organizations and community activities in New London.

to education. Earle and Florence are traveling in a new motor home. . . . Besides naming a new education building for Mark Shibles, the University of Maine awarded him an honorary doctor of pedagogy degree in June. Our congratulations to him.

"Budge" Chase Bevin writes philosophically about the times, comparing the college students of today with those of our decade. She discussed the hardships some of our generation endured to stay in school and the self denial of many parents. . . . Isabel Clark retired from teaching and lives in Sunset. She emerges several times a year to do a math program for educational television. It would be interesting to know how many children watch her lessons. . . . Rod and Peg (Davis '28) Farnham crossed the country last summer. . . . Francis Juggins had a heart attack last spring. He had anticipated coming with "Lib" to our reunion. "Jug" is legal representative for Lloyds of London. His hobbies are flying and golf. . . . "Andy" Karkos has retired from the Fitchburg, Mass., school system. Andy and his wife live in Plymouth, Mass. He is the new class representative to the Alumni Council. . . . John McCoy Jr. retired in August. The following came from the YMCA Wednesday Report: "This culminates a career with the Y spanning a period of 40 years, all of which was spent in service to the youth of the greater Patterson (N. J.) area. Jack's program ingenuity ran the gamut from organizing shoe shine boys into a company (teaching them to help themselves) during the depression of the early 30s, to enlisting youth in a bank tag day (teaching them to help others) that raised a record amount of money for World Service in 1971. Through his programs at the Y, Jack was able to teach good health habits, sportsmanship and citizenship to young people which enabled them to be champions all their lives." He was honored at a dinner June 16. "Shorty," as we knew him, was at the reunion with his attractive wife and curly-haired 10-year-old daughter.

Fran Page Taylor lives in Waterboro. Her wit was one of the high spots of our reunion dinner. . . . Ralph Snyder has been named executive secretary-treasurer of the Maine Savings and Loan League. . . . Dana Simmons has been appointed acting president of Unity College. Dana writes that his hobbies include raising flowers, playing the organ, golf and writing. He and his wife have eight grandchildren. The oldest is entering the University of Colorado this fall. . . . Clayton Smith writes about his family and their interesting careers: earning doctorates, Peace Corps work and special education.

Clayton and Mary Ann went to Europe last summer, visiting Switzerland, Germany and Holland. They enjoyed the Passion Play at Oberammergau. Clayton is the only patent agent who isn't an attorney. His busy life includes giving slide talks on "Revolutionary Roads," "The Battle of Springfield," and "The Morris Canal." He is a member of the Sons of the American Revolution, the Madison Historical Society and president of the Canal Society of New Jersey. . . . Jennie Dunn Millett and Don are living in Bucksport. . . . Jasper Foster received a weekly newspaper community award in Rumford July 12 upon his retirement from 37 years of public education, 28 of them in Rumford where he was high school principal.

Thirty-eight attended our 40th reunion dinner — one of our best. Wish more of you had been there. See you at our 45th in '76.

Dr. Edmund N. Ervin received the annual New England Book of Golden Deeds award during the Exchange Clubs Conference last April at Chicopee Falls,

"Last week I received a picture from Colby College," Bill Clark '36 wrote in a summer newspaper column about the tendency of the young to blame their elders for all the world's ills. "I didn't know what it was. I said, 'Why am I getting this photo of all these old people?' Uncle Jake saw it and said, 'That's your graduating class at reunion and if you were in the picture the rest of them would look younger.' . . ."

"He was right. The picture was of my classmates, 35 years later . . . and I want to say that those people don't look like villains at all. They look bewildered, yes, and . . . a little tired, but they don't look like folks who have conspired to end the blessings of the world. They looked, barring differences in costume, like their children will look in another 20 years. Of course, as far as the radio jingle is concerned, their children, being about 30 or so, may be the parents who are being plugged for bugging." (Bill referred to the radio message that prompted the column: "'Bug your parents,' said the voice. 'Bug your parents. That's the way to get the parks cleaned up.'")

Bill concluded, "If so, that is all right in one way because their parents must be the ones who brought them up to believe that they could get away with bugging people without getting their backsides warmed. . . ."

Mass. The award is sponsored by the New England District Exchange Clubs. Ed's most distinguished contribution has been his work in the field of mental retardation. He was a founder of the Greater Waterville Association for Retarded Children and serves as chairman of its school board. He was instrumental in establishing the school. Under his guidance and direction it has expanded its services steadily to the point where it can accommodate 60 children.

Terri Carlyle Hadden's daughter, Cindy, is a freshman at Colby. . . . Harold W. Hickey has been named director of the liberal arts division at Broome Technical Community College in Binghamton, N. Y. Hal has been chairman of the history and social sciences department at Broome since 1966 and on the faculty for 10 years. He specializes in Latin American History. . . . Eleanor Tolan Hooker of North Abington, Mass., retired after 26 years of teaching and raising three children. . . . Bert Mosher was appointed to the board of directors of the Depositors Trust Co. . . . John Roderrick, one of three American newsmen to accompany the U. Premiere author, lecturer and communications specialist Roland Gammon, president of Editorial Communications, Inc., of New York City, visited the campus last spring under sponsorship of the Albert Dorne Memorial Foundation. Roland participated in informal and classroom meetings with faculty and students. He met with classes in the history of religions, oral interpretation, and creative writing. . . . Never in our days on the Colby Echo, when I tried to serve the deadline demands of Editor-in-chief Gammon, did exciting events of a season leave my deadline response as uncertain as this one.

