TO JOSEPH S. FORD

Dear Ford,

My letter went off to Latham Sunday night, so I suppose he got both of them

about the same time—as we arranged it I[t] probably tickled him more or less to read them—particularly mine, for my handwriting, I am told, is sure to be good for two shirts at any Chinese laundry. I say this for your benefit for some day you may be hard up and in need of fresh linen

I got my fiddle to day and shall soon be making strange noises. I cant hold the thing very well yet

and this morning I burned the end of my left third finger, so it will be a little awkward at first But I'll be a maestro so [=or] something of that kind in two or three weeks, and when you come to see me again I'll entertain you with a kind of music you never heard before.—I suppose you are by this time well into Jack<sup>1</sup> and I am confident that you will like it. The first chapters

are a little slow and not altogether pleasing. But that is only for a few pages.

Give my regards to Hubbell when you see him
Very truly yours
E.A. Robinson