Classmates will understand my excitement at being admitted to the Nebraska Bar Association through their spring examination. At age 55, the excitement was such that I have become a rather uncertain compiler of class news, dividing my time between the usual events of life and exploring opportunities in the practice in the neighboring state clear to the Iowa border. I was almost close enough to get in touch with John Dolan '36, a stalwart friend, in Des Moines, but a phone call from another friend of that class altered that slightly.

Tom Van Slyke '36 and I planned to meet in the Bay Area in the spring of 1942 when I came out of Skagway, Alaska, to enter the service. Tom was in Vallejo, Calif., when I embarked by steamer at the head of the Inland Passage for "outside" (the states). Meanwhile Tom was transferred to Texas. ## Alumni Council Nominates Trustees

Alumni Council nominees for the Board of Trustees are Eugenie "Jean" Hahlbohm Hampton '55, Lester F. Weeks '15 (center) and William L. Bryan '48. Mrs. Hampton, former Alumni Association vice president, lives in Topsfield, Mass., and teaches second grade. Professor-emeritus Weeks (chemistry, 1919-1954), Colby Brick recipient in 1967, lives in Boothbay Harbor and is a former state legislator and Waterville city councilor. Mr. Bryan is assistant dean of admissions at the University of Maine. He is a former Colby coach, assistant dean of men and director of admissions.

Article VIII, section 2 of the Alumni Association Constitution provides that other alumni may be nominated by petitions signed by 25 or more alumni and filed with the executive secretary before Feb. 1, 1972. If there are no nominations by petition, the council will declare election of nominees named above at the winter (1972) meeting.

June 21. We wound up a great evening with a past-midnight phone call to John Dolan. I hadn't seen Tom since the spring of 1938 just before I headed west. . . . Good things happen in pairs: next came a call from Ray Farnham, who was motoring to Idaho. He and Ruth brought me happy reminiscences from Maine (particularly Madison where we both taught high school). Though Ray was a year ahead of me, we had a crowded several hours and pleasant luncheon discussing friends of our undergraduate days. A very pleasant surprise, their visit, recalling those great Eddie Roundy baseball teams of the mid and late 30s — pitcher Al Farnham, outfielder Ray "Hocker" Ross, Charlie Geer, Jack Sheehan and the superlative Peabodys (Jim, Woody and Ralph). The 1971 baseball team sounds like one of the good ones (and the track team's first in the State Meet was out of this world!) . . . . But applying the language of this generation to those Colby baseball teams coming into the world war two years, they were "something else."

It doesn't seem possible that more than a year has passed since some 30 of us celebrated our 30th reunion at Colby with a dinner at the "Jeff." Class news gleaned since then has been mighty scarce.

Gordon Jones of Needham, Mass., has been elected a director of the Raytheon Co. Gordon, a former Colby trustee, is executive vice president for financial operations of John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co. . . . Recently we heard that Virgil Hinckley retired from teaching at Traip Academy in Kittery. Best wishes to him. . . . Art Thompson, dean of Boston University's college of engineering and a trustee, was the first recipient of the Earle H. Baily award established in memory of a faculty member at B. U.

Newington, Conn. 06111

Our thanks to Joanna MacMurtry Workman for her fine reporting job of past years. Her notes and Norris Dibble's summary of our 30th reunion provided most of the material for this column.

Just a few of us arrived June 11 for the Alumni Weekend dinner at which Bob Pullen and George Beach, among others, received Colby Bricks. On Saturday there were alumni seminars, the lobster and steamer bake at the fieldhouse, then a fine, very informal get-together for a drink or two at the Beaches' cottage on the lake. Thirty classmates and assorted spouses were on hand for a fine social hour and our reunion dinner at the Silent Woman. President and Mrs. Strider and the Sid Farris appeared at our dinner briefly, and Bob had a few appropriate comments. Then it was back to Dana Hall and our 30th reunion floor, of all things, for a bull session into the small hours. Some of that talk was about education, since so many of us are involved. Colby's adaptation to change provides an opportunity to try to understand other points of view.

The group included Henry and Jane Russell Abbott, Charles and Mrs. Barnfather, George and Martha (Rogers) '42 Beach, Dwight and Mrs. Beal, Norris and Mrs. Dibble, "Cappy" '40 and Barbara Partridge Dyer, John and Mrs. Eaton, Henry and Ruth Roberts Hathaway, Joseph and Beatrice Kennedy Maltais, Richard and Virginia (Earrand) '43 McDonald, Robert and Mrs. Pullen, Virginia Ryan, Herbert and Mrs. Sterns, Maynard '38 and Lubov Leonovitch Waltz, and Linwood '40 and Joanna MacMurtry Workman.

The new director of the Manchester (N. H.) Veterans Administration Hospital is Ronald Wallace, who has been with the V. A. since 1946, most recently as hospital administration specialist in the Washington, D. C., central office. . . . Ed Toolis has been promoted to vice president of finance by Maxon Industries, southern California manufacturer of solid waste collection and disposal equipment, and hydraulic lift gates for trucks. Ed lives with his wife and three children in West Los Angeles. . . . Heber Brill is happy to be back in Maine and delighted with the community hospital in Camden where he is administrator. Heber, who transferred to the U. S. Military Academy, retired from the Army in 1965 and worked as a scientific executive at the Atomic Energy Commission Weapons Test Site outside Las Vegas until the move to Camden last year. . . . Ruth Stebbins Cadwell is enthusiastic about the "instant family" she acquired with her marriage in 1968. She gave up the reunion to be on hand for the arrival of grandchild number eight. . . . John Daggett, whom we remember proudly for his prowess in carrying leather for that championship football team, is a partner in Jones-Daggett Associates, a Milwaukee leather business. Johnny and Nat Mooers ('42) have a real Colby household: her father, Bill Mooers '14, is living with them. . . . Evelyn Gates DeKemper has moved to 7119 Lakeside Drive, Charlotte, N. C. . . . Virginia "Jiggs" Mosher is a chemist in Spartanburg, S. C., where Alaskan sealskins are processed. Jiggs is a converted "Yankee" and loves South Carolina. But she gets back to Maine every summer. . . . Lin '40 and Joanna Workman have a summer home at Pemaquid and are among those contemplating retirement in Maine. . . . Elmer and Betty Baxter acquired a Colby daughter commencement day (June 6) when son, David '70, married Deborah Nelson '71 in Lorimer Chapel. Gustave Todrank, professor of philosophy and religion, and the Rev. Ledyard Baxter '67, brother of the bridegroom, performed the ceremony. Grandmother Phyllis Sturdivant Sweetser '19 was there with many other Colby friends.

The class celebrated a memorable reunion in June. I'm sorry that some of you were unable to attend because you Colby friends are doing pioneering research in neutron radiography which holds great promise for diagnosis and treatment of tumors and tissue ailments, among other things. Dr. Philip Boyne '46 (left) is oral surgery division chairman at UCLA's School of Dentistry. William Whittemore '45, a Ph.D. senior scientist with Gulf General Atomic Corp. in San Diego, is in charge of the firm's TRIGA Reactors Facility.

Their paper on the medical potential of neutron radiography has attracted considerable attention. Still being perfected, the technique is similar to the X-ray, which produces shadowgraphs mainly of density and thickness variations (fractured or diseased bones, for example). But neutrons are more sensitive to substances in flesh and bone marrow, and even in machine parts. When Phil implants a new bone in a jaw, neutrons can show quickly whether it takes up new organic material, or failing to do so, begins to "die." The technique is expected to take the place of slower, costlier tests including biopsies. On Bill's industrial scene, an atomic reactor can radiograph a wide range of parts and materials within fully assembled metal objects.

coming Colby's president. He said his best choices in life were (1) marrying Mrs. Bixler and (2) coming to Colby. Since retirement he has taught at the universities of Hawaii and Maine, Bowdoin and Washington University and Thammasart University in Bangkok. After telling many amusing stories, Dr. Bixler concluded: "Bless you all. We've been together during four years which were crucial, critical times in the history of Colby."

Cloyd Aarseth, class president and M. C. for the evening, showed a movie called "Class of 1946." He made it from snapshots and pictures he had obtained from Joe Smith '24 and others, and it was excellent. The sound track consisted of Cloyd speaking and Colby songs. Reunion Chairman Charlene Blance Ray did an excellent job and was elected our representative to the Alumni Council. Hannah Karp Laipson and Ann Lawrence Bondy (remember the three witches at graduation?) read the prophecy they wrote for commencement. Honorary certificates of class membership were given to the Bixlers, Professors McCoy (German), Smith (psychology), Strong (French), Zukowski (Lucille Pinette '37 for math), Dr. and Mrs. (Professor) Comparetti (music and English), Ray (chemistry), and Joan Aarseth and Chuck Dudley. Prizes were presented as follows: first reunion reservation, Betty Sealise Killam; most children, Connie Choate Trahan (eight); members with offspring at Colby, Jean O'Brien Perkins and Clenyce Miller Kaplan; coming the longest distance, Phil and Marion Boyne from California. A testimonial was presented in absentia to Mary Young; a letter from her high school principal praising Mary highly. Similar testimonials will be presented to classmates every five years.

You will be interested in knowing who attended, along with those already mentioned and their spouses: Dot Dunham Hobbs and husband, Richard; Ann Norwood Stred; Adelaide Jack McGorill, Georgina Guilliford Fielding and Stan; Ruth Lewin Emerson and Joe; and Emily Holbrook Pellissie and Bruce.

Many thanks to President Aarseth and Chairman Ray for all their work in making our reunion a big success.

It was a pleasure to hear from Tema Kaplan Cushner last spring. Her son, Stuart '75, is the third generation of her missed a grand time. The presence of Dr. and Mrs. Bixler was the ingredient which made this an outstanding reunion.

Dr. Bixler said that ours were the amazing years. We knew the darkest days and it is amazing that Colby survived. In 1943 the enrollment was down to 295. Remember Rowena and the blue beetle? She and the bus held the college together. Dr. Bixler told bus stories of going to basketball games and freezing nights. In those days there were three establishments — girls on the hill, cadets in Foss and the men on the old campus. (Remember the day the girls left Foss Hall and the cadets moved in?) The college ran on a shoestring. There were three fatiguing terms with no extra money for the faculty. In 1943 Dr. Averill gave Colby $1,000 to bring 20 outstanding men to Colby as speakers (Hocking, Perry, Sam Greene, Comma, Chapple, Robert Frost, etc.) That same year the college received $5,000 to start music and art programs. Professor Comparetti taught music and Professor Sam Greene, art.

When Dr. Bixler was celebrating his 25th reunion at Amherst, he received a phone call and was asked to consider be-

Tema has been involved in community work for many years, and last year started taking courses at Boston University. . . . Carleton Stinchfield received a Colby Gavel in June as president of the New England Association of Chemistry Teachers. He is on the faculty at Greenfield (Mass.) Community College. . . . Louise Leavenworth is supervisor of adoptions for the Connecticut Child and Family Service. . . . Lt. Col Bob Jacobs has retired from the Air Force with more than 24 years of service. He is a veteran of World War II, Korea and did a tour in Vietnam. Happy golfing, Bob! . . . Jean Maloof Naman is on the go with her business. She owns the Colpitts Travel Center in Andover, Mass.

The parish celebrated the award and the Rev. Twenty-eight members of the class had responded by September to the survey on reunion suggestions. Eight are willing to give of their time and talents as much as possible and serve with President Don Hailer on the reunion committee: "Sandy" Pearson Anderson, Arthur Eustis, Joan (Martin) and Al Lamont, David Lynn, Howard Sacks and William Taylor. Six said they definitely will come; nine said "very likely"; ten are hopeful and three indicated that to attend would be impossible.

Some of their comments and suggestions: written information of class news; reunion in July or August; mailing a list with names and information about those attending a few weeks in advance; secure ample accommodations on campus; athletics such as swimming, volleyball, softball; reservations for "night-clubbing" for those interested after the class banquet; swimming, dancing and other activities for teen-agers; invite other classes to join us ('51 and '53); something academic in the way of a speaker or seminar, and not "life on campus"; and a reunion gathering off campus — Belgrade, for example.

Donald Keay was elected vice president of the Lexington (Mass.) Federal Savings and Loan Association, where he has worked since 1966. Don lives in Lincoln with his wife and two children. . . . Ann Orth Needham has joined the sales staff of a Hanover, Mass., real estate agency. Ann, a graduate of Bridgewater State College, took real estate courses at Northeastern University. She and husband, Bill, live at 69 Washington St. . . . A fourth daughter, Julie Ann, was born to Arnold "Jessie" Jones and Rosemarie. Jesse, who lives in Revere, Mass., expects to attend the reunion and suggests lots of refrigerator space be available! . . . Commanding a construction battalion in Vietnam is Lt. Col. Walter Hayes, who has served in Saudi Arabia, West Germany and as an R.O.T.C. instructor at Lehigh University. Ruth and the family remain in Maryland. . . . Dave Robinson is an administrative officer for the New York State Department of Transportation's Region 6. He lives in Hornell, N. Y. . . . As a teacher of French and Spanish at Cony High School in Augusta, Joan Acheson Bridge plans to take a group of students to Spain next April. She studied in France for a month in the summer of 1970. . . . "Vangie" Sferes Getzen can only come to Maine at the end of August because of her husband's work as a chemistry professor at North Carolina State University. They have sons, 14 and 10, and a daughter, "Cissie," 13. Vangie is looking forward to seeing news of the class prepared especially for reunion.

Dave had served as office manager since 1960. He and Joan (Millett '51) have three sons and a daughter.

Congratulations to: Jane Whipple Coddington, who received her master of library science degree from Rutgers; Sid Farr, alumni secretary, who was named director of financial aid and career counseling by President Strider; and Al Landau, elected to a three-year term on the Alumni Council.

Jack Deering has survived the shake-up in the investment field and joined F. S. Mosely and Co. . . . Dave McKeith is associate professor of early American history at Ithaca (N. Y.) College. . . . Russell Squire Jr. has been appointed Maine and New Hampshire representative for Interstate Container Corp. . . . Looking at the last issue, I noticed that some of our classmates returned for reunions: Charlie Macomber, Louie Zambello and of course, Sid, who was in a lot of pictures.

Ernest Flick has written a practical laboratory reference book entitled Adhesive and Coating Testing. The book, dedicated to the author's parents, was published by Padric Publishing Co., Barnardville, N. J. Ernest is chief control chemist of Borden Chemical, a division of Borden, Inc. . . . Edward Ducharme, former director of the master of arts in teaching program at Trinity College (Washington, D. C.), has joined the Rhode Island College faculty as adjunct associate professor in educational studies. Ed also will serve as regional director of the staff development project at the college under a grant from the New England Program in Teacher Education. He has a master's from Harvard and a doctorate from Columbia Teachers College.

... Minot Greene is the new president of the Northwestern Connecticut Mental Health Planning Council. He is a trust officer with the Hartford National Bank & Trust Co., and lives with his wife and two children in Norfolk, Conn.

Please don't wait until our 20th or 25th to come back and see how beautiful our alma mater is. Our art museum is being talked about nationally, our football team is bound to have a winning season soon, and someday, someone in our class is sure to give a million or so to Colby anonymously. Then we can all return and let each other guess.

Please send more news. It gets harder to add lib every year.

We had a warm, sunny weekend for our 15th reunion June 10-12. Late Friday afternoon the gang started moving into the Alden Camps in Oakland and by Saturday afternoon the lake and tennis court were jumping with classmates and their offspring.

The first ones to arrive started their own informal party at Ronnie and Kay Sanborg's cabin: John and Linda Ziegler, Charlie and Barbara Mardozzi Macomber, John and Joan Williams Marshall, John and Tess Jubinsky, Dave and Rosie Crouthamel Sortor. Early Saturday morning the tennis court was the center of activity as old roommates challenged each other's stamina. Cheers and greetings went up as more classmates and families checked in. There were Dick and Robin Abedon, Don and Ann Rice, Forrest and Anne (Jefferson '57) Barnes, Larry and Diane (Schnauffer '57) Zullinger, Danny and Toni (Jaffee '57) Yarchin, Harry and Lyn Brooks Wey, Warren and Babs Faltings Kinsman, Don and Nori Edmunds Grout, Hugh and Naomi Anderson, Bill and Sally Haggett, Kathy (McConaughy) and Lou Zambello '55, and Bob and Dot Aikman Adel.

More of the party joined us at the fieldhouse in time for the lobster and clam bake — John and Charmian de Vesty Farley, Charlie Morrissey, Jan (Nordgren) and Stein Meryweather, Katie Dunlop, Audrey Davenport, Shirley Montini, and Ron and Lucy Groening. By the time the evening festivities rolled around, our reunion was in full swing for the happy hour and picture taking.

On hand were Peter and Hope Palmer Riordan, Bob and Nancy (Roseen '57) Leavitt, Pete and Paula Lunder, Paul and Pam (Jones '58) Christie. Master of ceremonies Danny Yarchin introduced our dinner guests, Professor and Mrs. Dick Cary and a bearded Professor Jim Gillespie, who greeted us with a few nostalgic words. President and Mrs. Strider and Sid Farr '55 stopped by for a quick hello. Tess and John Jubinsky picked up honors for having travelled the farthest to attend. Our elected officers for the next five years are Dave Sortor, vice president; Janet Stebbins Walsh, secretary; Arline Berry Julia, Alumni Council representative.

Thanks to our reunion committee — Kathy McCaughy Zambello, Pete Lunder and Arline Julia — our 15th was a great weekend get-together with old friends. We missed those who couldn't make it and hope many more will join us for our 20th in 1976.

The most newsy letter I've received came from Donna Sample Kramer in Seattle, where she is designing and installing a network to link Boeing's computers nationwide. A year ago June, she and friends set sail in a 40-foot yawl and went all the way down the coast to Panama in leisurely fashion: almost a month ashore in Sausalito, several weeks in San Diego, three weeks in Acapulco over Christmas and New Year's, and nearly a month in Costa Rica. Highlights of the trip were her brother's wedding in Sausalito (and getting him seasick on his honeymoon); trying to communicate with Mexican fishermen in high school Spanish only to find they didn't speak it either (Aztec or something); shaking two gunny sacks full of grapefruit off a single tree on a deserted beach in Costa Rica; their skipper trying to lasso a turtle; a dawn inspection by a 30-foot pilot whale less than 20 feet from the boat, and water skiing in the Panama Canal.

Bob Shattuck is in his fourth year as principal of the middle school at the Trinity School in New York City. ... Diane Scrafton Cohen organized her own 10th reunion in Acapulco with Karen Lindholm Ring, and Tony ('60) and Marty Fromm Zash '62. ... Penny Dietz Sullivan wrote that Carla Possinger is assistant to the owner of the Henloper Hotel in Rehoboth Beach, Del. Penny wants more suggestions for our 15th. ... Gale Holtz Golden has a master's in social work and planned to do private counseling in the fall. She and her husband live in Utica and have three children. Gale and Janet "Chelmsy" Bentley Reynolds were planning to get together in mid-August for the first time in 14 years. Chelmsy's husband, Ken, is a minister in Clayton, N. Y. ... Dan Hodges teaches at Lane Community College in Eugene, Ore. When Donna Kramer saw Dan and his wife last they had twin boys and were expecting another child. ... Alistair and Pat Zapp Arnott spent the summer in Scotland with their two children.

An apology to Anne Lehman Lysaght: in the July newsletter I inadvertently assigned her husband to Sue Parmalee Daney. Hope too many people weren't embarrassed as a result. ... When an official looking communique from the commanding officer of the U. S. S. Grasp (home port, Guam) appeared, I was relieved that the gentleman was none other than our Bruce Young. The surveillance and salvage ship repairs, refloats or tows vessels in trouble in about four million square miles of the Western Pacific. Wife, Becky, lives with Kimberly (5½) and Christopher (2½) in Navy housing on Guam. Bruce couldn't resist having his own command but hopes to get back to destroyers in a couple of years. (Does anyone else remember his "accident" at Sugarloaf when I repaired his disasterously split ski trousers with a safety pin?)

Garth and Judy (Thompson '63), who have a daughter, Julie Ann, had lived in Waterville before the move. . . . Lever Brothers Co. has promoted Whitney Coombs to product manager in its foods division. A resident of Whitney Heights, N. J., he earned an M.B.A. from the Columbia Graduate School of Business.

Bill Alexander is living what some call a dream: from June through August, he captains his own windjammer on charter cruises out of Rockport. He bought and refitted the former Portland Pilot, a 70-foot gaff-rigged schooner, with 2,900 square feet of new sails and other gear. Rechristened Timberwind, the rugged vessel will accommodate 22 persons plus Bill and his crew of four. During the colder months, Bill lives near Waterville in Albion.

Carl Caito received a master of international management degree from Thunderbird Graduate School of International Management in Glendale, Ariz. It's the only school devoted exclusively to training people for international careers. . . . Richard Mooney is the new advertising-sales promotion manager for the eastern industries division of LFE Corp. of Hamden, Conn. He spent the summer working on the final draft of his Ph.D. thesis for Princeton.

Anne Quirion Connaughton received a Maine Down East cookbook at her home in France. She wrote back with some long and fascinating descriptions of cooking and food habits in France. Anne does a lot of French cooking for Jim and year-old son, Jacques, but she sometimes cooks "Down East." Finding the ingredients is almost a game: corn meal from a pet store, baking soda from the pharmacy and no fresh cream anywhere. . . . Laurice Puglia Haines received her M.A. degree in math during special summer commencement exercises at Bowdoin College in August. She teaches at North Reading (Mass.) High School. . . . Hermon "Bink" Smith is the new director of athletics and physical education in Manchester, N. H. Karen M. Knudsen

Maine has reclaimed many of our classmates. The latest to return is Ken Nye as assistant principal of Rumford High School. Ken, who has an M.A. from Northwestern as well as a Ph.D. in educational administration, had been teaching at Central YMCA Community College in Chicago and counseling intern teachers at Northwestern. . . . Natalie Furlong ('67) and Al Graceffa were pictured as a happy Maine "transplant" family in a two-page Maine Times article. They live with their daughter and a golden retriever in South China (not to be confused with ping pong country) and have lots of room for Al's birthday present — a horse purchased by a group of "crazy friends." Al coached football at Winslow High, then at Waterville High. Now he's working for Transco Distributors. A toast to dear old Maine: it's in good hands!

I'm certain all of us would join Professors Benbow and Chapman in congratulating Barbara Gordon Schoeneweis for winning second prize in the 1971 New Jersey Daily Newspaper Women's writing contest. Her entry was a three-part series on the Monmouth County Family and Health Nursing Service. . . . John Haynes received his doctorate in chemistry this spring from the University of Rochester and is employed by Monsanto Chemical Co. as a research chemist. John and his wife, Candice, live in Springfield, Mass. . . . In Ramstein, Germany, Michael Knox is serving as a captain in charge of aircraft maintenance. Mike, who received a master's in systems management from the University of Southern California, has a wife, Sandra Sue, and two daughters. . . . Received a newsy letter from Sally Berry Chew, who was hoping the expected third child would be a girl and getting ready to move back east to Amherst, Mass. Bob is an associate director of the computing department of the University of Massachusetts.

Paul Strong has joined the English department at Alfred (N. Y.) University. Paul, who has his master's from the University of Wisconsin, had been a literature instructor at Clarkson College of Technology in Potsdam, N. Y. . . . Robert Gelbard, assigned to the American Consulate in Porto Alegre, Brazil, has been promoted to grade six in the Foreign Service. Bob joined the service in 1967 and has served in Washington, D.C., and the Philippines. . . . Seldom does a season go by when we don't hear something new and fascinating about Doris Kearns. An August Parade, the Sunday newspaper supplement, named Doris among those who worked on President Lyndon Johnson's controversial new book, Vantage Point. A White House fellow in 1967, Doris is assistant director of the Kennedy Institute at Harvard. . . . Martha Schatt Abbott has completed her Ph.D. degree at the University of Michigan and is an assistant professor of education in the Department of Early Childhood Education at Georgia State University in Atlanta. Her husband, Michael, is an assistant professor of law at Emory University there. They have a year-old daughter. . . . Josiah Drummond, a history teacher and administrative assistant to the rector of St. Paul's School, Concord, N. H., has been appointed director of the school's independent study program. . . . Arthur Fulman, an attorney, is 1971-72 United Fund chairman in Malden, Mass.

Duane Record, an Army doctor, received the Bronze Star medal in July at Quang Tri, Vietnam, for meritorious service in connection with combat operations. Duane received his medical degree at the University of Vermont in 1969. . . . Cary Parsons has joined North American Exploration, Inc., in Charlottesville, Va., after receiving his master's in geology from the University of Virginia in June. . . . Tom Hill completed his Navy commitment in August as a lieutenant. Questionnaires are being mailed to our class. If you do not receive one, please write to me and I will see that you get one.

The Holdens have relocated — again! Randy accepted a position at Arizona State University as assistant professor of music and administrative assistant to the dean of the College of Fine Arts. I am working as a behavioral technician in the spinal injury service of the Institute of Rehabilitation Medicine at Good Samaritan Hospital, Phoenix. One of the psychologists with whom I was doing research at the University of Washington moved to Phoenix at the beginning of the year and by July 1, she needed help. So I am filling in some holes — doing psychometrics, behavior modification projects and organizational work. Once the extreme summer temperatures subside we hope to do much camping throughout Arizona, Mexico and the Southwest. . . . Neil Clipsham '65 was here in July on a business trip. Bob Merrill '67 is a doctoral student in geology at ASU. Mary Harrison Curd '65, after spending eight months in France, is a reading specialist in the Phoenix school system and lives near us. So, if the winter's ice and snow begin to bug you and you find yourself heading for the dry, warm climate of the Southwest, please stop by. . . . Dave Penhale spent the summer as a member of the Tufts Arena Summer Theatre Acting Company, a professional theater group which performs in Medford, Mass., every summer. . . .

Linda Buchheim Wagner writes from Germany that Peter has received orders to go to Vietnam in October. So after a few more excursions — to East Berlin, Denmark, Norway and Sweden and London — they will return to Applecrest Farm in New Hampshire where Linda and Todd will live while Peter is away.

John Tara's hometown newspaper (Brockton, Mass.) did a feature in August on his work for the Massachusetts Defender's Committee in Plymouth County. "The practice of law is far more enjoyable than learning it out of books," he said of his case load, which averages more than 300 a month. "But I find in the practice of law I needed every course I took in law school." Said the paper: "The grueling . . . case load fits right into the mode of living Tara adopted as a schoolboy, bearing out the adage, 'If you want something done, take it to a busy man.'" John, who was graduated from Suffolk Law School in 1969, built up an early conviction that the underprivileged need more help in the courts. The article stressed his ability to work, play sports and keep up his academic standing at Colby. John and his wife, Barbara, were able to get enough time off last summer to travel in Europe.

Please don't feel you have to wait for questionnaires to send items. News, comments, and commentaries are welcome any time.

If you missed 1968 notes in the last issue, let me explain. We're all at fault: not enough of you are taking me into your confidence (writing); and your faithful correspondent took off for a long summer and missed the deadline. Please, let's have some communication and not let another summer go by.

A number of degrees were awarded to people we know in June. Joe Jahar was second in his class at the University of Maine School of Law in Portland, where Joe was student bar association president, writing instructor and part-time coach. He has accepted a post with the Justice Department in the Attorney General's Employment Program for Honor Law Graduates. Joe will be working in the criminal section of the tax division. . . . Fred Levine also got a law degree — from Harvard. He reportedly had a choice between a Wall Street firm and serving as clerk for a Massachusetts Supreme Court justice. Best wishes in whichever you choose. . . . Bill McKinney received a master of divinity from Hartford Seminary, the Alexander Ross Merriam Prize for high proficiency in social ethics and the William Thompson Fellowship for two years of advanced study. Bill is a teaching fellow at Pennsylvania State University and working on his Ph.D. . . . Northeastern University conferred a master's in business on Brad Merritt. . . . By now Liz Bridges Horne should have her master's in elementary education from Tufts. When last heard from she was studying for finals and job hunting. She and husband, Bill, a Ph.D. candidate in biochemistry at B. U., enjoy commune living in Cambridge.

Chris Balsley, who has been doing graduate work in science at Wesleyan, is teaching seventh and eighth grade science in Killingworth, Conn. . . . Dave Parker is a staff writer for the newspaper of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America. . . . Olive Niles Shu is senior contract analyst in the group contract and certificate services department of Aetna Life & Casualty. She lives in Ellington, Conn. . . . Army Spec. 5 Doug Thompson received the Bronze Star medal for service in Vietnam. Glad you're back, Doug. . . . Since her husband, Wayne, returned to civilian life, Nancy Short Hall, has lived in Essex Junction, Vt., where he is a programmer for IBM. They camp and climb as much as possible. . . . The John and Jane Morrison Buhar family has two new members: Joshua (a son) and Jeb (a golden retriever). After an August leave in Maine, they are on temporary duty at Castle Air Force Base, California. Permanent duty in January will be at Sawyer AFB, Michigan.

All sorts of gossip from Barb Bixby Lewis, our roving reporter on Long Island: Dana Heikes and Tom Rippon had a big gathering which attracted Mark and Jean Reeve Edelstein, Bob '67 and Debby Nutter Miner, Derek Schuster '67, Jeanne Mandelbaum, and Rich and Barb. They visited Bill and Pat Palombo in Andover, Mass., for the christening of Kristin Elizabeth. The Lewises also have gotten together with Sebs Mamo '70 at the University of New Hampshire. Sebs cooked them a great, spicy Ethiopian chicken dish "which we loved but are still recovering from." Rich is a public relations director for his firm in Jericho, N. Y., and Barb teaches kindergarten. . . . Just got a postcard from vacationing Nancy Beach Gilmore. She and Bill were off the coast of Maine on a cruising windjammer. . . . John Morgan, a graduate student at the University of Missouri School of Journalism, has been named a Herrick Scholar and received a $1,500 Lafayette Young Scholarship.

I spent a marvelous summer touring Ireland (not Northern), soaking up the blarney and trying not to overdo it on those delicious steaks and potatoes. I have a new job — research assistant at M.I.T. on a project studying aspects of population with relation to conflict. It's fascinating. And I've moved to a new address, right on Harvard Square. Drop in.

She's teaching French to kids in grades three through eight, a housemother in a girls' dorm and a coach. . . . Sue Evans spent three weeks in England, Scotland and Wales. Sue made a trip to the Lakes Region (the mark of a dedicated English major). Husband, Barry, is taking courses prior to going to the State Police Academy in January when state funds are replenished. . . .

I'm taking a graduate course in Thoreau and Emerson, and teaching English for my third year in Wakefield (Mass.) High. I'm active in the Merrimack Colby Alumnae Association as chairman of public relations, and with my church. I sing in the choir and am on the music committee.

I hope I'll be hearing from each one of you in the near future.

I've received a letter from Donna Sundeen in Kulim, Kedah, Malaysia. Donna has completed her first year in the Peace Corps as a math and science teacher in a Malay medium primary school. She finds her work fascinating and rewarding but is getting nostalgic thoughts about autumn and winter in New England. . . . Mike Tibbetts, also in the Peace Corps, is teaching grade school in Liberia. . . .

Skip Wood has returned from some extensive traveling. Starting last October he visited many European countries including Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Bulgaria and Rumania, and such exotic places as Istanbul, New Delhi, Rhodes, Crete and the Peloponnesos. . . . Michele Poplawski is in an M.A. degree program in French at Middlebury College. J. . . . Peter Daigle, assistant innkeeper at Waterville's Holiday Inn, has been promoted to innkeeper after completing a training program in Memphis, Tenn. Pete and his wife, Maureen, are living in Waterville. . . . Jane Sawyer has returned from an interesting trek across the country during which she was tutor-babysitter for a Jefferson couple's four children. Their father, math department chairman at Lincoln Academy, had a Ford Foundation Leadership Development Fellowship to study modern schools throughout the country and work at four of them. . . . UN Quarterback Brian Cone (Littleton, Mass.) flips a sideline pass to running back Joe Mattos (East Providence, R.I.) against the Coast Guard Academy Sept. 25. The Cadets dampened Homecoming spirits with a 24-13 win.

After a shaky start, the football team rallied behind a poised quarterback and slashing freshman runner to roll over Tufts, Hobart and Bates.

Tailback Peter Gorniewicz (Ipswich, Mass.) made a private assault on the record book. With only Maine Maritime Academy to play at presstime, the six-foot, 180-pounder had gained 905 yards on 221 carries and set records for most touchdowns (11), and yards gained in a game (209 against Bates).

Junior quarterback Brian Cone (Littleton, Mass.) and classmate David Lane (Saco) at split end were a productive team. Cone had completed 49 of 90 passes for 605 yards. Lane grabbed 38 passes including the 25-yard strike that beat Hobart. The team loses only five seniors: co-captains Dave Graves (Orono) and Andy Campbell (Moorestown, N.J.), Mike Miniutti (Biddeford), Don Borman (Chappaqua, N.Y.) and Greg Chapman (Easton, Mass.).

Championships. But the team had its own champion in diminutive Lew Paquin (Barre, Mass.), the disciplined junior who set course records at Colby, Bates and Bowdoin, and remained unbeaten after two years of dual meet competition. His MIAA win at Bates Oct. 26 was one of six for the season. Co-captain Bob Hickey (Yarmouth Port, Mass.), the team's only senior, closed out a bright career. The victories were over the University of Maine's Portland-Gorham and Presque Isle teams, and Maine Maritime.

Soccer

A 3-2 overtime win in the final game with Bates was the bright note in an otherwise unsuccessful season. The squad, with senior co-captains John Koons (Oakland) and Bruce Frisbie (Longmeadow, Mass.), had trouble scoring and ended up with a 3-7 record. The State Series mark was 1-5.

Tennis Champions

Carolyn Estes (Rye, N.Y.), a sophomore, successfully defended her singles title while junior Jacquelyn Nienaber (Ridgewood, N.J.) and sophomore Nancy Mungall (Radnor, Pa.) defeated Bates for the doubles crown in the Maine Collegiate Women's Tennis Championships at Colby in October.
